NewAttitudeShown by Congress.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—An Eastertide survey of New Deal reverses in congress as an echo of the November landslide is interesting lawmakers and politicians looking for trends in 1944 and on the fourth term candidacy.

During the 10 days' recess some legislators have trekked back home to get an earful from the grassroots, while others are remaining on the scene. A recapitulation of the setbacks administered to the administration since this congress met Jan. 6, shows the change that has come over capitol hill since the fall elections.

Congress last week took back a power which it relinquished to the President 10 years ago. Two days before recessing, final action was taken on a measure which reclaims from President Roosevelt the power to change the value of the American dollar by changing its gold content, within limits. This authority was delegated to Mr. Roosevelt in the early days of the New Deal when its emblem was the rubber stamp.

Both Houses Rebel.

When an extension of this power was sought this year, senate and house voted no. The house went a bit further. It put on an amendment prohibiting the executive department from turning over the 2 billion gold stabilization fund to any post-war international bank without congressional consent. Secretary Henry L. Morgenthau had envisioned such a bank. The senate concurred with the house and the bill is on its way to the White House. This action, intended to recapture for congress one of its constitutional powers which it had handed over to the President, seems typical of the atmospher eof the capitol.

Congress has given full support to all measures for the actual conduct of the war, but the New Deal itself has sustained a series of defeats.

Salary Ceiling Killed.

One of the most severe blows at the President's prestige came when congress knocked out the President's executive order placing a ceiling of $25,000 on incomes after payment of taxes. The New Deal did its utmost to stop this wallop, but failed. Congress said the President had no right to issue such a mandate.

Another Roosevelt defeat was the refusal of the senate to confirm the appointment of Edward J. [Paving Blocks] Flynn, Democratic national chairman, to be minister to Australia and presidential roving ambassador in the far Pacific. When defeat in the senate appeared certain the President withdrew this appointment.

Henderson Forced Out.

The President's nomination of James V. Allred, former governor of Texas, to be judge of the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals, was another cause of tribulation. Allred, a New Dealer, resigned from the federal bench to run against Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel, a Democrat marked for a purge. O'Daniel won. The senate judiciary committee failed to approve the new appointment of Allred to the bench. Deeming it payment for a political favor and as playing politics with the judiciary. Sen. Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], chairman of the judiciary committee, said that so far as the judiciary committee is concerned, this kills the appointment.

Reverses for the New Deal in fact began before the present congress met. In a message the day before election the President asked congress to give him sweeping war time powers to suspend tariff and immigration laws. This proposal to annul laws, protecting labor, agriculture, industry, and commerce, died in committee.

Leon Henderson, price czar, was forced to quit in December as a re-

Navy Department Refuses Comment.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Berlin radio said last night that the 10 year old 14,500 ton United States aircraft carrier Ranger had been sunk by a German submarine in the North Atlantic. There was no confirmation of this axis report from any allied source. In Washington naval spokesmen had no comment to make.

An announcement broadcast by Berlin and recorded in New York by the Associated Press said:

"The supreme command of the armed forces announced from the Fuehrer's headquarters: One submarine, commanded by Lt. Comm. von Buelow, has sunk in the middle North Atlantic the United States aircraft carrier Ranger, which was employed for the guarding of a convoy lane across the Atlantic."

First Real U. S. Carrier.

The announcement added that Hitler had conferred the oak leaves to the knight's insignia of the iron cross on Lt. Comm. von Buelow.

The Ranger, America's first naval vessel designed from keel to flight deck as an aircraft carrier, was launched in the James river at Newport News, Va., on Feb. 25, 1933, and was christened by Mrs. Herbert Hoover in one of her last acts as first lady.

The ship was built to carry a complement of 1,788 men, including flying personnel.

Had Accidental Fire.

The Ranger's rated speed was 30 knots. The vessel was 765 feet long and had a beam of 90 feet and 20½ feet draft. Its first commander was Capt. Herbert Leary.

The Ranger beat its contract on both speed and economy in trials before being commissioned at Newport News, on May 26, 1934.

In July, 1939, a welder's spark ignited a pocket of gasoline and did some damage and injured seven men on the Ranger at Norfolk, Va. After the European war began, the Ranger was operating with the Atlantic squadron on neutrality patrol.

A STRANGE BIRD OUTSTARES BOYS AND FLIES AWAY

A strange bird sat in a tree and stared down at a crowd of 20 curious men and boys in the 5200 block on Laflin street for an hour last night.

It had a sharp bill about four inches long, and a neck that stuck up straight from the shoulders, and its feathers were striped brown and bright yellow in circles like a zebra's. From bill to tail, the bird was about 18 inches long, said Lee Lane, 5207 Laflin street, who thought it might have escaped from a zoo.

But the strangest thing about it was the way it just sat and looked with unblinking eye as spectators threw things into the tree. They wanted to see its wing spread. Lane saw the brd first, at 7:10 p. m., and he called it to the attention of a friend. The two men stood looking up into the tree, and the bird sat looking down at them, and the crowd grew. They threw sticks at first, then cans and stones, and anything loose. They stopped throwing at 8:15, and the bird flew away, northwest.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 25 (AP).—Approaching unidentified targets, later identified as friendly brought a black out of Los Angeles and its suburbs for 56 minutes tonight. Radio stations were silenced. Police worked for nearly all of the black out period gaining entrance to the unoccupied office of Mayor Fletcher Bowron in city hall so they could turn off the lights.

Fireplace Blamed for Death of 4 in Millionaire's Family

Sparks from a wood burning fireplace were blamed last night for the fire which swept thru the 23 room mansion of Robert M. Roloson Jr., 39 year old millionaire director of the United Air Lines, killing Roloson and three members of his family. The fire, officials learned, was burning in the first floor library and sparks are believed to have set fire to a rug.

The blaze started shortly after 1 a. m. yesterday. Those who perished, either from fatal burns or from asphyxiation, were Roloson, his wife, Ellen, 36; their daughter, Cary Belle, 12, and their son, Edward, 5.

Another Son Rescued.

Another son, Robert, 9, was the only member of the family who was saved. He was rescued by Capt. David Woods of the Winnetka fire department as he struggled frantically to open the storm window of his second floor room. Capt. Woods mounted a ladder, ripped open the window, and carried the child to safety.

John R. Heath, attorney, estimated that the fire caused more than $50,000 damage to the Roloson home, 76 Locust drive, Winnetka.

The Winnetka fire department was notified by Louise Schaeffler, a maid, who discovered the fire. Her account of the tragedy follows:

Hears Girl Cry "Fire."

"I was awakened by a banging sound. I thought the children had gotten up and were playing in the hall. Then I smelled smoke, and when I opened the door to my room I saw the hall was filled with smoke. I heard Cary Belle open her door and yell 'Fire!'

"I groped my way thru the smoke to the second floor telephone and called the fire department. Then I ran downstairs to notify Neils Jorgensen, the caretaker, who lived in a lodge apart from the house. The firemen arrived in just a few minutes."

Boy Tells of Others Inside.

The rescue of Robert was accomplished before any of the bodies were found. As Woods pulled him thru the half opened window, the child cried, "My mother and father and sister and brother are still in there."

Firemen, fighting thru the smoke and flames inside the house, found the body of Edward, lying asphyxiated upon the floor of his room, surrounded by his toys.

Mrs. Roloson's body was found on the floor of the powder room adjoining her bedroom. She was badly burned but death was believed to have been caused by suffocation.

Find Daughter Unconscious.

Cary Belle, unconscious, was discovered at the foot of the rear stairs. Apparently she had escaped from her room and had tried to fight her way to the back door. An inhalator squad worked for more than two hours in a vain effort to resuscitate the girl.

Further search for bodies was delayed as the fire grew more intense, and it was not until 45 minutes after firemen arrived that the blaze was brought under control sufficiently to permit reëntry into the home. It was then that Roloson's body, charred almost beyond recognition, was found at the head of the main stairs near his room.

Almost untouched by flames was the huge living room of the home, in which a family Easter party was to have been held yesterday. Easter baskets, colored eggs, candy, and toy bunnies were scattered profusely about the room in anticipation of the party.

Home a Show Place.

The Roloson home, of English style architecture, was one of the show places of the Woodley subdivision. Its grounds were spacious and beautifully landscaped, and dotted with evergreen shrubbery.

Roloson in 1935 inherited an estate valued in excess of 5 million dollars from his father, the late Robert Marshall Roloson, investment broker. Mrs. Roloson was the former Ellen Ballinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lees Ballinger of Evanston. She was married to Roloson in 1929.

Funeral services for all four victims will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in St. Mark's church, Evanston.

WITHDRAW JAPS NEAR MARENGO

In face of a storm of resentment raised by residents of the section, the Curtiss Candy company said last night that it would withdraw at once three Japanese-American farmers who had been released from a west coast evacuation camp and brought to Marengo as the vanguard of a party of 16 to work the company's 2,200 acre truck gardens on route 20 west of the city.

Seek Delay of Other 13.

Schnering said the war relocation board which requested the company to employ the Japanese-American farmers, who are citizens, as a means of relieving a shortage of farm labor, also will be requested to delay temporarily the assignment of the 13 additional workers who are en route to the farm.

Schnering said the company had been assured by the war relocation authority that the three Japanese and others on the way were not released until after a thoro inquiry had been made into all aspects of their citizenship and all questions as to their loyalty had been settled.

He asserted he believed that much of the resentment toward the farmers was based "on the failure of the general public to become sufficiently acquainted with the relocation authority program for the employment of Japanese who are citizens of the United States.

Mayor Opposes Employment.

Mayor Miller said he definitely was opposed to employment of the Japanese-Americans until the situation is clarified.

"A large number of families near Marengo have boys in service," he said. "Resentment has been running high here as it has in other sections since the news of the Tokio atrocities [executions of American airmen who bombed Tokio] were released."

The three farmers, Earl Ishino, 24 years old, Atsusa Sakuma, 27, and his brother, Tsukasa, 21, who spent last week cutting seed potatoes for planting, expressed surprise that Marengo residents objected to their presence.

Chief of Yank Land Forces Hurt in Tunisia

Lt. Gen. Ben Lear.

Altho the war department's announcement today gave no details of the Friday mishap to the commanding general of all army ground forces, Col. R. Ernest Dupuy, chief of the news division of the department's bureau of public relations, reported later in the army hour broadcast that the general was seriously wounded. The war department said the "exact circumstances are not yet known."

Lt. Gen. Ben Lear, commander of the 2d army, with headquarters at Memphis, Tenn., was called to Washington to take temporary command of the ground forces. Lear, who only last week received the distinguished service medal, was to be retired on May 31 under the statutory age limit of 64 years, but is scheduled for immediate recall to duty.

On Inspection Trip.

The announcement of McNair's mishap was the first disclosure that McNair was in Africa. The army said he was on an inspection trip.

McNair, 59, has had a distinguished army career, and once was described by Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, as the "brains of the army."

Graduated from West Point in 1904, McNair served with the Funston expedition to Vera Cruz, Mexico, in 1914, Gen. John J. Pershing's expedition to northern Mexico in 1916-'17, and with the first AEF in France.

In 1941 he directed America's prewar games, which pitted Lear's 2d army against the 3d army, commanded by Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger, across half the state of Louisiana.

Reorganized Many Units.

From 1940 on into the war years, McNair flew from one army camp to another, taking his outfits apart and putting them together again as long experience as an artilleryman dictated.

He was made commander of all army ground forces in March, 1942. His opinions of the war were emphasized in a speech he made last November when he told American soldiers they must develop a "lust for battle."

"Our soldiers must have the fighting spirit," he declared. "We must lust for battle, our object in life must be to kill; we must scheme and plan night and day to kill.

"There need be no pangs of conscience, for our enemies have lighted the way to faster, surer, crueler killing.

Lear Rose from Ranks.

"We must hurry to catch up with them if we are to survive. Since killing is the object of our efforts, the sooner we get in the killing mood the better and more skilful we shall be when the real test comes."

Lear, who has risen thru the ranks from a private in the Colorado National Guard 45 years ago, is remembered by the public for the "Yoo-hoo" incident of the 1941 war games. He administered a forced march as punishment to a company of soldiers he heard "Yoo-hooing" to girls they passed by. He has commanded the 2d army since Oct. 1, 1940.

Fredendall at Memphis.

Maj. Gen. Lloyd H. Fredendall, who commanded the task force landing at Oran, Algeria, last November, had been previously designated to succeed Lear as commander of the 2d army on Lear's scheduled retirement next month. He has been at Memphis for some time, serving as Lear's deputy.

At least five other generals have been wounded in action since the war started.

Three were wounded in action against the Japanese in New Guinea. They are Brigadier Generals Hanford MacNider and Clovis E. Byers, and Maj. Gen. A. W. Waldron.

Brig. Gen. Clinton A. Pierce was reported a casualty in the Philippine Island campaign, and Maj. Gen. Orlando Ward was wounded in the North African theater.

Report Bombs Sank One of Italy's Newest Destroyers

LONDON, April 25 (AP).—The air ministry news service said today that the destroyer sunk during the R. A. F. raid on Spezia, Italy on April 18 was one of Italy's newest and largest. It displaced 1,600 tons and was armed with four 4.7 inch guns.

24 HOUR TANK BATTLE RAGES; ALLIES PUSH ON

Americans Push to Foot of 2 Peaks.

ALLIED HDQ. in NORTH AFRICA, April 25 (AP).—Gen. Harold Alexander, commander of allied ground forces, hurled the weight of British armor into a 24 hour long battle with two German tank divisions southeast of Goubellat, a headquarters spokesman announced today as fighting raged all along the 140 mile Tunisian front.

A French communique said French troops had captured the Djebel Mansour, a hill 10 miles southwest of Pont du Fahs, after a 24 hour battle and a further advance eastward continued in liaison with the British 8th army. A single French patrol was credited with the capture of 100 Italians.

Destroy 14 Nazi Tanks.

All the important spearheads in the allied semi-circle made gains toward Tunis and Bizerte against Germans ordered to fight to their last bullet. Fourteen German tanks were destroyed in the tangled engagement with the 10th and 15th panzer [armored] divisions in the sector south of Mejez el Bab, where the British advanced in two columns to 8 miles east of Goubellat and to Djebel Fouane, 10 miles southeast of Goubellat.

[The German controled Paris radio said allied tank assaults by the 1st army on a "gigantic scale" had driven wedges into the axis lines. Lt. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson, 1st army commander, is "throwing masses of tanks into the fighting," this broadcast said. A Berlin broadcast recorded by the Associated Press reported that a "big and violent battle on the eastern front of the German-Italian line of defense in Tunisia is continuing with unabated force," and said that reports indicated that "at some place or other the Anglo-American attack had certain local successes."]

Americans Keep Up Pressure.

The 2d United States army corps of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., maintaining pressure along the northern sector, beat off German counter-attacks on the Djebel Ain Houna and thrust to the foot of the two heavily fortified peaks, Green hill and Bald hill, about 15 miles west of Mateur, and within 30 miles of Bizerte.

[A dispatch by a New York Times war correspondent said: "The Americans who are locked in the biggest battle of their experience have inflicted severe losses on the Germans and have sustained severe casualties of their own."]

In some of the bloodiest fighting the Tunisian campaign has seen, British infantry stormed to the stony heights of Verdun-like Long Stop hill and gained a secondary peak beyond, about eight miles northeast of Mejez el Bab. [This advance apparently put the British 1st army within 10 miles of Tebourba, the gateway to Tunis, and within 24 miles of Tunis.]

All Forces Engaged.

The axis forces were now engaged in every sector of the front by French, Americans, and the British 1st and 8th armies. It was believed all of the enemy's reserves had been committed to the desperate struggle to maintain the mountain rim positions.

An indication of the determination of the Germans to hold to the last gasp was seen in the report by some of the 900 prisoners captured in the 8th army's thrust north of Enfidaville on the southern sector that they had been ordered to hold their posts regardless of cost and to fight until their ammunition was exhausted.

[The London radio, in a broadcast recorded in New York, asserted that the 8th army on the Nazi southern front had forced a new advance, driving along the coastal plain "for about 12 miles from Enfidaville, and is now within striking distance of Bou Ficha."]

Territorial Gains Small.

Altho allied gains in territory were small in the last 24 hours, German losses in men and material were described as "extremely heavy" in the Goubellat armored clash and northeast of Mejez el Bab,

PRICE OF SMALL DIAMONDS FOR JEWELRY BOOMS

Commercial Supply for Drills Adequate.

A shortage of small diamonds for popular luxury jewelry was reported yesterday in Chicago, while the nation's demands for the precious stones is sky-rocketing prices.

Refugee diamond cutters who fled to New York from Antwerp, Belgium, and Amsterdam, the Netherlands, had lines of buyers waiting last week, it was reported in local trade circles, and the cutters complained of difficulty in obtaining new rough stones. The output of roughs is a British monopoly, operated by the Diamond Trading company, which sifts the stones to the market at any desired rate. Some New York cutters, however, were said to be offering unusual numbers of cut stones for sale late last week.

Enough Commercial Diamonds.

Commercial diamonds, used in industrial drills and costing from 80 cents to $1 a carat, except in the case of special carbon diamonds which may cost as high as $100 to $150 and are used in oil well drills, are being received in this country in quantities adequate to meet demands.

The United States is taking the entire production of commercial diamonds in Brazil, said to be the principal source. In 1941 the United States consumed 3,000,000 carats of commercial diamonds, and the anticipated consumption in 1943 is 7,500,000. Stocks in America are believed almost equivalent to two years' consumption.

Prices of jewelry diamonds on the Chicago retail market are, on an average, 50 per cent higher than last year, a dealer estimated yesterday, and stones in the more popular sizes are up 300 per cent above their price three years ago.

Doubt Investment Value.

Despite these spectacular increases, it was said diamonds are not a true investment for the public if they are bought at retail, because the average purchaser can have little hope of reselling for a higher price than he paid.

Diamond dealers are eager to buy from the public, but few stones are being sold in the smaller sizes of $100 to $150 value. Owners of diamonds in 5, 6, 8, and 10 carat sizes are finding this a profitable time, however, to liquidate these gems.

H. L. Zimmerman, of the American Diamond Syndicate, 37 South Wabash avenue, a wholesale concern, said he cannot buy enough small diamonds to meet the needs of his clients.

"The public is buying a tremendous amount of diamonds, but the cutters are having trouble getting roughs, which is causing a shortage," he said. "The result is that prices are way up."

Predicts New York Center.

New York will be the diamond cutting center of the world after the war, because of the business being established there today by experts from former capitals of the industry, Zimmerman believes.

Other finished diamonds being received in this country are being cut by refugees in Cuba and Palestine, he said.

Antwerp, before the war, employed 12,000 cutters and Amsterdam 5,000. They earned $5 to $10 a week each on piece work. Diamond cutters in New York, the highest paid craftsmen in the country, have scales ranging from $120 to $195 for a 35 hour week.

Apprentices Go to Army.

It is difficult to train young men in the craft because it is a luxury industry and the apprentices are drafted by the army. Zimmerman foresees invention of a machine that will "cut diamonds in bunches instead of one at a time by hand."

"I do not think the refugee craftsmen who moved to New York from Europe will return to the old countries," Zimmerman said, "because America is too sweet a land for them to leave. They will make New York the diamond cutting center of the world. But the British still will control the diamond mines."

Abandoned Baby

A husky 10 pound baby boy, not more than three days old, who cried lustily enough to attract passersby, was found abandoned yesterday behind the shrubbery near the entrance to the Chappell school, 5145 North Leavitt street.

Wrapped in a blue and white blanket, the baby was left in a paper bag sometime after the morning shower, since the bag was dry. His cries stopped Victor Asplund, 5050½ North Winchester avenue, and his son, Roger, who searched until they found the source in the partly concealed bag.

After the infant was fed at Swedish Covenant hospital, he was taken by Summerdale police to St. Vincent's orphanage. He has blue eyes and dark hair and is sound and healthy, attendants said.

BEGIN VACATION IN MIDDLE OF WEEK, ODT ASKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation, has requested business and industry to begin and end employé vacations on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, the ODT announced today.

J. B. Eastman.

In addition, Eastman asked business and industry to start scheduling these vacations immediately and to spread them thruout the year, staggered to avoid heavy holiday travel.

Eastman's request was made in a letter to executives of 2,500 trade associations and similar groups. He told them railroads and bus lines would be unable to handle vacation travel this year if it were concentrated in July and August.

He asked vacationers to stay as close to home as possible and avoid travel if possible.

NEW HONOR FOR BUDYENNY.

MOSCOW, April 25 [AP].—Marshal Semeon M. Budyenny, Red army commander on the Ukraine front in the early months of the war, was awarded the order of Lenin on his 60th birthday anniversary today for his long and valuable services. The new order is Budyenny's 12th decoration.

ENOUGH GRADE A TIRES HERE TO SUPPLY 100,000

That Number of 'B' Book Holders Eligible May 1.

Tire dealers in Chicago have ample stocks to supply 100,000 motorists with B gasoline rationing books in this area who may buy grade A tires May 1 if their present casings are past repair.

Tire rationers in Washington announced the ruling over the week-end. Earlier, it had been reported that the burocrats have been worrying that the casings of pre-war tires might deteriorate after being frozen on dealers' shelves since Pearl Harbor.

100,000 Can Qualify.

Chicago's 50 rationing boards had issued 103,998 B gasoline books, and 55,144 C books up to Jan. 1, 1943. Some of these motorists have failed to renew their B coupons, but it was estimated yesterday that 100,000 still can qualify for the best tires.

Mandel A. Terman, who operates a tire shop at 3618 Milwaukee avenue, spokesman for Tire Dealers, Inc., an association of 250 Chicago dealers, said yesterday that local stocks of tires of the pre-war "100 level" type are good, but lesser grade stocks are low.

"The office of price administration has lumped four pre-war grades into its own definition of 'grade A,'" Terman said.

$18.14 Ceiling Price.

"There is the old 100 level No. 1 grade, which should be good for at least 40,000 miles under present conditions, and which has a ceiling price of $18.14.

"The 85 level, 75 level and 65 level grades, of pre-war standards also are included now under the grade A grouping."

He said there are 3½ or 4 million tires of the 100 level grade in stock in the country. Chicago dealers will draw on this pile. Approximately 25,000 of the "victory tires," on which manufacturing ceased March 31, remain on local shelves, and their ceiling price is $13.25. Ceiling on the No. 2 grade is $12.40.

Tires Must Be Condemned.

Terman said B book drivers must have their present tires condemned as beyond repair or recapping before his rationing board will issue a permit to purchase a replacement.

A motorist whose present tires have been abused by being driven too far for recapping will be refused a permit.

TWO LIEUTENANTS KILLED IN CRASH OF ARMY BOMBER

Northern Field, Tenn., April 25 (AP).—Two army flyers were killed yesterday and a rear gunner was critically injured when a light army bomber crashed two miles north of here. The base public relations officer said those killed were 1st Lt. Harley W. Jefferson, 33 years old, observer, of Sparta, Wis., and 2d Lt. Theodore J. Schwink, 22, pilot, of Fort Smith, Arkansas. Staff Sergt. Edward E. Eames, 23, of Culver City, Cal., was taken to Camp Forrest hospital with internal injuries.

CAP Pilot Lost in Sea.

Atlantic City, N. J., April 25 (AP).—The civil air patrol public relations office announced 2d Lt. Ben Berger, 26 years old, of Denver, Colo., crashed to his death today when his plane plunged into the waters of Beach Thoroughfare. Berger was on a flight mission for the civil air patrol.

BRITISH PLANES ATTACK BELGIAN BARGES, TRAINS

LONDON, April 25 (AP).—British fighter planes conducted widespread operations over Belgium and France today, attacking German rail and water transportation, the air ministry announced. The heaviest attacks were on barges in a Belgian canal near Bruges. At least nine were damaged. A locomotive was destroyed west of Ghent and another was damaged. Two planes were lost.

Aircraft of the coastal command attacked enemy shipping off the Norwegian coast yesterday afternoon. A medium sized vessel was hit with torpedoes, the air ministry said.

CHICAGO'S CO. E PROVES METTLE IN GUADALCANAL

Commander Returns and Tells of Heroic Deeds.

Chicago's own Company E, which had a habit of marching off with honors in National Guard days, has earned highest army regard in five months of bitter trial by fire on Guadalcanal, its commander, Maj. Frank Raymond, 37 years old, 2048 Newcastle street, said upon his return to Chicago yesterday.

The Chicago infantry company played major rôles in two of the most important maneuvers on the island—charging up Mount Austin and sailing halfway around the island to attack the Japs from the rear.

"The Japs had dug in at the foot of the mountain," the officer said. "The first day on the hill, Jan. 4, our losses were pretty heavy. We ran short on ammunition, so I ordered the boys to fix bayonets and use them to hold our positions during the night. The next day natives brought us some more ammunition.

Flees Hospital to Help.

"The boys were wonderful. I remember one boy, Sergt. Dain, had one arm paralyzed the first day but sneaked out of the hospital that night and came back up the hill to help carry ammunition. It was a hard job to get him to leave."

The trip around the island was a complete surprise to the Japs, Maj. Raymond said, and thus Company E came thru with no casualties.

Natives worked with Japs after the Japs first arrived, but when mistreated fled to the hills, coming down and joining the Americans when the Yanks landed to help them restore their freedom.

"I don't know what we would have done without the natives," the major said.

Two other veterans arrived home from Guadalcanal, Pvt. Robert Hollowed, 20, 1327 North Massasoit avenue, and Lt. [s. g.] Thomas J. Ball, formerly of Wheaton.

Hollowed told about the battle for Assamano, native village deep in the jungle. The fight began at dawn last Armistice day and lasted until 4 p. m., when the last of the 400 Japs in the village was killed.

Wounded in Foot.

Hollowed was shot in the foot late in December when a six man marine patrol came up against three Japs on patrol. Hollowed was the only Yank injured. All three Japs were killed.

Hollowed added another incident to the account of the Pearl Harbor attack. On Dec. 7, 1941, Hollowed said he was standing guard at a marine guardhouse. As soon as the attackers were identified as Japs the guardhouse was thrown open. "Nobody had to worry about the prisoners," he said. "There was a job to do, and we forgot they were prisoners."

Lt. Ball arrived in Wheaton just in time to marry Nellie Wermine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo H. Wermine, 312 East Harrison avenue, at an Easter afternoon ceremony in St. Michael's church at Wheaton.

Downed Four Times.

Lt. Ball, dive bomber pilot on the Lexington when it was sunk, won the navy cross and an Australian medal. He was shot down once at sea and three times when stationed at Guadalcanal as a fighter pilot after the Lexington was lost.

The last time he was shot down he crashed his plane in a jungle, wandered for three days before finding a native village just before losing consciousness from malaria. The natives carried him to Henderson field.

The flyer and his bride plan to visit Lt. Ball's mother, Mrs. Wilbur Meek, in El Paso.

KIDNAP CHARGE WILL NAME OAK FOREST WOMAN

Mother and 5 Others Identify Her.

Mrs. Anna Werf, 41 years old, Oak Forest housewife who shuns new clothes and wears her oxfords unlaced, undoubtedly will be charged with the kidnaping of Barbara Jean Urmston, 4 months old, from a baby buggy at 63d and Halsted streets Saturday afternoon, Charles McNamara, assistant state's attorney, said yesterday.

Mrs. Anna Werf.

Mrs. Werf, arrested in the loop late Saturday night, was identified by the mother of the kidnaped baby and by five others as having been seen near the kidnaping scene, or with the child. The baby was found abandoned in an alley in the rear of 1530 Dearborn parkway just before midnight Saturday.

Parries Most Questions.

Sitting glumly thru a two hour questioning in Englewood police station, Mrs. Werf parried most queries with, "I don't know," or "I don't remember." Occasionally she remarked, "What is this, April Fool's day instead of Easter?"

"I don't see why people abuse me," Mrs. Werf told reporters. "I love dogs, but the dogs I love always get run over. I love babies, but I have never had a baby."

Her husband, Andrew, formerly a painter and now a war plant worker, said his wife left their home at 15537 South Cicero avenue, Oak Forest, at 1:20 p. m., Saturday, saying she was going to a movie. She boarded a bus bound for 63d and Halsted streets, he said.

McNamara said Fred Gallo, 45, a war plant inspector who rooms at 1439 North Clark street, would be held as a material witness. Gallo first identified Mrs. Werf as the kidnaper.

Flees When Accused.

He told police Mrs. Werf, carrying the baby, came to his room Saturday afternoon. She first said the child was hers, Gallo said, but later asserted she was adopting it. She fled with the baby, he said, when he read of the kidnaping and accused her of stealing the baby.

Four of several other witnesses located by Sergt. John Olson and his detective staff linked Mrs. Werf with the kidnaping.

Barbara Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Urmston, 3534 West 83d place, slept yesterday in the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bronkema, 7041 Aberdeen street. She had been sick since being returned home, her mother said, as a result of missing a couple of meals Saturday.

PROFESSOR AND HIS BOMBER BOYS DO IT AGAIN FOR RUTGERS

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, April 24 [Delayed]—(AP).—The Liberator came home with its No. 3 engine dead, its left wing pocked with bullet holes, but at Wewak and in the sea were five Japanese Zeros and their pilots.

Two weeks ago it was a big Japanese transport they sent to the bottom at Hansa bay. Less than a week ago it was a twin engined fighter which crashed in flames.

This time the five Zeros were destroyed in a 30 minute fight around the enemy's new stronghold at Wewak, northeastern New Guinea.

The crew climbed from the ship tired, dirty, and happy as high school kids who had just won a football game.

They related that they were flying along on reconnaissance at about 12,000 feet when two Zeros jumped them from each side. Eight more dropped from the clouds, making it 12 Zeros against one bomber. They shot down the first one.

A second Zero flew alongside and there must have been a lucky burst that killed the pilot, for the little fighter, without apparent damage to itself, shot off to the side and spun down until it crashed in the village.

A third Zero was seen to have been hit over the sea. It burned as it dropped away.

The fourth and fifth Zeros plunged out of control, flames sweeping back toward the pilots in their cockpits.

Capt. Whitlock figured that was enough, so he climbed for cover in the clouds and the remaining Zeros abandoned the fight.

U. S. TO CATALOG EVERY STUDENT IN HIGH SCHOOL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—The war department announced today it will make a detailed "vest pocket" record of the educational and work experience of every American high school student for draft classification use. The war department said 5 million cards for student listings will be distributed soon to all high schools.

The cards will show:

The student's name, birthdate and birthplace, social security number, home address, citizenship status, visual and hearing capacity, subjects studied, marks made, subjects liked most and least, records in aptitude and achievement tests, rank in class, special aptitudes, "significant hobbies, extracurricular activities, preferred peace time occupations, and evidence of leadership."

Those not entering the army will, when applying for a job in war or civilian industry, be able to give the employer's interviewer an authentic digest of his or her backgrounds, the department reported.

15 BILLION BOND TOTAL FORECAST BY MORGENTHAU

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—The Office of Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau announced today that the second war loan drive will end Saturday with the 13 billion dollar goal passed. From present indications the drive will bring in more than 15 billions.

Morgenthau had reported that well over 12 billion dollars' worth of government securities had been sold in the drive before the end of last week, and sale of more than enough to pass the minimum goal could now be counted.

Sales to Continue.

He called the public's attention to the fact that altho the special drive securities no longer will be for sale after the close of regular business hours next Saturday, sale of war bonds and stamps and tax savings notes will continue as usual.

He said that in order that all of the war bonds sold during the drive may be included in the grand total, the treasury will count all war bonds processed thru federal reserve banks all of next week [by May 8] in the drive total.

Next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the treasury will offer commercial banks the 2 per cent treasury bonds maturing in 1950-'52.

CHICAGO AREA NEAR GOAL.

With Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties near their goal of 370 million dollars in the second war loan drive, the committee now is aiming at half a billion dollars, Jay N. Whipple, director, said yesterday.

The new goal would outfit completely an army of approximately 4 million men, Whipple said.

The Austin B'nai B'rith lodge, with a goal of $300,000, reported yesterday it had raised $934,500 and hoped to reach a million dollars.

At Joliet, Ill., the warden's office reported that convicts at the two state prisons there had bought $4,000 worth of war bonds the last week, bringing their total purchases to $15,650. Diverting funds usually used for cigarets, candy, and cigars into war bonds has meant real sacrifice for them, the office said.

U. S. BREAK WITH FINLAND NEAR; MAY ACT TODAY

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 25 (AP).—Mounting indications pointed tonight to a break in diplomatic relations between the United States and Finland, perhaps tomorrow.

Reports from Helsingfors that German sources seemed confident that the Finns would string along with the axis added impetus to the belief that a rupture was imminent. Reports that relations already had been broken were described as "premature." Chargé d'Affaires Robert Mills McClintock made an appointment for 4 p. m. today to discuss an important matter, and then in the afternoon canceled it.

McClintock and a code clerk are the only members of the United states legation staff remaining in the Finnish capital, the others having gone to Stockholm late last week. A source close to the government said that "the Americans cannot expect us to tie a noose around our own necks."

THE AMERICAN AIRCRAFT CARRIER RANGER.

M'NARY DEMANDS CONGRESS KEEP TREATY POWERS

Scoffs at New Deal Trade Claims.

Washington, D. C., April 25 (AP).—A demand by Charles L. McNary of Oregon, senate Republican leader, that congress assume veto powers over reciprocal trade agreements tightened the lines today for a legislative fight over renewal of the administration's authority to negotiate such agreements.

McNary told reporters that prolonged political debate could be avoided and the renewal granted speedily if the administration would agree to give congress the right to nullify within 60 days by majority vote any agreement it did not approve.

McNary said he had learned "with surprise and disapproval" the viewpoint "of some of the New Deal leaders that the war effort of the united nations might crack if congress changed one word in the present trade agreement act."

"That implication is unworthy of our allies," he added.

George Sounds Warning.

Chairman Walter F. George [D., Ga.] of the senate finance committee had said previously that "any amendment to the act would be regarded by nations now associated with us and others as an indication that the American congress would not go along in any program of post-war reconstruction and co-operation." This, George said, "may have a serious effect on the war."

McNary, expressing disbelief that congressional action to amend the trade agreements act would affect the allies' attitude in fighting the war, observed:

"We have been told and many of us believe that they [our allies] are fighting to liberate mankind. Therefore, it is inconceivable that Russia, England, and China would desert us and their high objectives because the people of America, speaking thru congress, ask that the trade agreements be ratified before becoming effective.

"It may be argued that it is distinctly undemocratic to prohibit congress from expressing the popular will. Consequently, an amendment might well be written into the resolution to extend the act giving congress the right to veto by a majority vote any treaty within 60 days following its submission.

"If an agreement of that kind could be reached with the state department, it is my opinion that the act would be extended with the absence of prolonged political debate."

Will Fight Any Amendment.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull has made it clear the administration is determined to fight against any amendment at this time, thus confirming reports in congress that the administration had decided to fight for unamended renewal of the program.

Authority for the reciprocal trade program, expiring June 12, is up for a three-year renewal. It was first authorized in 1934, and has been renewed twice for three year periods. Under it the administration can obtain agreements with other nations providing for tariff reductions up to 50 per cent in return for reciprocal reductions. Still other countries which do not discriminate against American trade can obtain the same advantages.

WOMEN LAUNCH SUBMARINE THEY HELPED BUILD

Groton, Conn., April 25 (AP).—Female employés of the Electric Boat company, comprising a big portion of a crowd of 6,000 on hand for the ceremonies, got a thrill today when the Dace, the first submarine built here with their active help, slid down the ways at the plant's yard.

Rear Adm. Claude A. Jones of the bureau of ships, asserted that a "five ocean navy is fast becoming a reality, and despite battle losses, America has a stronger fleet than before Pearl Harbor."

Two women, among the first hired here for construction work on undersea fighters, burned away the restraining plates which released the Dace.

BOMBERS POUND FIVE JAP BASES IN NEW GUINEA

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, April 26 [Monday]—(AP).—Bombers attacked five Japanese bases in New Guinea and set fires on the airdrome at Wewak Sunday, the allied high command reported today.

A single Hudson bomber fought off four Zero fighters and damaged another over Dobo in the Aroe Islands. Long range fighters strafed the enemy occupied village of Feroeni on Trangan Island. Two enemy fighters attempted unsuccessfully to intercept.

The attack on Wewak airdrome was made by heavy bombers at night, while medium bombers attacked the town of Toeal in the Kai Islands.

CANADA MOVES TO GET WORKERS INTO WAR JOBS

New Orders Affect Men Subject to Draft.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 25.—Far-reaching powers to compel men in age groups subject to the draft to take employment in more essential war jobs is vested in Humphrey Mitchell, minister of labor, by two new orders in council, the minister announced tonight.

One authorizes him to forbid employers in specified industries from employing such men or continuing them in their employ. The men thus released will not be allowed, without permit, to take jobs in low priority work. Workmen who refuse to be transferred become subject to service in work camps, such as those in which conscientious objectors are put.

Expect Orders Soon.

Previously, the minister had general authority to direct men who were subject to the draft but were not accepted because of their medical category to accept other employment. The new regulations are, however, specific.

Orders to industries to release men in the class concerned will be issued soon. The first men to be affected will be bellhops, taxicab drivers, workers in confectionery stores, hair dressing parlors, cosmetic manufacturing, and cake and candy manufacturing. Barbers and men engaged in the manufacture of ladies' garments also may be affected. Retail stores will not be affected in the first orders, but may come under the second series.

Expenses to Be Paid.

The men will be directed to farming, lumbering, logging, fishing, and to a number of industrial plants, especially in the Niagara peninsula, where there is a shortage of workers in metallurgical jobs. The government will meet transportation costs. Expenses for work clothing will be provided in special cases.

"With expansion in the armed forces, intensification of our industrial production, and the urgent need for farm production, the time has arrived when all men of military age still employed in nonessential lines of work must be transferred to employment where their services will tell directly in our war effort," Mitchell said.

YANKS CAPTURE 8 HILLS IN TWO DAYS OF BATTLE

Big Guns Pound Nazis in Endless Attack.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. FORCES NORTHEAST OF BEJA, Tunisia, April 24 [Delayed].—American artillery, in the rain and cold again today, pounded the German positions on the heights along this front. A round the clock barrage by our 155 and 105 millimeter howitzers enabled the Yanks to seize three more strategic hills, making eight in all that have been captured by the Americans in the first two days of the new allied offensive.

The hills taken today were Oum Guerinat, 16½ miles east of Beja, Dar Amrous, and Decouat, both 18 miles northeast of Beja, and in an area about 30 miles southwest of Bizerte. The three hills lie in a row to the south of Kel el Goraa, which is 16½ miles northeast of Beja and 2 miles south of the Mateur road.

Bars Entrance to Valley.

Kef el Goraa is still in dispute and bars American entrance into the valley and the road beyond. This anchor peak, normally smooth-sided, has been viciously pock-marked by American shells, yet the Germans have hung tenaciously to its flank. And, dug in in the valley back of Kef el Goraa, the enemy has continued to reply with artillery fire and mortars.

[Allied headquarters dispatches yesterday said the Americans now hold Kef el Goraa.]

Many German shells went wild thudding harmlessly into the rain softened ground. With American artillery superiority evident in the area, the Germans resorted to roving spasmodic fire, trying to prevent discovery of the positions of their big guns and reduce the effectiveness of the American counter-battery attack. Altho there was this slackening in the intensity of the enemy fire during the day, it was still enough of a threat to hold up any infantry advance.

No Sleep and No Rest.

The powerful play of the American artillery and the enemy reaction to it was told by a captured German soldier, a veteran of all of Hitler's campaign. He characterized the pounding as unbearable, allowing no sleep and no rest.

The battle on one of the hills taken yesterday, a 350-foot height, was described today. Hand-to-hand struggles were necessary before some 200 Germans were slain or captured and the hill won. They were members of a replacement unit who were told by their commander not to dare to retreat or surrender, but to fight to the last man.

On the northern American flank today it was evident that not all of the enemy is that caliber of soldier. It was again found that as earlier in the campaign Adolf Hitler is becoming so short of man power, he is emptying some of the Nazi jails and concentration camps and using political prisoners and even felons in an attempt to strengthen his slipping African hold.

Blow to Military Caste.

This is a sad blow to the German military caste, one of the proudest in the world, whose officers when assigned to command these erstwhile prisoners frequently have to drive them into battle at pistol point.

Many of the prisoners are violently against Hitler and some sneak miles to the allied lines to give themselves up. It is reported that recently five of them refused to fire on American troops and were shot to death.

Against slighter resistance than around Beja, the northern American units registered more gains today and moved their patrols forward. Farther toward the coast northeast of Sedjenane the French continued to advance.

On the Americans' southeastern flank the British 1st army faced a counter-attack from the enemy on Long Stop hill.

Launched at 2 A. M. Friday.

On Friday American infantry supported by artillery captured five hills in opening the coördinated allied offensive against the axis' last bridgehead in Africa. All along the front—an arc with axis held Mateur at its center—the allies achieved their first objectives.

The zero hour, with the moon hidden behind murky clouds, was at 2 a. m. Friday. American 155 and 105 millimeter howitzers ushered in the action, smashing the night silence. Incessantly for a half hour shells roared into the German held hills halfway between Beja and Mateur.

At 2:30 a. m. the first infantry units moved into action and thereafter until 6 a. m. other infantry went forward at specified intervals. And the howitzers never let up their battering. At 5 a. m. the last German was driven from a hill, 565 feet high. In the next few hours Americans won possession of four other hills.

Watches from a Hill.

From an observation post atop still another hill I watched the artillery duel for Kef el Goraa. Our howitzers had been pounding the slope since the zero hour. In caves along the side the Germans had placed machine guns to halt our infantry. After the accurate American artillery fire had been working awhile, the caves were gaping wider than ever, but there was no more machine gun fire.

"If there are any Germans in those caves or atop the hill now, they're dead ones," Sergt. Vincent Hendryk of Richmond Hills, N. Y., an observer, told me. "There's no more small arms fire from there."

But the German resistance was still strong. From the flanks of the hill—mortar fire continued, pitting the neighboring allied-won hills, and raising white smoke bursts.

Chicagoan in Action.

From the valley and the road behind the hill Nazi howitzers lobbed shells, while every now and then their came the sharp crack of an 88 millimeter gun. A few shells whined in the direction of the observation post, but fell harmlessly far behind. By nightfall Friday our infantry was still unable to scale the hill because of stubborn enemy fire from behind and from more distant positions.

One of our 155 millimeter batteries was commanded by Capt. Marvin Flora, 535 East 102d street, Chicago. His executive officer is 1st Lt. Lewis Moncrief of Champaign, Ill. Their field coöperation continues a friendship which began when both were students at the University of Illinois.

For days before the allies jerked the trigger on what was planned to be the full scale victory offensive of the African campaign, there had been tenseness and many movements behind our lines. During this prelude to the attack every one knew it was coming and soon, yet the zero hour was a guarded secret.

The services of supply were doing their great job every hour of the day and night. As the allied commander said when announcing the action had begun:

"The men in supply hit their target. They moved tremendous quantities of supplies where they were needed. They deserve all the credit that can be given them."

Moved in the Night.

Thru those night hours the correspondents could hear the steady rumble of big vehicles moving along the dusty roads. They moved in darkness heavily laden with weapons, ammunition, gasoline, and other implements of war. Soldiers tramped the highways or rode packed in cars.

On steep mountains and difficult trails which hardly could be called roads, mules carried on with persistence. The mules—some normal in size, others underfed and stunted in growth—were furnished by the French who had procured them from the native Arabs. The mules toted not only compact supply packs, but artillery.

No movement of this magnitude could, of course, be wholly concealed from the enemy.

HEAVY ARMORED FORCES CLASH IN 24 HOUR BATTLE

where the British fought forward hill by hill.

This was the position along the front, beginning with the Goubellat and Mejez el Bab sectors:

GOUBELLAT: Altho the result of the wide-spread tank battles in which the British columns east and southeast of Goubellat were engaged was not clear, it appeared that the Germans were still holding an unbroken line.

An allied break-thru here would threaten from the rear a whole block of German hill positions on the southern front, where they are deepest in depth, including Pont du Fahs, Zaghouan, and the ridge line north of Enfidaville and Djebibina. [The British advance to 10 miles southeast of Goubellat appeared already to be threatening Pont du Fahs from the rear.]

Allies Capture One Town.

"Our tanks often encounter great mine fields and heavy anti-tank fire," the spokesman said. Among destroyed enemy armor were four 60 ton Tiger tanks.

MEJEZ EL BAB: The British 1st army, besides plunging 8 miles northeast of Mejez el Bab, also captured Sidi Medien, 8 miles to the southeast, in a twin thrust.

Both jabs were countered by German attacks, but the allied gains were held and the Germans had been driven off all but the final third of the trailing eastern end of Long Stop hill. [The British apparently had advanced about two miles along this dominating height.]

Picture in Other Areas.

Here was the picture in the other sectors, beginning in the north and proceeding southward:

CAPE SERRAT: Moroccan Goums [native troops] and French infantry, creeping along the mountains which skirt the Mediterranean, had advanced more than 12 miles from the Cape Serrat area in the last few days. [Apparently they were within at least 23 miles of Bizerte.]

MATEUR: American infantry, dashing up the slopes of the wrinkled hills, had turned aside continuous German attacks, and were in position to storm Green hill and Bald hill, the scenes of bloody fighting between British and Germans last winter. One of their objectives, Kef el Goraa—Hill 575—had been taken.

SOUTH OF BOU ARADA: The French corps advanced and linked up with the 8th army on the southern sector.

SOUTHERN SECTOR: The infantry of Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery had crashed against German mountain positions which it was able to penetrate for only slight gains.

R. A. F. Wellingtons in a night raid dropped two-ton blockbusters on the Bizerte docks and railroad station.

A reconnaissance report said that about 100 acres of docks and installations at Ferryville, on Lake Bizerte, had been wrecked as a result of previous bombings.

"ATTACKS REPULSED": NAZIS.

The German communique claimed British attacks in Enfidaville sector had been bloodily repulsed, but said the allies were trying to "force a decision" on the western flank. It asserted allied tank losses had been raised to 81 thru the fighting yesterday.

The Italian communique said the axis forces were engaged in "hard fighting" with "fresh and powerful armored and infantry" forces of the allies.

The Italians announced that they had bombed industrial installations at the port of Haifa in Palestine. [A Cairo communique said night fighters shot down one Italian raider and damaged another on Friday night.]

The Italians, announcing a raid on Naples last night by American four-engined bombers, said 47 persons were killed and 66 injured at Torre del Greco, a suburb.

TELLS OF ALLIED SUBS' FIGHT IN MEDITERRANEAN

Greeks, Poles and Dutch Join in Work.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD A BRITISH SUBMARINE TENDER IN A NORTH AFRICAN PORT, April 24 [Delayed].—Allied submarines prowling the Mediterranean off the Tunisian coast—considered the most dangerous waters east of the United States—have been taking such a heavy toll of axis merchant vessels and warships that the enemy has been forced to divert much of his supplies and many of his reënforcements to the air. One submarine flotilla since the start of the campaign has sunk or put out of action 50 large ships.

We learned something about this most hazardous naval arm today during a visit aboard this submarine mother ship with the senior submarine officer. With him were the flotilla commander and a handful of young submarine commanders, most of them in their middle twenties, who were shy, diffident, and over-modest about their accomplishments.

Subs Play Vital Part.

"Now that our enemies are fighting for their lives, they are constantly being denied the reënforcements and supplies which are so urgently needed," the senior officer said. "We put the maximum number of submarines it is possible to concentrate across their supply routes.

"I can assure you that sinkings both by submarines and the air force have been and are so heavy that when the history of this campaign is written it will be shown that the part the subs played was a vital and decisive one."

The officer spoke of the great work being done by the flotilla at Malta and the other allied submarines including French, Polish, Dutch, and Jugo-Slav. In particular he mentioned "the most gallant and effective work" of the Greek flotilla.

Under Close Watch.

He compared the vastly different conditions under which German U-boats and allied subs operate. The Germans, he said, have concentrated almost their entire naval building campaign on U-boats. The U-boats operate over the entire Atlantic virtually unharassed except when actually attacking convoys, since allied warships are used only for convoy protection.

In the Mediterranean axis supply lines are concentrated in a bottleneck. Allied submarines are constantly subject to attack by destroyers, "E" [motor torpedo] boats and aircraft, particularly now that axis escort vessels usually outnumber the merchantmen in a convoy.

To recuperate after another of their difficult tours at sea, submarine crews, here and at Malta, are sent into the country to rest at homes while in port.

A year ago at Malta, when the submarine base was taking a particularly vicious bombing, the flotilla commander found it impossible to keep the subs in the harbor for repairs. While their crews rested inland, spare crews took the subs to sea where the necessary maintenance and repairs were done submerged by day or on the surface at night.

The flotilla captain who was our host praised the coöperation of the Americans, particularly his friend, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark. The captain was involved in the submarine maneuver which took Clark to Africa and brought Gen. Henri Giraud from France before the North African campaign started.

Entertained by Sailors.

Recently Clark, who had given the captain an amphibious jeep, entertained the Briton, two sub commanders and 12 men giving them entertainment worthy of an admiral. In return, American infantrymen have been shown over submarines and entertained by the British sailors here.

The captain spoke admiringly of his commanders, citing one who ran aground in shallow water while attacking inside an axis harbor. When asked what he saw, the commander replied: "The local fire brigade turning out and a horse and cart within 50 yards of me, so I slid back off the mud bank and went to sea."

Another commander, at 37 years old the oldest by far in the group, said:

"I attacked three ships in a convoy. My torpedoes sunk two, while the third ship ripped ashore without waiting for me and I finished him off in due course."

U. S. Planes Bomb Lead and Zinc Works in Burma

WITH THE U. S. AIR FORCE IN CHINA, April 24 [Delayed]—(AP). — Mitchell bombers of the 14th United States air force dropped 10 tons of bombs today on Namtu, Burma, where the Japanese are producing lead and zinc for their war machine. The main targets were a smelter, a processing plant, and railroad yards in the town, which is 30 miles northwest of Lashio.

REDS TAKE HILLS RIMMING BLACK SEA BASE—NAZIS

Disclose Russian Gains at Novorossisk.

LONDON, April 26 [Monday]—(AP).—Russian troops have seized the rocky mountains rimming the Black sea port of Novorossisk, last major German base in the Caucasus, the Berlin radio acknowledged last night. The soviet midnight communique said that an attacking Red army had improved its positions in that area.

It was the first time Berlin had disclosed the nearness of the Russians to Novorossisk. A Transocean News agency broadcast reported that the Red army was "in possession of particularly good and strong positions in the rocky mountains around the town."

[The German high command communique broadcast from Berlin said that "apart from unsuccessful attacks by the soviets south of Novorossisk, there were no fighting actions of importance." The Russians were said to have lost 43 planes Saturday in combat against a loss of two German planes.]

Report Towns Captured.

The Russians a week ago had reported the capture of Abinskaya, 20 miles northeast of Novorossisk, and Anastasevskaya, 33 miles to the north, but soviet bulletins since have been confined to telling of a steady repulse of German counter-attacks, made in such strength as to indicate a major enemy effort to extend the constricted foothold in the Caucasus.

Fighting on that front yesterday consisted mostly of aerial combat, said the midnight Russian communique recorded by the soviet monitor.

Eighteen German planes were reported shot down in combat, and Red airmen also "scored direct hits on German planes and observed explosions" in a raid on an enemy airdrome.

In the increased aerial activity accompanying last week's ambitious German land efforts, the Russians said their airmen destroyed 381 enemy planes at a cost of 134 soviet aircraft.

Sink Nazi Submarine.

German troop casualties were said to have approximated 5,000 in one week's unsuccessful lunges at the encircling Red army which aims to eject the enemy from the Caucasus.

Soviet ships operating off the Caucasian coast also sank an enemy submarine, the communique said. Russian airmen on Saturday sank two enemy torpedo boats.

West of Rostov, along the Sea of Azov, the communique said, soviet gunners destroyed 11 blockhouses and dugouts yesterday, and field troops killed 100 Germans in repulsing one small counter-attack.

There were also patrol and guerrilla stabs on the front west of Moscow, but the army newspaper, Red Star, said 55 of the 100 German tanks thrown against the Russians in the Sevsk salient, 80 miles below Bryansk, had been destroyed in a three day combat.

ROB SOUTH SIDE RESIDENT.

Harry Walters, 5708 Drexel boulevard, told police yesterday two Negroes stopped him near his home and robbed him of $4.

Move French Women and Children from Coast

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

A total of 20,000 women and children have been removed from the French channel ports of Le Havre and Dieppe and the surrounding area, the Berlin radio said last night. The evacuees were taken to various places in the Eure-et-Loire department, a few miles southwest of Paris, the radio said, quoting a Vichy dispatch.

SIT-DOWNS SLOW FLOW OF STEEL 8 TIMES IN DAY

3 Mills Are Affected in Carnegie Plant.

Eight sitdown strikes by afternoon shifts in the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company's "south works" at 3429 East 89th street yesterday delayed production on various types of war material according to officials of the company. The strikes affected three mills, starting at 3 p. m. and ending at 6:15 p. m.

Two mills had sitdowns on three occasions and another had two work stoppages.

The strikers, who have a CIO union protest on working schedules pending before a grievance committee, threatened to shut down the 28 inch mill when the first strike from 3 to 3:45 stopped the work in the 22 inch structural mill, a company spokesman said.

More Join Sitdowns.

At the same time 12 men joined the sitdown in the 35 inch blooming mill engaged in making steel shapes and 28 workers quit from 3:35 to 3:45 in the 28 inch mill.

The striking groups repeated their sitdown in the 22 inch and 35 inch blooming mills from 5 to 5:15 and from 6 to 6:15 and the 28 inch structural mill workers quit again from 6:05 to 6:15.

All work was resumed at 6:15 p. m. Company officials reported six other sitdowns during the last five days.

Spontaneous Actions.

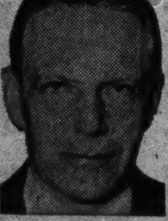
Albert M. Towers, president of the CIO local which is known as Hilding Johnson, said the strikes were spontaneous actions of the men and that the workers believe company officials were lagging in adjusting appeals on grievances.

More than 150 workers of the Gary works of the company returned to work last night after a series of sitdown strikes in the 18 inch merchant mill there.

They had been on strike in protest against the incentive pay scale which they declared gave them pay checks in smaller amounts than before the system was introduced.

INDIA REFUSES TO LET U.S. ENVOY TALK TO GANDHI

NEW DELHI, India, April 25 (AP).—William Phillips, President Roosevelt's special envoy to India, said in an interview today that the government of India had refused him an opportunity to meet Mohandas Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru, interned leaders of the All-India Congress political party.



William Phillips.

"I should have liked to have met and talked to Gandhi and Nehru," Phillips said in response to a question. "I have asked permission to see them but was told by proper authorities that they were unable to grant the necessary facilities."

Phillips leaves tomorrow for Washington, D. C. His announcement was the first intimation that obstacles had been put before him in his mission of getting the fullest possible picture of the Indian situation.

Phillips, former ambassador to Italy, held repeated conferences with Viceroy Linlithgow, and other British and Indian officials.

U. OF C. SPEAKER DENIES WAR HAS BOOSTED CRIME

There is no evidence that adult or juvenile crime has increased in the United States since the war began, Wayne McMillen, University of Chicago faculty member, said yesterday on the university's Round Table broadcast. Contrary to common belief, adult crime has declined somewhat, McMillen said, and juvenile delinquency has not skyrocketed as in England. Others participating in the discussion of morals in war time were Bernard Loomer of the university's divinity school and W. Lloyd Darner of the department of sociology.

ALLIED ASSAULT ON ITALY NEAR, CZECHS ARE TOLD

LONDON, April 25 (AP).—Eduard Benes, president of Czecho-Slovakia, told his countrymen in a broadcast today they could expect "new and decisive military events soon."

He said German satellite states already were trying to slip out of the war.

"In a few weeks, the last German and Italian soldiers will be thrown out of Tunisia and a vast assault on Italy will begin," Benes said.

"You must expect an assault on the continent in the whole Mediterranean area, in the north and in the west. You must expect a vast new Russian assault and a new and even fiercer bombing of Germany and new and surprising political events."

DOOLITTLE FLIES OUT OF CHINA IN PLANE WITH 71

Pilot Picks Up Refugees in Burmese Town.

New York, April 25 (AP).—Maj. Gen. James A. Doolittle rode out of China after his Tokio raid leaning against the door of a 21-seat plane loaded with 72 persons, Pan American Airways disclosed today, and his chief comment on the trip was:

"I think I would rather have gone back the way I came."

Capt. Moon Chin, veteran Pan American flyer with the China National Aviation corporation, was the pilot of the Douglas DC-3 which took off on a routine flight from Chungking for India with a normal complement of passengers, including Doolittle, Pan American reported.

Doolittle Warns Pilot.

South of Chungking Moon received a radio message stating the Japs were closing in on Mich'na, last holding base in Burma, and advising him to depart from his course to pick up refugees there. He headed for Mich'na. Doolittle, who was checking the course, noted his probable destination.

On a piece of wrapping paper Doolittle scribbled and sent forward to Moon the message: "In Chungking this morning American ambassador told me that the Japs were certain to be in Mich'na before nightfall."

Doolittle was concerned because, he told the stewardess, he had an important report he had to get to Washington.

Moon landed at the Mich'na airport, where 5,000 refugees were crowded. Refugees crowded in until there were 50 aboard, when Doolittle shouted to Moon:

"I hope the hell you know what you're doing."

12 More Smuggled In.

Moon yelled back that it was not too great an overload, adding:

"There is a war going on over here. You do lots of things you wouldn't do at home—when you have to."

The hero of the Tokio raid gripped his bundle tighter and didn't reply. When 60 persons were aboard, Moon ordered the outside door locked and asked Doolittle to lean against the cockpit door and keep it closed.

When the plane landed at Calcutta it was discovered 12 other persons had smuggled themselves in, making a total of 72.

NEW LAW, SAY JAPS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Japan has "established a new international law in matters of aerial warfare" with the execution of some of the United States flyers who bombed Tokio, and "regrets that the American government did not support this attitude," the newspaper Mainichi was quoted yesterday in a Japanese dispatch broadcast from Berlin.

"We must warn Roosevelt to respect this Japanese attitude if he should intend to launch attacks on Japan," the paper added.

Munitions Seized in Raids on Ulster Homes

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, April 25 (AP).—Considerable quantities of ammunition and weapons were seized in raids Friday and today on two private homes, the royal Ulster constabulary announced. The dumps yielded two machine guns, 16 revolvers and pistols, two rifles, 23 grenades, 500 rounds of ammunition and a quantity of material for manufacturing explosives.

Tributes to a great book by a great American

WILLIAM L. SHIRER, author of "Berlin Diary," says: "This is an important and significant book. But it is more than that. It is one of the most absorbing books I have read in years, full of humor, shrewd observation, a thousand and one facts you and I never heard but should have, and fabulous tales of the East told with a skill which a Duranty or a Gunther or a Sheean might well envy. I read it in one gulp and I find I jotted down nine pages of notes of things that either fascinated me or that seemed important to pass along to the readers of this review."

WALTER LIPPMANN, famous author and columnist, says: "... a book which places Mr. Willkie, I believe, among the few best American observers who have gone abroad . . . as this book proves, he has a seeing eye and an understanding heart . . . he is a genuine believer in the American way of life . . . Mr. Willkie's book becomes a plea that Americans should learn to understand the shrunken world in which they live. But what makes the book so significant is that it is such a good example of how to practice what the argument preaches . . ."

JOHN GUNTHER, author of "Inside Europe" and "Inside Asia," says: "There is only one thing to say about Wendell Willkie's book—it is must reading for every living American. I read One World with profound admiration for its qualities of warmth, candor, clarity and vigor. But what is more impressive than all that is the realistic vision Mr. Willkie projects of a really worth while future. Also, what a good reporter this promising new author is! In fact, he is writing rings around us at our own fine game."

BOOTH TARKINGTON, writing in the Indianapolis Star, says: "One World is, of course, the record of Mr. Willkie's daring airplane journey around the world in wartime, and, as a magic-carpet spectacle, 'The Arabian Nights' is nothing to it. He is filled with what he saw and heard, passionate in his desire to make us see and hear everything with him. He has written this book with a great eagerness to do all of us the vital service of revealing the inwardness of this present ravaged, altering, closer-knitted world. Written with a breathless honesty, the book tells us all we ought to know, and so a reviewer can say at once that we need to read it. It seems to me that most of Mr. Willkie's fellow countrymen will perceive that it is good thinking by a good man."

RAYMOND CLAPPER, Scripps-Howard and New York World-Telegram columnist, says: "If every American political leader could go through the experience that Mr. Willkie has gone through, we should have far less difficulty in dealing with the problems that will confront us from now on. No person in public life can afford not to be familiar with what Mr. Willkie has to say as a result of his flight around this One World."

LEWIS GANNETT, writing in the N. Y. Herald Tribune, says: "One World is Wendell L. Willkie's report to the folks, but we folks are likely to read it, not merely as a report on the world, but also as an expression of what Wendell L. Willkie is. From this unique moving picture of the 1942 world Mr. Willkie came home with some passionate convictions which do not sound like the usual armory of a political candidate. This reviewer, who did not vote for him in 1940 and had not ever expected to vote for him finds him exciting to read and to watch."

ONE WORLD by Wendell L. Willkie

NOTE: On Mr. Willkie's instructions his royalties from ONE WORLD are being turned over to the American Red Cross, United China Relief, British War Relief and Russian War Relief

Cheating Death With Black Diamonds

From a treetop somewhere in the steaming, treacherous jungles a Jap sniper's rifle speaks and an American soldier crouching in a slit trench crumples with a jagged leg wound. Quickly he is pulled to shelter and given first aid. They feed him sulphathiazole tablets and dust sulphanilamide powder into his wound.

This boy, from your home town—or yours—or yours—will live to fight again—will live to thank COAL for his recovery. For these amazing sulfa drugs that have reduced infections to a minimum are a by-product of coal—that same coal that you use to heat your homes.

Yes, coal is a remarkable mineral, for besides medicines it gives us chemicals and dyestuffs, plastics and Nylon, moth balls and photo supplies, perfumes and pipe stems, and an endless list of other by-products.

Without coal there would be no steel for guns and tanks and ships. From coal, too, comes basic substances for the production of T.N.T. and other high explosives for our shells and bombs. Truly coal is versatile.

But coal's main function is POWER. It must see that our thousands of factories continue their steady stream of armament to win this war. It must power the trains that move that armament, the soldiers and their supplies all over the country. It must keep our great electric power plants operating to furnish power for production and to light our factories for the night shifts.

Coal is so vital to the war effort that its many war duties must come first. The task is so great that only a comparatively small proportion of the coal produced remains for the important task of heating our homes, our offices and public buildings.

So far there has been plenty of coal for everyone. The public's co-operation in filling bins last summer enabled mines to continue full operation during that period. Steady production and delivery permitted the high record that was established in 1942. But even greater amounts are needed for 1943.

Everyone should realize the importance of coal to the war effort. Under no circumstances should coal be wasted. This year's demands can be filled only through a superlative effort of both management and labor in the coal industry, the continued efficient performance of the railroads, and the public's wholehearted assistance. With this co-operation there will be enough coal for all, including those who change from burning oil to burning coal.

BUNGLERS' PROGRESS.

Secretary Knox's reply to extremely grave criticism by the Truman committee of the navy's handling of the submarine problem followed the same policy of obfuscation with which the administration has sought to conceal every one of its blunders since Pearl Harbor.

The committee had said that submarine sinkings last year exceeded the combined ship building of the United States and Great Britain. The secretary met this with the assertion that overall allied ship building exceeded over-all allied ship losses. He asserted that the committee's statement that 12 million tons of shipping were sunk was wrong, but he did not give the correct figure, the suppression of which was the principal complaint of the committee. The senators held, logically, that the losses are known to the Germans and that the only result of suppressing the news has been to assist Goebbels' propaganda that the submarines are winning the war for Hitler.

Nor did Mr. Knox give any explanation, no doubt because it is unexplainable, of the failure of the navy to provide a sufficient number of escort vessels, which seem to be the best weapons against submarines. His statements are typical of the administration's reactions to disclosures of its bungling. The formula is to confuse, evade, and hope that the public will forget.

Over in the war department affairs are no better. The army, with complete disregard of warnings that it is impairing war production, agricultural production, and civilian economy, is pushing ahead with its plans for a mass army of great proportions. What the soldiers are to do is not explained. In particular, there is no explanation of how our supply of shipping, which was barely sufficient to get a few hundred thousands to North Africa, is going to transport and supply armies of many millions.

In material the man power muddle is being duplicated. We have far greater supplies of some types of ammunition and weapons than we can use. A considerable part of the food shortage has been traced to similarly reckless procurement of foodstuffs by the army and navy and the lend-lease administration, which have filled warehouses with materials that they do not need and which they have no prospects of transporting overseas.

These blunders, adding untold billions to the cost of the war and impairing our chances of victory, are evidences of incompetent administration. That is the job of President Roosevelt and under him, in the war and navy departments, the responsibility of Secretaries Stimson and Knox. The tide cannot be reversed until this pair, a senile second-rater and a bombastic incompetent, are relieved of the duties that they constantly fumble.

To be sure, the replacement of these two men cannot of itself effect a complete cure. Congress has shown that it alone can protect the nation against administrative incompetence, which its investigating committees are uncovering daily. It alone can penetrate the secrecy and obfuscation. Some of its committees have done yeoman work already. Congress should centralize and organize their activities by forming a joint senate and house committee on the conduct of the war, modeled after the body that functioned to the benefit of the nation during the Civil war.

That Civil war committee has often been criticized. Its members were not always informed and it was as much a thorn in the side of the executive department as any body of critics is to any executive, but it did far more good than harm. It reflected the determination of the country for victory and the national impatience with dawdlers and incompetents. Far greater opportunities to do good await such a committee today than were possible in the Civil war.

WINNING BACK THE EMPIRE.

The "white man's burden" has apparently grown a little heavy of late, if we are to judge from a recent discussion among those who have always prided themselves on bearing it. In the house of lords, Herbert Louis Samuel of Mount Carmel and Toxteth remarked that Malaya, Singapore, and Burma "will have to be reconquered very largely by Americans."

The ghost of Mr. Kipling, the song singer of empire, would have been more than ordinarily troubled if it had chanced to be in the visitors' gallery at the moment. Mr. Kipling in life did not regard the governance of strange peoples as a wholly unmixed pleasure. In a prophetic mood, he observed that it was often paid off in "the blame of those ye better, the hate of those ye guard." But he did regard it as a duty, and he thought it was a job for Britons without outside assistance.

Samuel had the grace to suggest that, if the job of reëstablishing the empire in East Asia is to be assumed by Americans, they "may well feel that they will have a certain moral responsibility for the future of these countries." He advocated that Britain reconsider its policy toward colonies and envisioned a system of mandates, not for British colonies alone, but for all colonial empires.

Such expressions, of course, are at variance with recent utterances of the responsible leaders of the British government. Prime Minister Churchill said flatly that "what we have we hold," and Col. Oliver Stanley, the colonial secretary, stated that "the administration of the British colonies must continue to be the sole responsibility of Great Britain."

The record of the United States in the Philippines is sufficient evidence that this country has no interest in ruling colonial peoples. But it has even less interest in reconquering the colonials of other nations only to hand them back into subjection. As Samuel observed, we are bound to feel "a certain moral responsibility."

Our armies are hardly likely to embark on imperialistic conquest in the service of other nations when their own country has refused to send them upon similar missions in its own right. If we are to undertake the repossession of Britain's Asiatic holdings—and Mr. Churchill's recent reference to a partial demobilization of British forces after Hitler's defeat indicates that that is in the plans—the least America will want of Britain is the firm pledge now that freedom for the oppressed races will attend the arrival of the American armies.

CONSTRUCTIVE TREASON.

The judiciary committee of the senate has as its chairman Sen. Van Nuys of Indiana and it is this committee which is presently considering the Gestapo or war security bill. It is no exaggeration of the fact to say that in his long legislative career Mr. Van Nuys has never had a graver responsibility placed upon him nor has he had a brighter opportunity to be of service to his country.

Mr. Van Nuys is a middle westerner and it is reasonable to expect, therefore, that the alien notions of government embodied in this bill have no attraction for him. He can be trusted to share with former Chief Justice Thompson of Illinois a disbelief in attempts to legislate loyalty and an abiding distrust of the snooper and the agent provocateur. As a midwesterner Mr. Van Nuys should be strong in his faith in the theory of government set forth in the Declaration of Independence and in the method of government described in the Constitution and its Bill of Rights.

Particularly, Mr. Van Nuys should have only contempt for the provisions of the bill that have been borrowed from George III.'s Proclamation of Rebellion, directed in 1775 against the American patriots. The Gestapo bill, like the royal proclamation, sets up a crime of constructive treason. The Declaration of Independence was America's answer and it was followed by the Constitution with its sharp definition of treason and its requirement that there be two witnesses to overt acts. The Gestapo bill is an attempt to evade the constitutional provisions, is an invitation to blackmail, and it would reëstablish in this country a type of government and a theory of justice against which free men successfully rebelled.

PLOTTERS AGAINST AMERICA.

The little group of fellow travelers which calls itself the American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born has attracted more attention than it would otherwise receive by putting out an invitation to a "united nations" dinner, decorated with an outline map of the United States on which a large variety of nationalities—excluding only the Americans—are lettered in.

The Russians, by this bit of cartography, were assigned to Kentucky and Arkansas; the Poles to the corn belt; the Norwegians and Swedes, Minnesota; the Scots to the Pacific northwest; the Mexicans an enclave in the neighborhood of Knoxville, adjoining the Turkish preserve, and the Albanians south Texas.

A well intentioned citizen of East St. Louis, Carel Smetana, has stirred a minor storm along similar lines in the Voice of the People by his complaint that what he calls "minorities" in the United States have been denied their proper rights thru the failure of public schools to teach any but the English language. He felt that justice could only be done by instruction, at public expense, in all of the tongues of the lands from which the so-called minorities derive.

As was made clear by his opponents in the ensuing debate, Mr. Smetana had misused the term minority. Dodging the color question for the moment, there are none such in America. The minorities of Europe are people so long settled in a particular locality as to become virtually indigenous in it. By the processes of power politics, these people have fallen under the rule of another nationality. Their problems are sometimes distressing and always vexing, but one of the blessings of this country is that we have none of them.

We are a people of almost infinite lines of descent, but, whatever our ancestry and however long settled in this country, our forebears—if they were white men—came to America of their own volition. They came here seeking freedom and greater opportunity, and we accepted them freely, imposing only the condition that they drop their previous allegiance and fit themselves for citizenship in this nation.

Our language is that of the men who made the nation and opened the gates of freedom. If it was English once, we have made it our own by now. We have no language minorities in America and we do not intend to have them. It is the purpose of such organizations as the Committee for the Protection of Foreign Born to create those minorities. The propagandists are working against America, to transplant into this country the bitterness and strife of Europe as a means of devoting American resources and American lives to the service of the bickering nations of Europe. Americans, whatever their descent, repudiate these plotters.

A SON OF FREEDOM.

The American Newspaper Publishers' association took two important steps at its annual convention in New York to protect the free press of America against attacks by the burocrats who are seeking to destroy it or subject it to their dictation under the guise of a war emergency.

One was the authorization of an "action committee." It will coöperate with congressional investigating committees who are looking into the restrictions which the administration and its burocrats are attempting to apply to the freedom of the press and represent the newspapers of the nation in protecting the supplies of raw materials and man power necessary to their vital function of informing the public.

The second action was the election of Linwood I. Noyes, publisher of the Ironwood, Mich., Globe, as president of the association. It is not without significance that Mr. Noyes lives in the old Northwest Territory. This area was conceived in freedom and has never known anything but freedom. Its sons, naturally, are especially qualified to lead in the national struggle for the preservation of that freedom.

MAJ. GEN. FREDENDALL.

The assignment of Maj. Gen. Lloyd R. Fredendall to command the 2d army, succeeding Lt. Gen. Ben Lear, is an excellent one, reflecting as it does the confidence of the army in Gen. Fredendall's capacity. His landing at Oran in the initial stages of the North African campaign was a brilliant operation. His reputation has been allowed to suffer because of the reverses that his troops met at Faid pass and Gafsa in the attempt to save our ally embarrassment, but when the full story of that fighting can be told it will reflect the highest credit on the American troops engaged there and their commander.

A GLANCE AT THE GILBERTS.

Every reader of South seas fiction has come across the Gilbert Islands dozens of times; they have been, since the heyday of Louis Becke and Robert Louis Stevenson, a favorite scene for stories about the lonely trader guzzling his stock of gin, the native enchantress whose amours end in a killing, the beachcomber, and the schooner seeking a cargo of copra. The Gilberts include Makin, seized by the Japanese immediately after Pearl Harbor and since then blasted by an American task force. Now comes the news that Nauru of the Gilberts, a Japanese base, has been violently visited by our bombers.

* * *

This Nauru is not a member of the Gilberts in good standing; it is fairly high while the Gilberts are low, and it lurks by itself, 200 miles to the west. No matter; in the geography of the Pacific, 200 miles away means a fairly close neighbor. Nauru and its sister, Ocean Island, however, are not archipelago-minded.

* * *

The early history of the Gilberts brings us into the main current of English literature. They were discovered in 1765 by John Byron, British vice admiral, who was the grandfather of Lord Byron, the poet. He saw so much hard service, including a voyage around the world with Anson, that his sailors called him Foul Weather Jack.

* * *

Lord Byron referred to his salty ancestor in his "Epistle to Augusta" with this line:

He had no rest at sea, nor I on shore.

* * *

To the Gilberts in 1889, on the chartered trading schooner Equator, came Robert Louis Stevenson, with his wife, his stepson [Lloyd Osbourne], and his China boy, Ah Fu. They visited Makin, which seems to be two islands, Big and Little, and stayed for several months on Butaritari and Apemama. You can read about it at length in Stevenson's "In the South Seas."

* * *

"The isles," wrote R. L. S., "are populous, independent, seats of kinglets, recently civilized, little visited. In the last decade many changes have crept in; women no longer go unclothed till marriage; the widow no longer sleeps at night and goes abroad by day with the skull of her dead husband; and, firearms being introduced, the spear and the sharktooth sword are sold for curiosities."

APRIL MEMORIES.

When joyous Spring comes down to earth again,
Young April too comes, wearing her green gown
And misty bridal veil of silvery rain
Floating from her yellow tulip crown.

And all the world is glad as April passes
Thru dim forest aisles to wild birds' chanting;
Her little feet sunk deep in dew-wet grasses
And on her head pale sunlight slanting.

But in the soft winds whispering thru the trees,
The voice of one who sleeps beneath a cross
In distant France murmurs to her who sees
Not shining April but her own heart's loss:

"Look, love! Spring comes, and memory time.
I, too, remember, tho I lie asleep
On blood-stained field. . . . You are forever mine,
And I, yours. My own, why must you weep?"

And so I always smile with April here.
'Twas such another, misty, greening day,
With drum and banners. . . . O, my dear,
The long, long Aprils since you went away.

Victory Gardening Lowdown—II.

Good morning, Victory gardeners. I see you all have bright and shining noses today. Well, that's Victory gardening for you—fine clean air, exercise, and Old Uplift. Nothing like it to bring the bloom of spring to your cheeks. Let's see now—O, yes,—how to harrow, plank, and roll.

First it is well to remember not to use Old Uplift while harrowing. It tends to make you want to ride, and a harrow is a rather uncomfortable vehicle. Furthermore, you have to lift a harrow occasionally to shake débris loose, and this is difficult to do while riding. However, you may ride your plank, standing erect. With a little Uplift you'll be surprised what you can do on a plank. You'll amaze Fred Astaire with some of your steps, and you'll amaze yourself if the plank suddenly hits a submerged boulder and you're standing erect, as a good plankman should, without a thought of harming any one and gaily singing, Plank, Plank, Plank the Boys Are Planking.

If you have a hired man doing this and you view it from the veranda of your manse, you'll find considerable humor in Victory gardening. Rolling is rather dull unless you learn to tread, but this comes under advanced agriculture and is reserved for those seeking a master's degree.

MARY, SALOME, AND OTHERS.

They came with the spicery of the East,
With myrrh and ointment and, not the least,
With their tears to lave and to enfold
Him Whom the rock-hewn tomb should hold;
To wrap Him for burial the women strove,
And the air was spicy with cassia and clove.
But we are the women standing by
Who may not know where our loved ones lie;
On land or deep in the ocean's bed,
We know not where are our loved dead;
We may not lave nor prepare for rest
The bodies of those that we loved best.
Flower of the crab and a redbud spray
Will the Gardener take and gently lay
Where we may feel that haply these
Carry beauty and fragrance overseas?

THE LUNGS MAY BE AMBUSHED BY A VIRUS.

During the last few months physicians have encountered cases of virus pneumonia in all parts of the country. While the malady is not new, our understanding of its behavior is increasing and our ability to treat it adequately has been enhanced. The chances are that this type of infection will persist into the spring and summer. Changing seasons seem to stimulate the growth of the causative agent, which is too small to be seen with the most powerful microscope. We call the disorder pneumonitis [inflammation of the lung tissue].

For the most part, the ailment creeps on slyly. Fatigue may persist for a week or more, finally obliging the sufferer to go to bed. Early in the course of the disease the fever is not high. Within a few days, however, the mercury may mount to 103 to 104 degrees F.—with intensified discomfort. Unlike true pneumonia, chills are rare; but icy sensations, headaches, and drenching sweats may lead one to believe that he is in the throes of a hard attack of flu.

Coughing is annoying, coming as it does in periodical sieges which are exhausting. Sometimes asthmatic wheezing will be exhibited. Altho the victim does not look ill he feels miserable. An X-ray film of the chest will show lung involvement. While air is not shut off from the lung cells completely the tissues will appear as though flecks of cotton had been blown into the chest cavity.

What to do is often puzzling because these patients do not respond to the sulfa drugs or to pneumonia serum. If other "bugs" complicate the picture, however, one of the sulfonamides may be useful. Certain observers have reported excellent results from the application of heat to the chest wall. This is accomplished via diathermy, and two or three treatments only will be necessary. Recently the suggestion has been offered by Flexner, Garon, and others that whole blood or plasma from one who has recovered will be of value. The fluid may be injected into a vein or be administered beneath the skin.

As a rule, a bout will last from a few days to two or three weeks and the condition is unusually acute with children. Skilled nursing is essential and this includes filling the air of the room with medicated steam. A nutritious diet is indicated, with enough diet to induce repose.

Oxygen remains our chief standby, particularly when a substantial portion of one or both lungs has been attacked and the supply of this vital gas to the circulation has been cut off. Under its influence, all signs of cyanosis [blueness] vanish, the struggle for air ceases, and a sense of comfort brings much needed slumber. If a racking cough is present, it must be controled with suitable remedies.

We must recall that most virus infections are highly contagious and the sickroom may well be regarded as a desert isle so far as visitors are concerned. Occasionally symptoms will linger for several weeks, which means that the victim's strength must be supported with numerous feedings aided by vitamin B.

APPEASING TOJO.

Chicago, April 23.—Tokio's butchery of American airmen is a dividend directly attributable to the administration's policy of appeasing Japan, both before and after Pearl Harbor.

The administration made America an arsenal for the Japanese long years before the attack at Hawaii. It was with the announced intention of "babying along Japan" that the administration permitted the Nipponese to swell to the bursting point their supplies of scrap metal by purchases in the United States. With Hirohito's record of bestiality in China a matter of historical fact, what use did the administration expect him to make of those supplies of war?

The administration unhesitatingly has pursued tactics of appeasement after Pearl Harbor in failing to reinforce or rescue the marines on Wake Island and the fighters on Bataan, and, blending politics with appeasement, in refusing to send Gen. MacArthur the bombers and the machines of war for which he pleads.

By its order to flyers to spare the imperial palace it has helped to foster the Japanese myth that the Son of Heaven is a deity, immune alike to earthquakes and to the wounds of war. Indeed, a handful of block busters scattered across Hirohito's front yard might have prevented Tojo from daring the slaughter of the defenseless American prisoners.

An aroused citizenry and an aroused congress must demand that the administration open its eyes to the Pacific.

TAKE A BOW, MR. LEWIS.

Rockford, Ill., April 17.—The Republicans seem to be in a quandary as to whom they can secure to run against Mr. Roosevelt in 1944.

The solution is Fulton Lewis Jr., the Mutual commentator. He has so many qualities that can make him a powerful opponent of the Democrats. He is an excellent speaker, has a large radio following, understands the Washington of today, as well as the other sections of the country; he is for the common man, and is opposed to the plans of the theorists, and in favor of the tried and true common sense rules of existence.

THE SUBSIDY IS CUT.

Chicago, April 21.—For almost six years my wife and two children and myself have lived in the Lathrop housing homes that were built by the government to make better living conditions for people in the lower income bracket.

In the last five or six months they have raised our rent from $22.25 a month to $50. I am not complaining about the $50 a month as I think the house we have is worth it even tho they haven't decorated in the last three years.

What I can't understand is this: Without any improvements or anything added to the home, how can they more than double the rent when our other landlords, who happen to be the taxpayers of this city, can't even raise their rents 10 cents? If some one can explain this to me I would greatly appreciate it.

OUR INTERNAL STRUGGLE.

Joliet, Ill., April 19.—Your reprint of the cartoon entitled "Which Is Mightier?" brings into focus more sharply than anything I have seen or read the tremendous internal struggle going on in this country. The American people have before them a choice the result of which will determine the future of democratic government not only in the United States but thruout the world.

It is not altogether uncommon in history for the political fate of a given nation to turn upon its selection of a leader, economists to the contrary notwithstanding. All too frequently that choice has been based purely on the personal magnetism of a candidate, rather than on his ability and aims. I would be the last to impute to our present President a lack of executive ability. But the question now is not one of ability but of the use to which that ability will be put.

Whether the American people realize it or not, the most vital problem before them today is the preservation of their liberty here in this country. The successful prosecution of the war is not enough to insure that. Freedom cannot be and never has been maintained by suppressing it at home for the alleged purpose of protecting it abroad. Already the rights of the people, as well as of the states, have suffered serious inroads. Of what benefit will it be to win victory in this war if at its termination we find that we have already lost that which we strove to protect?

MRS. ALVARO VILLAGRAN.

IS WASHINGTON AROUSED?

Chicago, April 22.—It seems, now that almost all the information has been released, that the daring and successful bombing of Japan was not all of that. Daring, yes, but the disastrous ending would seem to be too high a price to pay for any damage inflicted on the enemy.

Also, knowing, as the administration must have for some considerable time, the punishment meted out to our captured flyers, it seems odd that MacArthur must still beg for aid from Washington.

In your pages stood the phrase, "Indignant congressmen believe executions will rouse America." Let us hope that by America they include the administration.

Why be ashamed of coming from a Bohemian family? You don't see the Murphys and Goldbergs changing their names. They are proud of their names and proud to be in the United States.

JAMES VONDRAK.

Chicago, April 23.—A potato called by any other name is still a potato. It is sad to note that Mr. Vondrak was ashamed of his good old name of Bohemian extraction and changed it to the British "Drake." As to the abolition of foreign language newspapers and schools, I suggest Mr. "Drake" brush up on the Constitution of the United States. ADVICE FOR HENRY WALLACE.

I understand Henry is going like a house afire down below the border, preaching that the brotherhood of man is just around the corner and that Uncle Sam is ever willing and able to advance a needy brother such funds as he may need at the moment.

Now, Henry, you should buy yourself some of the defaulted securities of our southern neighbors and arrange to get them to start paying interest again. If you can talk a fellow into paying his obligations, you might make a man out of him; if you keep loaning him money without rhyme or reason, you may make a bum out of him.

STUDY PROJECT TO MOVE 80,000 OUT OF EUROPE

Refugees May Be Sent to North Africa.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, April 25 (AP).—An agreement on a compromise program for settlement of some European refugees in North Africa was understood today to be a possibility as delegates to the British and United States refugee conference began writing their reports.

The conferees attended Easter services during the morning. They probably will adjourn Wednesday.

Some prospect that many of the 80,000 refugees in neutral countries would be relocated was definitely indicated, since Sen. Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.], one of the American conferees, said "The picture is not entirely dark."

The American and British conferees will draft a joint report, Chairman Harold W. Dodds said, that will go first to the respective governments. Some of the recommendations, he explained, would be confidential.

All proposals made by organizations interested particularly in the rescue of Jews from Nazi-occupied Europe were gone into, Dodds said, but he wouldn't say if any were acted upon favorably.

Palestine Not Discussed.

So far as could be ascertained, Palestine was not discussed at the conference because the British refused to undertake anything beyond the limitations of the White Paper of 1939, which fixed a five year quota on Palestine's Jewish immigration.

The British and Americans were believed agreed upon the following points:

Evacuation of some of the 80,000 refugees in neutral countries is to be recommended as a first step.

Plan Aid for Persecuted.

A secret plan is to be proposed for eventual rescue of persecuted peoples in Nazi occupied Europe, withheld from public discussion to prevent German interference.

A permanent agency to handle refugee relief would be set up by enlarging the powers and possibly the personnel of the intergovernmental committee of 33 nations in existence since 1938, with Myron Taylor as the American member.

The committee itself would determine whether to invite Spain and Portugal into membership.

Provision for care in neutral countries of refugees who might not be able to leave them would be made thru the inter-governmental committee.

$20,000 IN WHISKY IS HIJACKED AS 4 KIDNAP DRIVER

A hijacking reminiscent of prohibition days was staged early yesterday by four men who robbed Floyd Jenson of Milwaukee, of a truck and 516 cases of whisky valued at $20,000.

Jenson told police an automobile in which the four were riding cut in in front of his truck on Lincoln avenue near Foster avenue and forced him to stop. Intimidating him with revolvers they forced him to leave the truck and enter their car.

One of the hijackers drove off with the truck. The others drove him to a spot near Niles, where they held him two hours before they released him.

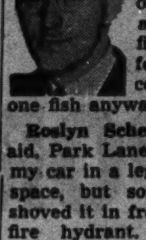
THE ANSWERS:

Charles Galitz, underwriter, 4532 North Moody avenue—There was no interfering with the laws of nature. My wife and I found it necessary in the race with the stork to break every traffic law between my home and the hospital. We made it just in time. I felt justified.



Vernon Church, assistant store manager, 8148 Ingleside avenue—My father gave me a beautiful new fishing rod and reel and asked me to bring him just one fish. I had such a good time at the fishing resort inn I forgot to get my license, but I caught one fish anyway.

Roslyn Schenker, aviation cadet aid, Park Lane hotel—I had parked my car in a legitimate space, but some one shoved it in front of a fire hydrant. I resented getting a ticket and tore it up. I felt all right about it until they traced me and I paid two fines.

Arthur Pearson, NBC purchasing agent, Deerfield—We were out on the lake in our small boat. For the fun of it we hoisted colored flags representing our initials. Unknown to us, they gave the code message, "Preparing to abandon ship." We had to confess ignorance to the coast guard crew.

Agnes Joyner, secretary, 1031 North Shore avenue—On a few occasions when my soldier friend was a little short of cash I have broken the rules of etiquet by paying for theater tickets and the dinner. Of course, I gave the money to him, beforehand so that he wouldn't be embarrassed in public.

Alec E. Weinrob, lawyer, 4524 North Mozart avenue—Exactly 14 years ago today the police stopped me for speeding. I thought I was justified and I actually convinced them, too. I was rushing home to tell my parents I had proposed to my girl friend and she had accepted.

GERMANS WEARY OF WAR, BUT NO COLLAPSE SEEN

People Feel They Must Fight to the End.

BERNE, Switzerland, April 25 (AP).—German morale at home apparently is entering a phase of uncertainty under the steady pounding of allied bombs and talk of coming allied offensives.

Propaganda Minister Goebbels recognized this when he told the people in a recent article that "there is no way back" and they must suffer to construct, "indeed even to maintain" German order.

Goebbels took further cognizance of the home front feeling when he said bluntly that the people could expect increasingly strict leadership.

Weariness Starts to Show.

Here is the picture of Germany today, put together after careful analysis of available facts:

Military action alone can end the war on the basis of present conditions; any expectation of internal collapse soon is most improbable.

The first signs of substantial pessimism, resentment, and weariness are beginning to show. There is no important sign of a serious crackup and a large number are convinced they must stand and fight with Hitler to the end.

A letter by a German to his daughter summarizes what a good many of Hitler's followers are saying: "There is much fighting ahead. We fear much blood must yet be shed, but also feel there is no other course but to go on."

Fear Foreign Workers.

Nazi propaganda always has played on the fear of the consequences of defeat, and this fear is strengthened by the influx of 12,000,000 foreign workers. Germans fear terrible revenge from these workers and the population of occupied countries. It is one big reason they keep fighting.

Berlin residents say the people are beginning to question Nazi propaganda for the first time.

The so-called intellectual group, especially in Berlin, is reported to be most pessimistic. Two employés of a government bureau were shot for communicating with the Russians in an effort to discuss peace.

Ulster Premier Denies Cabinet Members Resign

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, April 25 (AP).—Premier John Miller Andrews tonight denied Saturday's announcement that two of his cabinet ministers had resigned, and said he had called a meeting of his Unionist party for Wednesday. Deputy Prime Minister Basil Brooke, one of those reported to be leaving in criticism of Andrews' government, said "something may happen at the party meeting, but it is premature to say that I or any other cabinet member has resigned."

STEAL CAMERA FROM AUTO.

YANKS ATTEND ARMY'S EASTER RITES IN LONDON

Outdoor Services Held in Hyde Park.

LONDON, April 25 (AP).—Against the spring's refreshing green, the United States army's traditional Easter sunrise service came to a new setting today as many hundreds of soldiers of all ranks greeted the Christian's brightest holiday in old Hyde Park.

Chaplain Blakeney.

Atop a bandstand which was turned into a simple pulpit, birds chirped and added an appropriate note to the joyful Easter music.

While the highest American officers stationed in London came singly or in small groups, the enlisted men marched smartly across the park, pressed and brushed and polished.

The brief service was opened with an invocation by Chaplain Chester R. McClelland of Dallas, Tex.

Yanks at Vesper Service.

After singing of the hymn "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," Chaplain Frank Miller of Washington, D. C., said the morning prayer and a chorus sang "The Holy City."

Chaplain James L. Blakeney of Little Rock, Ark., presented the Easter message of age old reassurance to Christians that death can have no permanent triumph.

The benediction was pronounced by Bishop Adna W. Leonard of Washington, D. C., representative of 31 Protestant denominations, who went from the park to an air base where he conducted a morning service before proceeding to St. Paul's cathedral.

The afternoon vespers in St. Paul's marked the first all-American service in the famed 17th century church. The Americans gathered to hear Chaplain Blakeney preach the sermon from the high pulpit, where earlier in the day a British service was held for the first time since the cathedral was damaged in the air raids of 1941.

SPELLMAN CONDUCTS MASS

JERUSALEM, April 25 (AP).—Worshipers came this sunny Easter morning to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in the heart of the old walled city of Jerusalem, where Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York celebrated pontifical high mass.

Uniforms of Americans and fighting men of many other nations mingled with the religious robes and native dress as all converged down the steps leading from the outer gateway of the courtyard shrine to the main portal of the basilica itself.

A hush fell in the crowded courtyard when, from the direction of the Jaffa gate along the cobbled street of bazaars, came a procession.

Four Men Lead Procession.

First were four men bearing long staffs decorated with heavy silver tops. As they walked in solemn, deliberate step, they banged their staffs to the ground in unison.

Behind them came a young priest carrying a tall silver crucifix. Then came Archbishop Spellman. He wore a light rose colored robe and mitre and his shoulders were covered with a white embroidered cassock. He was accompanied by assisting clergy.

Behind them came the diplomatic corps, their top hats gleaming.

As the procession passed, those outside the basilica filed in and the sound of music floated thru the open doorway.

In the interest of public safety, police permitted only 3,000 to attend the pontifical high mass.

JAM MOSCOW CHURCHES

MOSCOW, April 25 (AP).—From midnight, past dawn, and far into the day thousands of Moscow citizens elbowed their way into the 26 churches open in this city for the observance of Easter.

In the greatest crush of worshipers since before the revolution women fainted and people came away with their clothes torn by the crowds.

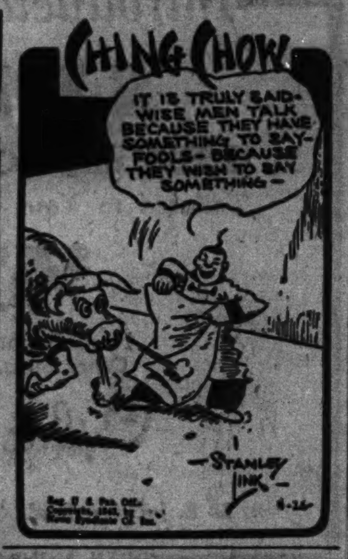
[At the time of the revolution 454 Orthodox churches were open in Moscow.]

The military commandant of Moscow lifted the midnight curfew at the request of churchgoers.

Thousands of young boys and girls, young women and men and soldiers of the Red army were among the worshipers.

On thousands of Moscow tables this morning were Easter cakes and painted eggs, most of them were taken to church yesterday or last night for blessings and the sprinkling of holy water.

The tremendous turning out of churchgoers was spontaneous. Nothing was printed about Easter in the government newspapers or reported on the radio.



CHURCH BELLS OF BRITAIN PEAL EASTER MESSAGE

LONDON, April 25 (AP).—No longer muted for fear of German invasion, the church bells of Britain rang out the Easter message today. Not since the fall of France, except to celebrate the 8th army's desert victory last November and at last Christmas, had the bells of churches functioned. Their ringing had been reserved to warn of invasion.

In the ringers' room of Saint Paul's cathedral 13 ringers gathered early for the religious thrill they had not expected to experience again until the end of the war. At intervals they formed a strenuous circle in the huge belfry room, each standing upon a heavy wooden platform and thrusting his feet into stout leather loops so they would not be jerked into the air by the bell ropes.

The chief difficulty of many churches was to find good ringers. Virtually every church of any size lost one or more ringers during the bombings of Britain.

Two Soldiers Drowned as Their Canoe Capsizes

Madison, Wis., April 25 (AP).—Pfc. Leon B. Kravik, 19 years old, of Auburn, Wash., and Pvt. Jack Childers, also 19, of Lexington, Ky., squadron mates at Truax field, drowned last night when their canoe overturned on Lake Monona, the public relations office reported tonight. The bodies were recovered today.

CAPITAL FINERY ON PARADE; IT'S OLD BUT FRILLY

Washington, D. C., April 25 (AP).—The horde of girls who keep typewriters humming in the nation's capital put on their Easter bonnets today and paraded to the delight of thousands of soldiers in town from nearby camps.

There were frilly, pastel straws and chapeaux made up of a bit of ribbon and a lacy veil. Smiles and broad grins from the soldiery rewarded the "government girls," many of whom used to do their Easter parading in Topeka, Kas., or Worcester, Mass., or any of the myriad towns whence come the capital's war time workers.

In some cases, the hats appeared to be the only new bit of Easter finery for the girls, and scores of Washington matrons as well. A plethora of year old suits indicated war time economizing.

But Such Stockings!

One observer who specializes in such things reported the ladies' stockings had more knee and ankle wrinkles this year than on previous Easters.

Just as during weekday rush hours, buses were jammed at going to church time. Men and women glanced anxiously at their watches as fully loaded buses passed them by, and reconciled themselves to being late to church. But churches everywhere were crowded, with officials and citizens come to hear the message of resurrection.

But with all the deep religious meaning of the day, there were smiles and laughter in the capital of war time America, and nature was abloom with lilacs and azaleas.

New York Bows to Uniforms.

New York, April 25 (AP).—The nation's fashion capital bowed to the uniform today as approximately 750,000 New Yorkers and visitors stepped out to form the largest Easter parade in the city's history.

Along Fifth avenue, where traffic had to be blocked off when the crowds overflowed the sidewalks, the navy blue of the WAVES, the khaki of the WAACs, the subdued khaki-green of the women marines attracted more attention than the usual Easter feminine costumes—gray and navy suits and veil swathed flower laden hats.

A grimmer reminder that the city was observing a war time Easter was evinced by droning planes of the protective air services and by signs pointing to shelters in the event of air raid.

Virtually every shade appeared among civilian women's new frocks. Hats were predominantly small and adorned with flowers—some so small they appeared to be merely bunches of flowers tied to the wearers' hair. Very few frock coats, striped trousers and shiny top hats loomed in the crowd.

The TRUTH ABOUT "PORTAL TO PORTAL"

Results of the present coal wage conference may reach into every American home—affect the living standards of every American family... Will this nation "hold the line" against inflation? This question is of such grave consequence that it is the direct and vital concern of every American

JOHN L. LEWIS demands that wages in the bituminous coal industry be placed on a "portal to portal" basis.

At first glance, this particular demand may seem reasonable to anyone not familiar with coal mining. But cold fact shows up the "portal to portal" demand—like others now being pressed by Mr. Lewis—as a crafty scheme to circumvent or break the stabilization program established by the United States Government to "hold the line" against inflation.

Coal miners are now paid day wages or tonnage rates on the basis of a 7-hour day which begins and ends at their working places inside the mine. This method of payment is known as "face to face." Miners, of course, must spend additional time in travel between the portal (or entrance) of the mine and the working places.

Mr. Lewis claims that miners are not now paid for the time spent in travel. He demands not only that they be paid for this time but also that they be paid at 1½ times the regular rates. He demands that miners be given an average wage increase for travel of $2.25 per day and this single demand, exclusive of all other demands, would add approximately $250,000,000 to the nation's coal bill.

The Facts Versus Mr. Lewis

Here are the facts concerning Mr. Lewis' "portal to portal" demand:

● It is untrue that miners are not paid for travel time. For more than 50 years, it has been understood by the Union and the Operators that wage rates are established with travel time as a consideration.

● To compensate for travel time, wage rates in the coal industry have been set at higher levels than rates for comparable work in other industries. For instance, in October 1942, the average hourly earnings of underground miners was $1.10 on the basis of the 7-hour day. On the basis of an 8½-hour day (7 hours at the working place and 1½ hours travel time) the average hourly earnings were 91 cents. The latter figure compares with average hourly earnings of 85 cents for workers in all manufacturing industry—in which the 8-hour work day and 40-hour work week are standard.

● In the two-year agreement signed by the Union and the Operators in 1934, daily wages were increased more than 8 per cent and the working day was reduced from 8 hours to 7 hours. It was understood by the Union and the Operators that this reduction in working time (with an increase in wages) was intended as additional compensation for travel time. The 7-hour day and "face to face" pay were incorporated in each subsequent agreement.

We believe that these facts show conclusively that payment for travel time is included in the present wage rates. It is clear that if the Union were awarded separate payment for travel time, this payment would be a wage increase—whether or not it is camouflaged as "portal to portal."

Opposition by the Union to "portal to portal" is recorded in a letter, officially signed by the Union, which is quoted in the column to the right.

Union's Letter Condemns Own Claim

Mr. Lewis did not repudiate this letter when it was written in 1940. He did not repudiate it in 1941 when the next wage agreement was negotiated. He did not repudiate it, or any part of it, at any time since then—until now, when it rises to condemn as unsound and untrue his arguments for "portal to portal" wage payments.

With our country at war and in desperate need of every ton of coal that can be mined, why does he choose this particular time to try to upset a wage structure that has been acceptable to Union and Operators for more than 50 years?

The answer is plain. Wage increases are forbidden by law. Mr. Lewis has boasted that he will get a wage increase despite the law. He seizes upon the "portal to portal" demand as a means to get a wage increase under another name.

In comment upon the Executive Order of April 8th, President Roosevelt said that the way to "hold the line" against inflation is to stop trying to find excuses to break the line.

The "portal to portal" demand and Mr. Lewis' other demands are all excuses to break the "line." They are dangerous excuses. Time and again, Mr. Lewis has demonstrated an extraordinary ability to have things his own way. History must not repeat itself this time. The flood-gates of inflation must not be opened. The Government's "line" must not be broken.

Help Hold The Line Against Inflation

If Mr. Lewis is able to force a wage increase—under "portal to portal" or any other name—every labor leader and every farm bloc will be under immediate and irresistible pressure to find excuses to break the "line" against inflation.

Millions of Americans who do not have similar organized power to force their incomes upward will find their living standards crumbling under the merciless squeeze of inflation.

You are one of these Americans. Your interest is vital and obvious—even though you may never have seen a coal mine. Do your part to "hold the line" against inflation.

The operators' objections to "portal to portal" are identical with objections that have been expressed officially by the United Mine Workers of America.

Below are excerpts from a letter that was signed by Earl E. Houck, Director of the Legal Department of the United Mine Workers of America, as an authorized agent of the Union.

The letter was sent on July 9, 1940 to Col. Phillip B. Fleming, Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division of the Department of Labor. It was prepared jointly by representatives of the operators and the miners' union to explain why the method of payment for the day's work in the coal industry does not contravene the standards of the Fair Labor Standards Act. Administrator Fleming ruled that this method is in accordance with the Act.

COAL LABOR STANDARDS HIGHEST OF ANY INDUSTRY—"It is our opinion that these substantive provisions of the (Appalachian) agreement are among the highest standards of labor provided in any industry in the United States both as to hours of working time and as to wages paid. There is full and complete understanding in the industry between employer and employees as to the application of these provisions. This method of measuring the working time at the place of work has been the standard provision in the basic wage agreements for almost fifty years and is the result of collective bargaining in its complete sense."

IMPRACTICAL TO MEASURE TIME BY OTHER METHODS—"The impracticability of measuring time by any other method is inherent in the very nature of mining coal. Coal mines are sometimes very extensive. When they are first opened, the working places are, of course, close by and near to the opening of the mine. In such cases, there is no problem of either transportation of the men to the working places or time consumed in reaching them; but as mines grow older, the working places move farther and farther from the portal or opening of the mine, and as such conditions develop, it becomes necessary for provision to be made for transportation of the men over long distances to their working places."

HIGH RATES OF PAY — "Uniform high rates of pay that have always been included in the wage agreement of the mining industry contemplate the employee's working day beginning when he arrives at his usual working place. Hence, travel time was never considered as a part of the agreement or obligation of the employer to pay for in this industry, nor as hours worked by employees, and this has been the case since the eight-hour day was established—April 1, 1898."

CHANGE WOULD RESULT IN CHAOS—"It is urged that any ruling requiring such a change in the customs, tradition and contract provision so as to change the work day from "7 hours' work in the mine at the usual working places" to any new standard for the measurement of time worked, and to the adjustment of wage rates made necessary thereby would create so much confusion in the bituminous industry as to result in complete chaos and would probably result in a complete stoppage of work at practically all of the coal mines in the United States."

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE — "Such a ruling, moreover, would establish such diversity of time actually spent at production work as between different bituminous coal mines that there would be no basis on which any general wage scales could be predicated, collective bargaining would therefore be rendered impossible throughout this industry, and the very purpose of the Fair Labor Standards Act would be defeated."

Coal Miners are Well Paid...They are Not Hungry

IN ORDER TO BUILD some sort of a case for his exorbitant demands for wage increases, John L. Lewis has repeatedly stated that the wages of coal miners are "sub-standard" as compared with other industries and that coal miners are hungry. Neither of these statements has stood up under the light of investigation.

* * *

As evidence, here is what the Truman Committee of the United States Senate reported recently after hearing Mr. Lewis' testimony:

"In his appearance before the committee, Mr. John L. Lewis sought to create the impression that widespread hunger was forcing the miners to fight for higher wages. The evidence shows coal miners now working six days a week at increased wages and with overtime for the sixth day are earning 50 per cent more in dollars than they were earning two years ago when they worked only five days a week."

* * *

Mr. Lewis claimed that prices had risen much more in coal towns than in other communities. The office of Price Administration made a check test of prices in the coal town of Nanty-Glo, Pennsylvania. The result? Prices were just about the same as in other parts of the country.

* * *

A recently completed survey embracing all fields of the Southern Appalachian area shows that in the last week of February 1943, the first period in which the six-day agreement was fully operative, the average earnings of miners were $46.79 per week.

If production continues at its present rate—as may be expected under war conditions—the average miner will earn at the annual rate of $2,433.00 in 1943 as compared with $1,893.00 in 1942. Is it reasonable to say that the wages of workers earning this amount of money are sub-standard—or that they are forced to go hungry?

* * *

In December 1942, the average hourly earnings of coal miners ranked fifth among average hourly earnings in the 22 leading industries of the United States. Since then their earnings have been greatly increased by the change from the 5-day, 35-hour week to the 6-day, 42-hour week with time and a half for all work over 35 hours. These facts show that there is no justification for Mr. Lewis' claim that the wages of coal miners are "sub-standard."

A REPORT TO THE NATION

on General Motors' Production, Employment, Economies and Profits

PRODUCTION

TODAY THE COUNTRY'S LARGEST PRODUCER OF WAR MATERIALS

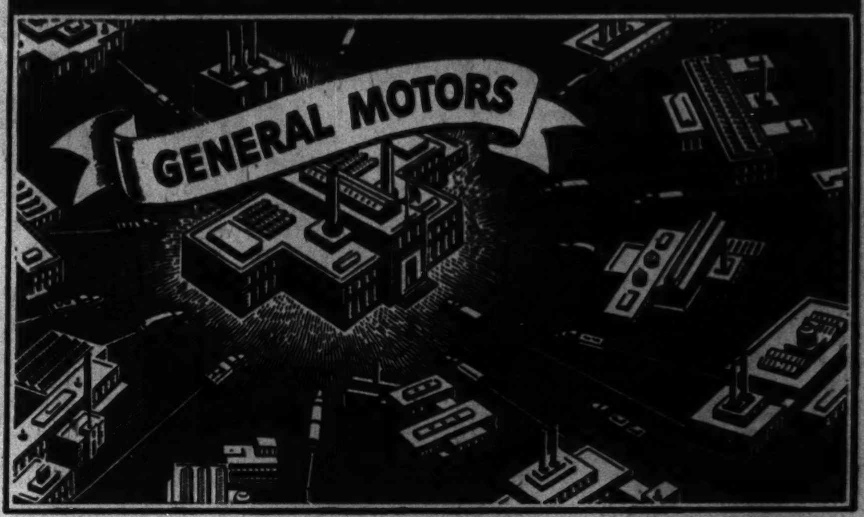
During 1942 war production in General Motors increased rapidly. Deliveries in the fourth quarter were more than four times those in the fourth quarter of 1941 and were at an annual rate of more than three billion dollars. In reality, war production increased far more rapidly than dollar value indicates—thanks to decreases in cost of manufacture. General Motors' interests and energies are concentrated on speeding war production.

PERFORMANCE

THROUGH BATTLE TESTS WITH FLYING COLORS—THE WORLD AROUND

General Motors' war products are now being used by both the Army and Navy on battlefronts all over the globe. Reports of their effectiveness—and, in many cases, of decided superiority over enemy equipment—are evidence of the quality materials and precision workmanship going into their manufacture. The great variety of equipment furnished is indicated below—and there are additional secret weapons which cannot be listed.

SUBCONTRACTING



THOUSANDS OF SUBCONTRACTORS AND SUPPLIERS ASSIST GENERAL MOTORS

Continuing peacetime practices, thousands of subcontractors and suppliers—companies which have demonstrated production efficiency and ability to maintain quality—have been utilized by General Motors. This practice has resulted in the spread of approximately one-half of General Motors' war work to outside firms. Thousands of these subcontractors and suppliers are firms employing 100 people or less.

"KNOW-HOW"

ENGINEERING AND PRODUCTION KNOWLEDGE PRODUCES RESULTS

The experience gained by General Motors over the years has proved of immense value in war work. This "Know-How" in the fields of engineering and manufacture has made possible quick conversion to war production, and resulted in simplification of design, improvement of quality and reduction in cost. This not only speeded up the work and got the job done, but saved manpower and millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money.

EMPLOYMENT

EMPLOYMENT FIGURES HAVE MOUNTED TO AN ALL-TIME HIGH

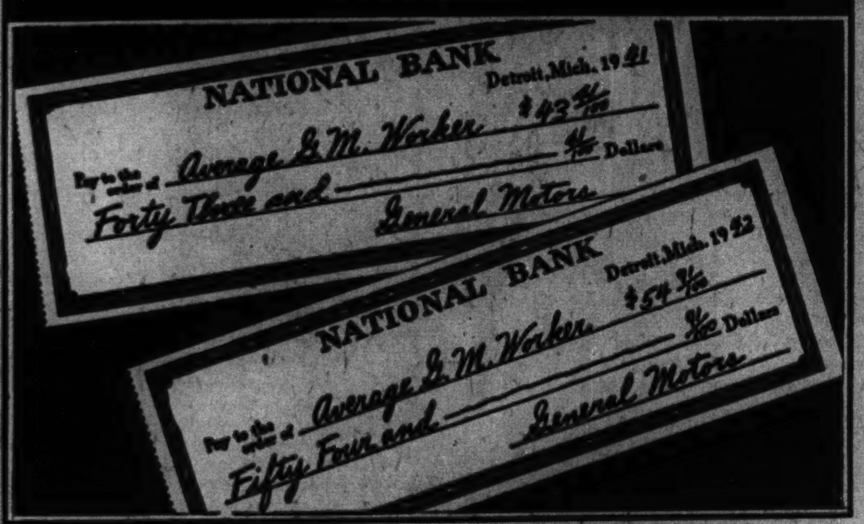
Although more than 50,000 G.M. people have joined the armed forces, employment in the U. S. and Canada rose to 370,000 in 1942—an all-time high. This increase involved great problems in training personnel. Hours worked increased to an average of 45.5 hours per week compared to 40.7 in 1941. General Motors' employment is spread through 107 plants in the U. S. in 46 communities in 13 states—and five plants in Canada.

SERVICE COOPERATION

TECHNICAL TRAINING AND FIELD SERVICE TO ASSIST THE ARMED FORCES

General Motors' training schools for technicians of the armed services have graduated more than 11,000 men—will train approximately 40,000 in 1943. Parts schedules have also been established, and maintenance units set up in combat areas. Technical observers are stationed at battlefronts, so that our engineers and mechanics, cooperating with the armed forces, can more rapidly improve the military effectiveness of weapons.

WAGES



WAGES REACH A NEW PEAK AS RATES AND HOURS INCREASE

Along with increased employment and working hours, wages have risen substantially. Hourly workers, who averaged $43.41 weekly in 1941, averaged $54.91 in 1942—an increase of 26%. The payroll for both salaried and hourly rate employes in 1942 was $859,314,062. G.M. paid $259,331 to employes for suggestions furthering the war effort. More than $7,000,000 was paid to employes through group insurance.

REDUCED COSTS

SAVING MILLIONS OF DOLLARS FOR UNCLE SAM—AND YOU

As a result of the industrial "Know-How" reviewed above, manufacturing costs were so reduced that, by the end of 1942, more than $177,000,000 had been voluntarily returned to the government in price reductions, and there will be an additional $183,000,000 in price reductions which will apply to subsequent deliveries under existing contracts.

PROFITS

GENERAL MOTORS' PROFITS WERE LOWER IN 1942

The General Motors policy of limiting its rate of profits, before taxes, on its manufacturing business to about half of 1941 resulted in a net income from manufacturing of 4½% of total sales. Common stock dividends were $2.00 per share in 1942, as compared with $3.75 per share in 1941.

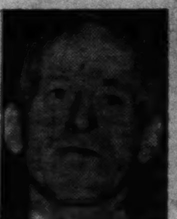
2 CONGRESSMEN ADD PLEAS FOR MacARTHUR AID

Hoffman and Tydings Ask More Pacific Help.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—Two members of congress spoke out today for intensification of the war against Japan as America's answer to the execution of American aviators who bombed Tokio.

Rep. Clare Hoffman.



Sen. Millard Tydings.

Rep. Clare Hoffman [R., Mich.] said in his weekly letter to his constituents that the martyrdom of the American flyer will not have been in vain if it spurs the nation to send all possible aid to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and Sen. Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], in a radio address in Baltimore, appealed for "greatly enlarged" activities in the Pacific.

Hoffman said America has no reason to believe Japan would show more humanity to American prisoners of war, or even American civilians, than it has shown to the Chinese.

He said America and the British should have acted when the Japanese invasion of China first became imminent and that aid to Japan should have stopped then. Shipments of gasoline, oil and scrap from America to Japan should have been halted, he said, asserting there was "no sense whatever" in giving aid to China and at the same time aid to Japan to fight China.

Condemns "Tenderness."

"Altogether too much tenderness has been shown by the United States to Britain and other international, commercial interests, which have regarded the carrying on of the war as a secondary project, the preservation and extension of trade relations as the primary purpose of their actions," he said.

"It is of no avail to rage and with loud angry words threaten retaliation; in crying out to indulge at this time in retaliation with innocent individuals as our victims. That course will but lead to frightfulness.

"The sacrifice made by the martyrs who were executed in Japan should, however, bring to each and every one of us a deep, grim determination to redouble and redouble again our efforts to defeat the Japs. It should bring a determination that we have a war of our own on our hands, and that, come what may in Europe, we are going to win in the Pacific; that we will never quit until Tokio has been taken.

"When Tokio has been taken, then will come the time of settlement and if we fail to exact full measure from the then living Japanese, who are responsible for the execution of our flyers, then, indeed, will we have failed those who went and those who go forth to do battle for us.

"Let us conserve our anger, our resentment, and turn it into an active, driving force, which will shove aside every obstacle which in any way hinders the complete and the utter defeat of the Japanese.

"As Lincoln at Gettysburg called for a rededication of our people, for the preservation of our Union, let the cruel and inhuman conduct of the Japs cause us to rededicate ourselves to their complete defeat."

Wants Greater Activity.

Sen. Tydings said the barbarous actions of the Japanese war lords should be a warning that those in charge of Japanese affairs cannot be trusted now or for many years after the war.

"I am looking forward to the day when our activities in the Pacific will be greatly enlarged, when more ships and planes and men will be used there against this nation of wickedness [Japan], than have been employed in that theater of war up to the present time," he said.

"Our defenders in the Pacific since Pearl Harbor have been brave and for the most part victorious in their encounters with the enemy, but these battles are being fought far from the Japanese nation.

"I am hopeful that those in high authority will soon see that a larger amount of our power is brought to bear to crush these people who have taken for the purposes of conquest the lives of millions of men, women, and children in the course of this war."

Press Runs in Science Museum

2,000 See It Go

An outmoded Tribune printing press which still can kick out papers almost as fast as a machine gun tho it now is a permanent piece in the Museum of Science and Industry thrilled 2,000 museum visitors yesterday when it was run to illustrate a lecture on the making of a newspaper.

The museum staged the real press runs and gave the lectures to commemorate the 239th anniversary of the first issue of the first successful newspaper published in the United States—the Boston News Letter. To accommodate the visitors in groups of several hundred, the press was run at hourly intervals from 11:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. following lectures by D. M. MacMaster, curator of the graphic arts section of the museum.

The anniversary program and press runs will be repeated on the same schedule today.

RADIO INDUSTRY TO TACKLE WAR TROUBLES TODAY

More than 1,000 leaders in the radio industry are expected to be on hand for the N. A. B. conference and allied meetings.

Mutual Broadcasting system executives will meet today and tomorrow in the Drake hotel with representatives of associated stations. The Frequency Modulation Broadcasters, Inc., and the Clear Channel group also will hold sessions.

REDS AND BLUES TAKE FIELD FOR 2D ARMY 'WAR'

Infantry Clash Today Believed Certain.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lebanon, Tenn., April 25.—Units of the 2d army moved under secret orders in strict blackout conditions tonight to take up positions for combat maneuvers scheduled to begin tomorrow. The operations are said to encompass the toughest maneuver program ever planned by American military leaders.

Service cars and mechanized equipment rolled in ceaseless streams along the highways as the Red and Blue forces headed for assembly areas specified in orders which were handed out as the men were finishing their Easter dinner. Opposing forces were expected to feel each other out by patrol reconnaisance before dawn and an infantry clash tomorrow is regarded as certain.

Part of Lear Program.

The maneuvers are a culmination of the stiff "fit to fight" régime of Lt. Gen. Ben Lear, whose job for the last two and one-half years has been whipping the 2d army into combat shape. News that Gen. Lear has been called to Washington to take command of all army ground forces spread thru the ranks as the troop movements got under way, causing a surge of pride among the men.

The Easter dinner served the troops was featured by huge steaks broiled in the open on field ranges and served with a blanket of fried onions. Grouped with the steak on the mess kits were creamed carrots, stewed peas, cold slaw, and chunks of butter.

Choice of Dessert.

Steaming coffee with sugar and condensed milk washed it down. There was a choice of stewed apricots or rice pudding for dessert, with oranges and apples to be cached for a midafternoon snack.

Summer khaki was declared the uniform of the day, and a real Easter parade developed as the men poured from their pup tents wearing the trim light weight apparel.

Highways and byways were filled with groups of strollers during the morning and busy chaplains hurried from one bivouac area to another in order that every soldier who wished might make his Easter devotions.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

N. K. writes: "I have had a lot of experience as a well driller and I have several friends who are experienced at different kinds of work and trades including construction work. Can we find out how to apply for a particular job when we're drafted?"

ANSWER: In at least one army corps it is possible to be interviewed before you are drafted and if you are qualified for a particular job or line of work, you will be given a letter insuring your proper placement after entering service. For instance, the corps of engineers can use a person with well drilling experience. They also can use such diversified trades and experience as tool dressers, stationary boiler firemen, engine lathe operators, utility repairmen, power line men, railway section hands, etc. The corps of engineers has supplied us with data sheets listing over 100 types of workers they need, and the data sheet also includes instructions on how and where to appear for a pre-induction interview. If you and your friends would like copies, send us a large self addressed stamped envelope.

J. E. O. writes: "I saw in the papers the army wasn't going to take any more limited service men. Have you checked on it?"

ANSWER: Yes, we checked on it as soon as we heard about it and learned that the statement isn't true. The army quotas will include at least five per cent limited service men.

W. B. B. writes: "I think your paper printed information that under the new reclassification all fathers automatically would be placed in 3-A. Well, I've been married since Dec. 26, 1936, and I am employed as a welder in a vital defense industry. I have a child born March 25, 1941—eight months before Pearl Harbor, and yet I have received notice from my board to appear for my physical. Can you figure out what the draft boards are trying to do?"

ANSWER: Registrants who were married before Dec. 8, 1941, and have a child born on or before Sept. 25, 1941, who regularly maintain a bonafide family relationship and are employed in a deferrable job in an essential industry, are supposed to be in 3-A and not subject to call or reclassification until ordered by the director of selective service. It is always advisable for registrants to give us their order numbers, local board number and location when writing to us about these matters because a lot of delay can be avoided in getting matters straightened out.

C. E. I. writes: "My husband overseas says that when the censors get thru with my letters the only thing left is 'hello dear' and my signature."

ANSWER: Why don't you send us a stamped self-addressed envelope for "How and What to Write to Men Overseas," and maybe you will have better luck!

INSTALMENT XIII.

FAITH WEAKENED.

McNair's eyes almost popped out of his head and he dropped back to his chair with a hard thump, wildly staring at Brant. His hands shook so badly that he had difficulty lighting a cigaret.

He knew, as well as the others, that Brant's threat was indeed a promise. It would have been impossible to look into the smoldering black depths of his eyes and not know it.

Sutton and O'Toole were also staring at him, as if they had suddenly encountered a wild man, but Kane Harmon was still amused. He struck a match, took his time about lighting the cigar, then slowly arose from his chair and faced Brant.

"Well," he said, "it is a relief to me that you finally got it off your chest. Ever since you first came snooping around here, Regan, you have been acting in a suspicious manner, as if there were something wrong with our affairs. Needless to say, I think you're a bit off balance. But that is neither here nor there. You suspect us of being crooks of some kind. You mean to nail our hides to the wall. Those were blunt statements. I'll give it to you straight from the shoulder, myself." He puffed at the cigar a moment and the smile left his eyes. "Regan, when I get thru with you you'll wish you'd never seen San Francisco, or ever heard the name of Kane Harmon. I won't drag you into the courts. I'll have your own wife dragging you thru them. And that, also, is no threat. It's a promise. Now I guess we really understand one another."

Brant nodded and a warm flood of excitement arose within him. Here was a man worth fighting, a man who would carry that fight to the bitter end. Intimidation meant nothing to Harmon, as it did to the others. Threats rolled off his back like so much water. He stood solidly on his own two feet and he fought with every weapon at his command.

Brant quizzically regarded Harmon, trying to plumb the depths of the man, then said, "Okay. You have an office made ready for me in Experimental. I'm not asking you, I'm telling you. Furthermore, I want production stopped on the XB-42. I'm telling you, again, with 51 votes. And you, Sutton, have your engineers prepare for my inspection all the blueprints on past experimental models. I'm taking over tomorrow morning." He paused a moment, then continued, looking at each one of the men, "If you fail to do exactly what I have said, then, so help me, I'll do a little gambling myself and vote every one of you out of office. That's all, gentlemen. Good day."

That warm flood of excitement stayed with him until he was halfway back to San Francisco—and then it dried and was ashes. He suddenly realized that Dian would be caught squarely in the middle. It would not be his fight, alone.

Kane Harmon started the ball rolling almost before Brant had left the plant. When he arrived at the apartment he found Dian standing before the front windows, looking out over the bay. When she turned to face him he noticed the drawn look about her eyes and mouth and her skin so pale that her eyes stood out in bold relief.

When Brant kissed her she did not return it. She was rigid in his arms. Then she nodded toward a chair and the two sat down facing each other, Brant closely watching her between narrowed lids.

He said, "All right, hon'. Something has happened."

She soberly nodded. "Yes, something—" She leaned forward, hugging her knees. "Brant, I never meant to tell you before, but I guess I had better—now. When I turned over to you my interest in the company I did it for two reasons. One was that I knew you wanted to be busy doing something and the other was a—a gesture."

Brant already knew, but he asked, "How do you mean?"

"Well, darling, there was a lot of talk going around, mean, narrow minded talk. You were a fortune hunter. You married me not for myself but for what you could get."

"Dian—"

She silenced him. "Please. I haven't forgotten the night you asked me to marry you. So there is really no reason for you and me to ever give a second thought to such ridiculous rumors. But I—I know a great many people and they—some of them believed it. It hurt me to think that any one could regard you in that light. So I—I made a gesture, to show my faith in you, to tell the world. You see, Brant?"

She was almost pleading with him and he nodded. "I understand, more than you think."

She sighed. "Then that makes it easier. You went to the plant for the first time today, since having control in your name and you deliberately broke a promise to me, the only promise I have ever asked of you."

"How do you know?"

"Kane telephoned a little while ago," she said. "He told me about the meeting. He said they offered you the management of the experimental division."

Brant laughed. "He said that?"

"Of course. Didn't they?"

"Well, it hardly came about that way. But go on."

"Then he said that you accepted it and the first move you made was to stop production on the new bomber. Brant," she cried, "that was the one thing I asked you to promise not to do! I know you don't like Kane. I have eyes. I could see the way you felt toward him. That was why I wanted that promise."

Brant crossed to her side and took her in his arms. "Look; you have faith in me, haven't you?"

"O, darling, yes. I do believe in you. There must have been a reason."

He brushed the tears from her eyes and said, "You'll need that faith, all of it and then some, before I'm thru."

"But why?"

"Plenty of reasons and yet not one that I can definitely prove. I might even break more promises, do things that won't appear to be sensible and act in a highly suspicious manner. I'll stretch that faith of yours to the breaking point, but hang onto it!"

She turned in his arms and looked up at him. "I still don't understand. But I'll hang on. Honest. Only—Brant, that bomber has to be completed. We have millions tied up in it. If it isn't completed it will pull us all down."

"And if it's rejected the blow will be worse."

"But the men actually working on it think it's all right, or they wouldn't have taken the gamble. You are the only one. You don't think much of it."

"I think it's rotten. Three or four years ago it would have been a good bomber, not today."

"But how can you say such a thing, against the collected opinion of all the engineers, Sutton, Kane—"

"Don't worry, I can say it. And there is one point I think I can prove. I believe I can let you know in a week or so how we stand on that plane. Hold tight until then, will you?"

She shrugged. "I guess I'll have to. You see," she said, finally forcing a smile, "I do have faith in you."

But that faith, Brant knew, was weakened. His promise had meant something to her, something more than the reason for which it was given. Now that it had been broken she would be doubtful of any promise he made. Kane would prey upon that first hint of weakness and enlarge upon it. Her faith in Harmon was still intact. Harmon knew how to play his cards.

Brant wondered, that night, what direction Kane was taking, trying to get at him thru Dian. Then he realized that California was a common property state, that the property of the husband belonged in equal portion to the wife. She had signed over to him her share in the corporation, but her name was as prominent on the document as was Brant's and she still had as much control over its use as he did. If it ever came to a separation that stock would have to be equally divided between them. It might even go further than that.

So that was what Kane had been talking about when he had said that Dian, herself, would drag Brant thru the courts. He had something up his sleeve, some plan. Brant fell asleep trying to puzzle out what that plan could be.

SCAN NEW DEAL DEFEATS FOR TIP ON 1944 TRENDS

Survey Shows Change in Congress Attitude.

Economy Ax Used.

Rexford Guy Tugwell, governor of Puerto Rico, a charter member of the White House brain trust, has been given a hard ride. The natives asked for his recall. A senate committee approved a measure to oust Tugwell. A house committee voted funds for the island, but stipulated none of the money should be available while Tugwell is governor. He is still there, for how long nobody knows.

The house has sought to kill the farm security administration, by not appropriating funds. This agency is an apple in the eyes of New Dealers. What the senate may do is a question.

The house has also used the ax on the national resources planning board by withholding funds. This board is headed by an uncle of the President, Frederic A. Delano. It has put out a cradle to the grave Utopian dream plan.

Also, the house has reduced funds for the Home Owners' Loan corporation as a step towards its liquidation. The senate has still to act on these house actions on appropriations.

Freedom of Press Issue.

Freedom of the press was raised as an issue by the house in ordering an inquiry into the war production board's order reducing the amount of newsprint [paper on which newspapers are printed] available for publication of newspapers and magazines.

Fresh outbursts over freedom of the press arose in congress last week. One target was the proposed gag on the press to prevent reporters from talking to delegates at the international food conference to be held May 18 in Hot Springs, Va., a nonmilitary matter. On propaganda, the senate judiciary committee has voted for an investigation of all war information and control of war news.

Weeks ago the house upset New Deal opposition by extending the life of the Dies committee which has exposed Communists and crackpots in government jobs.

Before Vice President Henry A. Wallace went to South America to spread his global planning, the senate, as an apparent counter-active, took steps to create a committee of its own on post-war planning.

Bankhead Bill a Club.

The McKellar bill requiring senate confirmation of policy making officials who receive more than $4,500 a year has been approved by the senate judiciary committee. President Roosevelt wrote a letter to Vice President Wallace opposing this bill. Officials of the Tennessee valley authority were recently included in this bill. Sen. McKellar, a Tennessee Democrat, broke with the White House over TVA, which is one of the earliest and most extensive of the New Deal's experiments in planned society.

The President vetoed the much discussed Bankhead bill on parity farm prices saying if it were passed over his veto the result would be an "inflationary tornado." The veto is in the refrigerator. In congress the possibility of passing the Bankhead bill over the veto [Sen. Bankhead is an Alabama Democrat] is regarded as a club over the White House to keep wages from advancing too much, in the effort to prevent inflation. Labor has more influence at the White House while agriculture holds the balance in congress.

This is by no means an exhaustive inventory of New Deal reverses, but it is indicative of the new spirit in Washington, where the President and the rubber stamp no longer dominate congress, where now a combination of Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats are in virtual control.

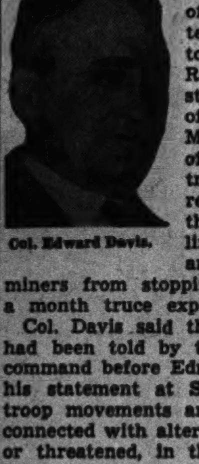
DENIES PLANNING USE OF TROOPS IN MINE AREAS

Col. Davis Replies to State UMW Head's Charges.



Col. Edward Davis.

Troop movements in the sixth service command are strictly for training, Col. Edward Davis, chief of staff, said yesterday in reply to a charge by Ray Edmundson, state president of the United Mine Workers of America, that troops were being readied to enter the southern Illinois coal field and "intimidate" miners from stopping work when a month truce expires Friday.

Col. Davis said that Edmundson had been told by the 6th service command before Edmundson issued his statement at Springfield that troop movements are "in no way connected with altercations, alleged or threatened, in the coal fields."

Would End Peace Hopes.

Francis Murphy, state director of labor, revealed he had received reports of army activity in the coal fields during the last month and said:

"The use of troops would destroy all hopes of continuing work in the mine fields. We have hopes of arriving at a new contract but the miners would never work with troops around. If federal intervention continues, labor conditions in Illinois, which have been very peaceful, will be more chaotic than in other states involved in labor difficulties."

Charges Troops Ready.

Murphy said he was certain Gov. Green would not call out the militia and Gen. Leo Boyle, militia commander, said the militia was not planning to move into the mine fields.

Edmundson's statement said: "We have been informed that official arrangements already have been completed for the entry into the extreme southern Illinois coal area by specially trained troops early in the week. It is our best judgment these troops will be used to further intimidate miners into remaining at work."

He said he understood that while some other reason would be given for the troop shift, the real reason was to "impose a Nazi philosophy of bayonet forced labor."

TRUCK HAULAGE NEXT SUBJECT IN FUEL OIL PROBE

Tank Car Ban Studied by Legislators.

BY JOHNSON KANADY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sen. Earle B. Searcy.

Springfield, Ill., April 25.—The legislative committee investigating fuel oil rationing, whose recommendations last month attracted nation-wide attention, is preparing to tackle transportation phases of next winter's fuel oil supply, it was learned today.

Sen. Earle Benjamin Searcy [R., Springfield], chairman of the committee, said the problem of moving oil from supply depots to dealers has been raised to grave importance by new government regulations restricting the intrastate transportation of petroleum production to trucks. Unless trucking facilities are available and adequate, fuel oil users may find themselves with empty tanks despite a plentitude of oil, he said.

Fear Effect of Ruling.

Searcy said the committee will meet within two weeks to study the new regulations and see whether it can suggest measures to offset this new threat to the heating season. Previous inquiries by the legislative group showed that during the heating season now closing no actual fuel oil shortage existed in Illinois, but that the rationing system caused difficulties to dealers and users.

Modifications in the rationing setup recommended by the committee already have brought indications that changes designed to make oil regulations less oppressive will be placed in effect next season, Searcy said. He expressed satisfaction in these prospective changes, but said the transportation situation is causing new worries.

Regulation Explained.

"This new government directive places the entire burden of oil transportation on trucks as far as Illinois dealers and users are concerned," Searcy said. He explained that the purpose of the directive has been set forth as follows:

"To restrict transportation of petroleum products within small intrastate areas to trucks and to turn over to tank cars and long-haul trucks, if needed, the shipping of all current production and surpluses from our oil producing middle west to the east and to war shipping points.

"Four Illinois supply and distribution areas are defined as 15, 16, 17, and 18, embracing the northern, central, southeastern, and southern counties, respectively. No oil will be permitted from the outside to consumers within each allotted area, as I understand it. All consumers living within specified areas must procure oil and gasoline from depots within the respective areas. Trucks are commanded to do all the hauling, the tank cars being reserved for interstate use."

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

April 25, 1943.

FOUR wood duck nesting houses have been placed on trunks of trees by one of the ponds on the Wheaton farm and alongside one of the small creeks. The houses are modeled after the type used by the Illinois Natural History survey to encourage the nesting of this most beautiful of all wild duck species.

The boxes are similar to ordinary bluebird houses, except that they are about four times as large. The boxes are 24 inches long, 10 inches wide, and 10 inches deep, with an entrance four inches in diameter.

On Familiar Grounds.

Three of the four houses have been placed in locations where wood ducks have been seen in the last two years. One is on an oak tree 75 yards from the southwest bay of the big pond, where a pair of woodies was seen last spring. Another is on a tree about 50 yards from the northeast corner of the pond, where a pair of wood ducks hatched a brood last season.

The third box was wired to a willow tree at the northwest corner of the pond, and a fourth placed alongside the little creek which winds thru the farm's lower woods. A pair of wood ducks was seen on this creek three weeks ago.

More than 1,000 of the wood duck nesting houses have been erected along the Illinois river. More than half of them were occupied. Bird fans and duck hunters have watched with interest the comeback of the beautifully plumaged wood ducks during the last few years, and much of the credit for their increase along the river has been attributed to the nesting boxes.

The boxes are placed on tree trunks from 11 to 17 feet above ground level, either close to water or as far as a mile from a shoreline. Frank Bellrose Jr., assistant game technician of the Illinois Natural History survey, reports that wood ducks aren't particular about their nesting sites. Their natural nesting place is a tree cavity, but he has seen them raise their broods from such headquarters as old nail kegs, cartridge boxes, chimneys, and abandoned hawk nests. One pair is known to have used the wood-burning stove of an abandoned cottage as a nesting place.

How They Reach Ground.

A natural question about the wood ducks and their nesting habits relates to the method by which newly-hatched ducklings leave the elevated nest. Bellrose, on at least 25 occasions, has seen this occurrence and has photographed it several times. He states that when the ducklings are old enough to leave the nest the hen flies to the ground or an adjacent tree limb, and calls to the brood. The ducklings answer by climbing to the nest entrance by means of sharp claws, perch on the rim of the entrance hole for several seconds, then flutter to the ground.

★ The GARDEN ★

THE old controversy between the two schools of Chicagoland gardeners—those sticking to an April 1 planting date and those who believe that April 20 to May 1 is the proper planting time—has had a thoro hearing this season.

The gardener of the sample plots on the Wheaton farm believes in early planting, and in nine of the past 11 years has had the seeds of hardy vegetables in the ground on or before April 1. This year his seeds, now sprouted above the ground, have undergone several freezes [on two nights the temperature went down into the low 20's] and one light snowfall.

He believes that he will have early vegetables on the table two to three weeks ahead of gardeners in similar locations who had not planted before April 20. In the case of peas [which are distinctly a cool weather crop] he believes his crop will mature a week to 10 days ahead of those planted on or around April 20, and also that the crop will be much heavier.

During cool weather of early April seedlings develop deep and heavy root stock which gives them the foundation for heavier and more productive growth.

Creative Work Need Not Spoil Child's Routine

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copy.: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The professor related:

"It was at the end of one of a series of lectures on creativeness in children, in the question period, that a mother stood up and said:

"'The other night I was tired and decided to go to bed early. My son, Tommy, who is 11, was taking his bath, so I went to where he was rather abstractedly scrubbing away, and bade him good night, followed by the usual warning about being sure to put out the bathroom light and open his windows and so forth, and then I turned in. Well, I'm a light sleeper, so after a while I woke up. I usually look at the time when I do that; it was 2 o'clock. Then I noticed a crack of light under the door. Wondering what it might be I got up and went into the hall. The light was streaming from the half open bathroom door.

"'Thinking Tommy had forgotten to snap it off I went in to do so. There to my astonishment, sat Tommy in the water, using the bathtub seat [you know, the ones that go across and rest on the rims] as a table, and writing for all he was worth.

"'Tommy! I exclaimed. What on earth . . . ?

"'He looked up. "Hi, mom," he said. "I had an inspiration to write a story and I was afraid it would all go away if I waited till morning. I've tried that, and once I even put down some notes, but it was no dice. Gosh, mom, is it late?'

"The lecturer, who is a notable figure in the field of the creative education of children, laughed, then went on:

"That mother asked me anxiously, 'What would you do if that happened often in your family?' And I answered, "I'd let Tommy alone."'"

A recent article concerned the creative impulse in children, and the need of our recognizing it and giving it every possible opportunity for expression. However, as I listened to the professor's advice to Tommy's mother, I couldn't quite agree. I don't mean that we have to be iron clad about rules for lights out and schedules. Creative impulses are not respecters of arbitrary hours for this and that, it is true, but we must keep our feet on the ground. Certainly Tommy's mother could have struck a compromise, such as: "The next time you're in the tub and get an inspiration you feel you mustn't lose, just get out of the tub, dry and whisk into your warm robe and bed, and write there."

Many creative workers, painters, musicians, writers, have times like that which overtook Tommy. But many of them have fairly regular days of work. If children have leisure at home and understanding parents, their creative impulses usually can find an outlet without making a practice of fantastic hours and occasions.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

The salvage sewing division of Bundles for America has sent out an appeal for more volunteer workers to make garments for needy families of service men, as well as to help supply clothing for any needy family affected by war conditions and referred to Bundles by a social or welfare organization or a church.

Every month the organization sends 100 garments each to Fort Sheridan and Great Lakes. In addition to this supply, it delivers and handles 40 to 60 cases a month recommended by the army and navy relief. New material and findings are donated by Chicago manufacturers, and used garments are given to salvage sewing by individuals. The finished articles are boxed according to size.

With the demands of the department constantly increasing, Chicago manufacturers have increased their supply of materials, and now more women are needed to man the sewing machines and to do finishing work. Volunteers need not be experts, as the garments are made as simple as possible, and there are no regular hours. The sewing division is at 14 North Michigan avenue, and Mrs. Helen Crane is the director.

In the belief that every woman is increasingly conscious these days of the need to do a better home making job and to produce and conserve on the home front, the School of Domestic Arts and Sciences has scheduled a summer session of courses helpful in the war. These courses are designed to train more efficient home workers, food workers to staff food service units, child care aids and textile production assistants and supervisors. Upon completion of the courses, which will start on June 21 and last for six weeks, trainees will replace expert workers who have enrolled in government service.

Miss Mary Lofquist, daughter of Capt. E. A. Lofquist and Mrs. Lofquist of Great Lakes, will be among the young women receiving their degrees today at Scripps college, Claremont, Cal. Miss Lofquist, a graduate of Ferry hall in Lake Forest, has specialized in history, and is planning to enter government service. She has been active on the war garden committee at Scripps.

Mary Lofquist.

More than 700 service men will be special guests at a party on Saturday evening, May 8, at the U. S. O. center at 131 South Wabash avenue, with the Chicago Arden Shore committee as hostesses. Husbands of the committee members will assist with the program by operating the cloakroom, where holders of lucky numbers will be awarded cartons of cigarets. The party will start with dinner and will be followed by dancing contests, the winning soldiers or sailors to receive long distance telephone calls to their families. Mrs. Homer Lange [Janis Porter], will sing.

Mrs. Walter Gramm is chairman of the party, assisted by Mrs. Grier D. Patterson and Mrs. Melvin Sowles. Among the Arden Shore members and their husbands who plan to lend a hand are the George Williamsons, the John Alden Morgans, the George W. Travers, the Arnold Kirkebys, and the George L. Plamondons.

The committee's annual subscription drive, planned for April, was postponed until May, as the members voted to devote this month to the second war loan drive. Their booth in the Palmolive building has sold more than a million dollars' worth of war bonds and stamps.

The promotion of WAAC 3d Officer Mabel K. Busse to the rank of 2d officer [1st lieutenant] has been announced by the war department. Second Officer Busse is now attending the adjutant general's school at Fort Washington, Maryland, and is one of 17 WAAC officers ordered to the school, along with 500 army officers, for advanced instruction in army administrative procedure. She is the daughter of the late George F. Busse, and is a graduate of Bowen High school and John Marshall law school. Prior to enrolling in the WAAC she was connected with the law office of Maurice A. Barancik.

Military Posts Mark Easter with Services

BY MAURINE MYERS.

With the clear trumpeting of the "call to church" by the drum and bugle corps at Great Lakes Naval Training station, long lines of seamen filed across Ross field parade grounds yesterday, from early morning mass until vesper services late in the afternoon. Every man on the post attended at least one of the 40 services held during the day. With many went wives, mothers, or sweethearts, in Easter finery despite the showers.

Highlight of the day's religious activities was the broadcast of a special service at the 10 o'clock mass, held before a congregation of 4,000 in a drill hall on the west side of the field. For this service, with its theme of "Anchors Aweigh," both script and music had been prepared by post personnel. The Great Lakes Naval Training station choir of 60 voices sang the music for the mass, composed especially by the choir's director, Cosmo Pusateri, specialist first class.

Held simultaneously across the parade grounds in the post auditorium were Protestant services. There were capacity congregations at each of the services during the day.

At Fort Sheridan, yesterday's services in the three small chapels on the post brought to 60 the total for Holy week. Post Chaplain Otto K. Jonas preached at the main Protestant service, held at 11 o'clock in post chapel 1. The Easter music was sung by a small choir composed of WAACs and enlisted men. Col. F. C. Rogers, post commander, was in attendance at that service, and at an earlier Catholic mass.

There were many women in attendance at services at both Great Lakes and Fort Sheridan today, but the majority of them seem to have traded last year's flowered hats for the trim uniforms of WAVEs, WAACs, or navy or army nurses.

Jack and Jill Players to Entertain Zonta Club

Miss Marie Agnes Foley's Jack and Jill players will give a benefit performance of their new comedy, "Wild Cat Willie in the Doghouse," for the Zonta Club of Chicago at 8:30 o'clock tonight in their theater at 180 East Delaware place. Several of the boys and girls appearing in the play were in the troupe taken by the director to Canada a few months ago on a benefit tour for the Canadian national refugee fund. Miss Foley is a Zonta member. Tonight's performance is for the club's service fund, which is being used this year for scholarships in nursing.

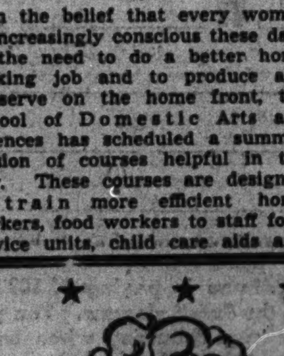
An Invitation to WHITE COLLAR GIRLS WHO WANT TO BECOME "WAR WORKERS"



One of the biggest problems in the operation of war plants today is the one of obtaining stenographic, clerical, and other "white collar" workers. All of the glamour—the movie stories and the radio scripts—have been tied up with Rosie the Riveter or Wilma the Welder. The gal driving the typewriter or filling the file cabinet just hasn't been made to feel she's an essential "war worker."

But—for every ten or so Rosies or Wilmas, there still has to be one Tillie the Typist or Clara the Clerk. We know! Somebody has to keep track of Rosie's riveting record, figure her pay, order more rivets, and do a dozen other tasks to keep Rosie perking.

This is an invitation to a couple of hundred Tillie's and Clara's —white collar gals who want to be "war workers." Girls between 16 and 40 who can type—or run an adding machine or file records or deliver mail to far flung corners of a busy war plant where machines hum with war work.

We have several thousand girl "war workers" of the type popularly thought of as "war workers"—running precision production machines and doing a swell job. We also have several hundred office workers doing the less publicized and less spectacular jobs. But—all of them wear the same Army-Navy "E" pin. They're all essential "WAR WORKERS."

We need more who are willing to help in the just-as-tough, just-as-essential clerical and stenographic jobs. We need both experienced and inexperienced-but-willing girls. If you want to talk it over,

Raincoat Sets Fashion Key in Easter Parade

Easter, which fell on the latest possible date this spring, came a day late for an Easter parade. Had the weather been sunshiny like Saturday's it would have been another story. One look at yesterday morning's gray skies and Mr. and Mrs. Prospective Easter Parader reached for his or her raincoat and umbrella and sallied forth in family car, taxi, bus, or street car to worship on the holy day.

The churches were as well filled as ever, but those who usually come out to see and be seen remained indoors. Gone were the long lines of cars that customarily creep south in Lake Shore drive, past the Drake, and past the Fourth Presbyterian church, where the bulk of the most fashionable Easter parading is done.

Missing until the last minute were the throngs that gather on all four corners of Delaware place and Michigan avenue to watch the service let out at Fourth church. There were but a handful of spectators around during the early part of the morning. Churchgoers hastened into the edifice with all possible speed, especially as an extra bit of rain poured down just before 11 o'clock.

Spectators Watch Fourth Presbyterian's Worshipers.

The nearest semblance to an Easter parade followed dismissal of the Fourth's congregation. Raindrops had ceased falling and a knot of spectators gathered to watch the worshipers depart. Then, as churchgoers pushed thru the waiting crowd, the traditional Easter noon scene at this corner was repeated.

Two weeks before Easter these predictions were made:

"The clothes will be all suits. You will see more tailored ones than ever before in your life. Then you will see military topcoats, but not with brass buttons. Gray will be the most popular color. Then navy, then red. There will be white hats, if decent weather; then flowered hats."

What churchgoers saw yesterday, however, peeking from under their umbrellas, were suits and topcoats, and plenty of them, especially the classic three piece suit combinations. The red Chesterfields and the uniform type coats came out to some extent, but most of these new coats that the stores have been selling so well were left at home, perhaps because the American woman for the first time in her life really is conserving and caring for her clothes.

Navy Blue and Darker Colors Are Predominant.

There was not too much gray in evidence either, for that is a color that goes better with sunshine. Navy blue and dark colors won the day, and on milady's feet were sensible shoes—old ones, probably—that had been lovingly polished and polished.

"This isn't white piqué hat weather," commented a woman as she scurried into church.

Most hats were vivid and gay, however, and provided the only bright, Eastery touches visible. Almost every woman wore flowers on her hat—artificial ones, of course—or fresh ones on her lapel. White gloves of washable fabrics or doeskin were everywhere, another instance of the new trend in purchasing clothes that can be cared for easily. The happiest looking worshipers were WAACs and WAVES, with their protective hoods.

Two of the proudest women seen yesterday were Mrs. Loyal Davis and Mrs. Morrow Krum, whose Easter suits had been made of woolen goods sent to them from England by their husbands, Col. Krum and Col. Davis. Mrs. Krum worshiped in Lake Forest. Her suit, beautifully tailored, was of Glenurquhart plaid. Mrs. Davis attended services at St. James' because she and her companion, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, could not gain admission to the Davis pew at the Fourth Presbyterian. Mrs. Davis' suit was of blue and wine checked tweed, and with it she wore a little beanie of the same tweed.

White Satin Rain Coat Makes Striking Costume.

A striking costume worn to St. Chrysostom's, where the rain did not affect the choice of costume quite so much as at other churches, was the white satin rain coat stitched in black with which Mrs. William J. Kelly topped her Easter finery. She was one of the few to wear an all white hat, and hers was a cunning little sailor of stiffened white eyelet embroidery.

Col. Ralph James, who attended services at St. Chrysostom's, was one of the few men abroad in a top hat. He and Mrs. James, the Charles W. Dempsters, the Charles E. Browns, Mrs. Tracy Alden and one of her young sons; Mrs. Alfred M. Castle, her daughter, Mrs. Edmund J. Doering II., Mrs. Henry Faurot, Mrs. William E. Ragland, Mrs. Frank Miller, Mrs. Henry G. Barkhausen, and Lawrence Whiting and his young daughter, Barbara, were some of St. Chrysostom's "regulars." Mrs. Brown's costume was a stunning one, a black dress under a black and white checked coat which she wore slung over her shoulders; a bandeau with white plastic flowers on her head, and a white carnation corsage.

"The crowd isn't as big as usual," said Orville J. Taylor, one of the senior vestrymen at St. James' church. Many of the young men who customarily serve as ushers were absent on duty in the army or navy. Their places were taken by naval officers and midshipmen who worship at the church. Thus parishioners were greeted by Midshipman G. Wightman Williams of Providence, R. I., whose greeting, "Good morning, Sir, Happy Easter" in warm accents made a pleasant impression as he handed out programs.

Youngster Attends First Easter at St. James'.

Mrs. Charles H. Brown, in a trim, khaki suit, brown felt wing hat, and furs, wore army wings pinned to her jacket. Her husband, Capt. Brown, flight surgeon with the army Pacific forces, did not arrive in Chicago in time for Easter services. However, Mrs. Brown expects him home soon on sick leave.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine's Easter flowers were orchids, which she had pinned to her sable jacket. Mrs. Robert Baker had one of the most unusual hats in the congregation. It was a black straw with white feathers polka-dotted in many colors, and set at an angle across her forehead. She, too, wore orchids on her sable jacket.

Capt. Benyaurd B. Wygant, in charge of the naval reserve midshipmen's school at Northwestern university, came with Mrs. Wygant, who wore a trim black coat and a white flowered hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Clement Studebaker and their young daughter, Helen Ann, also attended services at St. James'. Mrs. Studebaker and Helen Ann both chose navy blue for their Easter costumes.

Among other worshipers in crowded St. James' were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Frey, Mrs. Albert S. Gardner, Miss Alice Hooper, and Lewis Bernays.

Gay Luncheon Parties Follow Church Services.

A number of gay luncheon parties followed Easter church services. Friends gathered in the Casino club and in the Drake and the Blackstone hotels, where contests for the most suitably clad women were held.

Mrs. Robert Cavenaugh's Easter costume won the prize as the most suitable at breakfast in the Mayfair room of the Blackstone. William E. Vogelback, spokesman for the four judges, awarded her as a prize a natural straw pillbox topped with green ribbon and American Beauty roses. The ensemble which brought Mrs. Cavenaugh the prize was a black crêpe two piece frock, edged with self-ruffling around the neckline and bracelet length sleeves, with a pink vestee from neckline to waist. Her hat was a pink straw with a high crown. The brim, sweeping high on the left side, was trimmed with a banding of black tulle, 20 tiny rows of it, and a pouff of the tulle at the front. Her shoes were black leather pumps.

Because she "looked like a soldier's or sailor's dream," Miss Saria Hill paraded away with the prize in the costume contest in the Camellia house of the Drake. Miss Hill wore a simple gray suit dress with white piqué revers and a matching bumper bonnet swathed in gray veiling. Her prize, a tiny white hat with pearly gardenias and a maline bow, would make her a winner next year if she chose to wear it.

James C. Thompson, Edward Pool, Martha Errolle and Mrs. Loyal Davis, the contest judges, chose Miss Hill as the winner because of the simplicity of her ensemble and its suitability for a war time Easter.

Midshipmen from N. U. Guests at Casino Club.

A table extending the length of the Casino ballroom was reserved for midshipmen from Northwestern who had breakfast there as club guests with daughters of club members. Mrs. John L. Cochran, president of the Casino, welcomed guests informally in a stunning dress of gray crêpe and a hat that combined white bird's wins, tipped in red, and red and white flowers. She and Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins chose their own Easter corsages. Mrs. Cochran's was a stunning one of Easter lilies arranged within each other to form one huge flower. Donald F. McPherson, also top-hatted, and Mrs. McPherson, in a gay blue suit and matching bonnet; Mrs. Farley Hopkins, Miss Shirley Hopkins, Capt. and Mrs. Graham Aldis, the David Tabers, the Byron S. Harveys, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, Miss Barbara McClurg, the Barrett Wendells, and the Secor Cunninghams were some of those at the Casino.

Attending Easter services at the First Methodist church of Oak Park was Mrs. William M. Ingraham of Portland, Me., formerly of Evanston, who has come to spend Easter in Chicago almost every year since she has lived in the east. Her husband, William M. Ingraham, assistant secretary of war during the first World war, was unable to accompany her.

Also at the First Methodist church was Mrs. William Pennell Rock Jr. of Forest Park, who was husbandless over Easter, as Lt. Rock was away on navy duty. With Mrs. Rock were her two children, Martha Key and William Pennell Jr., and her mother, Mrs. W. E. Shelton of Mayfield, Ky.

Khaki and Blue Evident in Suburban Congregation.

Men in army khaki and navy blue were scattered sparsely thru the overflow congregation at the Easter morning service of the First Congregational church at Evanston.

A particularly striking couple were Col. and Mrs. L. D. Hall, who were accompanied to the services by Col. H. M. Burnett. Mrs. Hall's black redingote over a black and white print dress was accented with snow white accessories, and her corsage was of white gardenias.

Little Catherine Ann Bjork, who was being christened at morning service, was a gay picture in a Scotch tweed coat and hat of pastel hues against a beige background as she entered the church with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Bjork, and her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ivar Kindwall.

Easter showed its colors at services in the First Presbyterian church, 6400 South Kimbark avenue. The 'teen aged girls were all out for red and many wore gay yellow dresses and hats to highlight their flaming coats.

The honors went to the children in the Easter parade at the Monumental Baptist Negro church, 729 East Oakwood boulevard. The 'teen aged boys were resplendant in zoot suits. The little boys' costumes were copied in detail from the military units. Theron Preston Washington, 4, of 427 Bowen avenue, was a soldier, and William Earl Locke Jr., 4, 4810 St. Lawrence avenue, was a sailor. Theron was an officer and Willie was a gob, but they were equally impressed with the real life sailors who attended services. They were Lawrence C. Woods of Hot Springs, Ark., and Charles J. Streeter of Detroit, both of whom are stationed at Great Lakes.

There was a WAAC in the church, too. She was 2d Officer Mary A. Bordeaux, who is assigned to recruiting at the WAAC office at 166 West Van Buren street.

Thousands Hail Easter's Dawn and Take Hope

BY GLADYS PRIDDY.

Easter sunrise services, linking in symbolism the promise of Christianity and the hope of the dawning day, drew thousands of worshipers in Chicago and vicinity yesterday. The dawn of the second war time Easter found many small community groups assembled as well as the tremendous crowds at Soldiers' field and the Midway.

The growing significance of the community sunrise worship was demonstrated at the service held by west suburban Lutheran churches in Elm Lawn cemetery near Elmhurst, where the congregation of 5,000 was nearly triple that of a year ago. The speaker, the Rev. Dr. Walter A. Maier of St. Louis, Mo., noted Lutheran hour preacher, used the theme, "Sunrise at the Open Grave," for the sermon, in which he repeated the meaning of the Easter story to mankind.

He said: "If Easter were erased from history, men would be reduced to human machines controled by the wind of a fitful fate, destined when run down or worn out to be discarded on the scrap heap of failure, the silence of the graveyard. Seal the stone before the rock hewn grave and you have sealed the world into unrelievable sorrow. Let Christ remain in his shrouds and all history must be rewritten, with chaos substituted for progress, deceit for honesty, the dirge of defeat for the ringing anthems of the resurrection victory.

"Accept Easter in the light of scriptural truth and promise, greet the resurrected Savior with sincerity of a faith that exclaims, 'My Lord and My God,' and men are exalted as the sons of God, perpetually strengthened by the vision of a life in a new and better homeland beyond the grave. . . ."

An estimated 10,000 stood on the slopes of the Midway at the University of Chicago looking down upon a great human cross formed in the depression by 1,500 sailors in white caps and blue overcoats and outlined by 500 soldiers in khaki. The service men are assigned to army and navy schools on the campus.

There was no sermon. Devotions were lead by Dean Charles W. Gilkey of the Rockefeller Memorial chapel, Dr. Irvin Lunger of the University Church of the Disciples and Dr. Rolland W. Schloerb of Hyde Park Baptist church.

Park district police said a throng of 45,000 began assembling at Soldier's field at 6 a. m. yesterday to hear a program featuring the Glenview chapel symphonic choir of the navy and a sermon by the Rev. Peter Rees Joshua of Aurora.

Archbishop Stritch celebrated pontifical mass at noon in Holy Name cathedral before more than 2,000 worshipers who gathered for the last of the eight masses in the great church. Altho the two earliest masses, at 5 and 6 a. m., drew only an average attendance, each of the following masses was crowded.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph P. Morrison, rector of the cathedral, assisted the archbishop, as did the Rev. Edward J. Smaza, the Rev. Damascus Mozeris, the Rev. Donald J. Masterson, the Rev. James Brett, and others.

Dr. Harold Ruopp, preaching on the theme "And the Life Everlasting," at Central church, Orchestra hall, summarized his sermon as follows: "He who believes in God and trusts Him is no longer afraid either of life or of death. . . . The only cure for fear is faith." More than 1,100 attended the downtown church.

Yesterday also marked the opening performance in the eighth season of the Zion Passion play. An audience of 1,200 assembled.

Families Move Early to Avoid Jam on May 1

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH the approach of May 1, traditional moving day, those families already settled in new quarters can heave sighs of relief, especially as moving day, 1943, promises to be a shambles. The move that Mr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Gary made was a short one, but difficult nevertheless.

Mrs. Gary will no more than be settled when she and her young son and daughter will leave, toward the end of June, for their summer home on Madeleine Island, in Wisconsin. The family is going in for gardening this summer, and Mrs. Gary expects to bring home a large supply of canned food. Most of its growing and canning will depend upon her, as the draft has made drastic changes in the population of the island, and there are few handy men left. Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Woods Jr. are others who customarily visit Madeleine Island in the summer time.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Offield are not planning to go to Michigan this summer, but will remain at the lodge on the Lake Geneva estate of her mother, Mrs. William Wrigley Jr., from mid-May to mid-October. Mrs. Wrigley arrived in the city on Saturday after spending the winter in her Phoenix home, and will go to Lake Geneva shortly. The Offields arrived earlier in the week after being in Phoenix and in California, where they visited their son and his wife, the Wrigley Offields, who are in Santa Monica. California was not too comfortable, the Offields found, for meat was scarce and restaurants crowded.

The Offields' daughter, Mrs. Denis M. Sullivan Jr., and Mr. Sullivan are taking a short trip to New York this week, after which Mrs. Sullivan will return to Saranac, N. Y., and Mr. Sullivan will come back to Chicago. Their children are in Saranac while Mrs. Sullivan recovers from a long illness.

Moving day for Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler will not roll around until next October, when she will close her Astor street house to live in an apartment. Mrs. Henry L. McIntyre arrived yesterday for what may be one of the last visits the former Winifred Wheeler ever will spend in her girlhood home. Mrs. McIntyre and her two little boys flew here from Fort Sill, Okla., where Lt. McIntyre is stationed, to spend a week or two in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Osgood are others who moved ahead of the May 1 deadline. They vacated their Glencoe home last week, for Mr. Osgood is moving to Washington, D. C., where his wife and their little son will join him. They are staying with Mrs. Osgood's parents, the Laird Bells, where the baby will remain while Mr. and Mrs. Osgood go on a little holiday to Tryon, N. C., later this week.

Occupy Lake Forest House of Clarence Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Norman Into are moving next Saturday into the Clarence Ross house in Westminster road, Lake Forest. Mr. Ross and his family have been in Washington, D. C., all winter, and their house has been occupied by Lt. and Mrs. Samuel O. Given, who are moving to Lake Bluff.

Mr. and Mrs. Latham Emeny [Carol Bush], who have been living in Alexandria, Va., have taken a house in Washington, D. C. Among the guests at the housewarming which they held recently were Mrs. Owen West and Mrs. Frank T. O'Brien, who is Mrs. Emeny's sister.

Miss Helen Hardin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Hardin of Evanston, and Lt. Donald Wrigley Clark of the navy, who has just returned from eight months of duty in the near east, will be married at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the Clark home, the Rev. Emory Luccock officiating. A reception will follow.

Miss Hardin will have Mrs. William Smith Bean III. of Fresno, Cal., for her matron of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. Leonard Parsons, Miss Dorothy Kitchell, Miss Margaret Walsh, Miss Mary Macalister, Miss Martha Slocum of Pittsburgh, cousin of the bride, and Miss Barbara Sayre of Philadelphia, cousin of the bridegroom. David Kimball Hardin, brother of the bride, will be the best man.

Lt. Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bell Clark, also of Evanston, and his bride will go west on a two week wedding trip, after which he will report to San Francisco.

Miss Janet Long Engaged to Lt. John Thomas Dix Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman de Eston Long of Evanston have announced the engagement of their daughter, Janet, to Lt. John Thomas Dix Jr., son of Mrs. Dix of Wilmette, formerly of Kenilworth. Miss Long attended the Art institute of Chicago. Lt. Dix attended Colgate university and now is stationed with the army air forces at Tucson, Ariz.

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Evanston hospital and their friends will gather at Patten Hall in Evanston at 2 o'clock today for an afternoon of cards. A lecture and showing of colored garden pictures by Dr. C. O. Schneider is on the program for those who don't enjoy cards.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

Pray the Court.

Somehow the little cases in Municipal court never get into the news. We were reminded of this the other day when we heard of the Chicago woman against whom an eviction suit had been brought by the board of health on the grounds that her home was dilapidated and insanitary. Woebegone and sad, she stood in the court and listened patiently to a recital of the charges against her. Then she handed the judge a telegram from her husband, a soldier stationed at a camp in southern Illinois:

"Ask this in name of Lord," the soldier wired. "Mercy of the court. Please don't sue my wife out of house. I am trying to help win the war. All the carpenters is working on the defense, but I will try to get off and do some work in a few days."

The judge granted an extension.

Total War.

A minor casualty of war has come to our attention. The Palmer House, famed for the 39 ices and ice creams it made daily, now makes only chocolate ice cream, and that every other day.

Hot Stuff.

A south side theater is featuring Arson Welles in "Journey Into Fear." A scout asks if any one thinks Mr. Welles would be burned up to know of it.

Easter Note.

Six years ago a charwoman gave Bill Hay, Chicago advertising artist, an exquisitely decorated Easter egg. The design was so beautiful he could not bear to part with it, and each Easter gets it out of hiding to display in his studio. Friday a new girl employé became curious as to whether the egg was still edible. When Mr. Hay stepped out of the studio for a few minutes, her curiosity defeated her discretion. Mr. Hay reports that his office will reopen May 1.

All Is Confusion.

The twin sisters were gay and conversational. They were telling luncheon guests about their recent visitor. "Where does she live?" some one asked. "Alabama, I think," one twin said. "That's it," the other verified. "Atlanta, Alabama." "But Atlanta is in Georgia," a guest replied. "O, well," the first twin replied, "Alabama, Georgia, what's the difference?" The guests swallowed this, and the conversation drifted to Polish relief. Some one asked the twins if their father was not associated with that cause. "Really," one said, "We wouldn't know." "Hardly," agreed the other. "Why, we don't even know what he does down at the Continental bank. When we asked him once, he just said, 'Run along, sisters. I'm a busy man'."

Capital Letters.

A reader, Frank Kitzelman, writes that the New Church [Swedenborgian] is offended at a recent item here reporting that in 1844 the Society of the New Jerusalem [now the New Church] held its meetings in Chicago in the city saloon and was so listed in the city directory. Mr. Kitzelman says city saloon should have been capitalized and, anyway, was not a place for alcoholic beverages but a public assembly room. Moreover, he adds, the library and reading room of the Young Men's club [of 1844] were in the same building. So?

Musicians Clubs for Women to Hold Luncheon Today

This is a starred day on the calendar of the Musicians Club of Women, with its Easter Monday luncheon set for noon in the Swedish club. Rudolph Ganz will be the guest speaker.

Edda Sundstrom, former conductor of the Woman's Symphony orchestra, will play a violin group for the women and their guests, and Louise Gale Grosser, soprano with the Chicago Opera company, will sing. The party will draw several officers of the Illinois Federation of Music clubs, including Mrs. Royden J. Keith, the president, and Mrs. George N. Oberne, a vice president, and Mrs. Albert H. Ullrich, president of the board of directors of the Woman's symphony, and the composer, Rossitter Cole. Vladimir Vukmirovich, consul general of Jugoslavia, and Emilio Almada, Mexican consul, also are to be present as special guests.

Thru the Looking Glass

Most manufacturers know that the average woman, for some unfathomable reason, doesn't read directions. Therefore they rarely introduce a product that calls for too unorthodox methods of application, and the average beauty product can be used successfully in much the same way as any other of the same type.

But two beauty aids are exceptions. These are the deodorants and depilatories. With these, failure to follow the exact program prescribed for the individual product sometimes results in a reaction that is irritating.

When you buy any beauty aid nowadays you may be sure that you are protected against harm. There are laws governing ingredients and claims, for one thing. For another, no manufacturer is going to put his name on a product that isn't as foolproof as he can make it.

This is as true of deodorants and depilatories as it is of any other cosmetic, but with these two items in particular the method of use and the manufacturer's suggestions for the frequency of its use can have as much effect on its giving you satisfaction as the ingredients in the product itself.

Fashion Lists Led by Dress Coat of Black

BY REA SEEGER.

After all the excitement, all the checking, it's the black dress coat that leads the important fashion parades. Usually it's the dull, smooth, black woolen fabrics that make the proper elegance for such a choice, a dull black that assures an enviable elegance for any occasion. There are fitted black coats and straight line models, as well as the semifitted affairs. All are dramatized with such telling details as velvet collars, velvet buttons, or narrow, ink black velvet accents to slit pockets or bands along the shoulders or down the front.

There are modified versions of the popular Chesterfields in black, very swank for all-purpose duty in any wardrobe, especially for those of career girls. Also featured are soft dressmaker type coats with handsome details of soutache braiding, tucked insets, or braid or varying widths. Bows of grosgrain ribbon, stitched bands of the same wool as the coat, and other distinctive trim make these coats the special delight of the sophisticate and the older woman, because of the patrician beauty of the fabric, beautiful design, and skilled workmanship.

Wide, loose box coats in dull black are particularly high fashion and practical this spring, since they assure the necessary double duty choice for any carefully planned wardrobe. These black affairs are sufficiently dress parade to wear over prints and bright summer dresses, over suits, with skirt and contrasting colored jackets and a travel coat. They also are the ideal topper of black to complete a three piece outfit with a companion black suit.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

I Don't Know What There Is . . .

I don't know what there is about a trip that lets loose a thousand demons to plague you. There is the ritual of ticket buying. Laden with bundles, you go to the ticket office on Saturday afternoon and, of course, it's closed. You hurry to the depot because your reservation must be picked up that very day—and you join the long, patient lines before the ticket window. You stand on one foot [your own], then another [not your own], until finally you reach the window. All around you soldiers and sailors miss trains while a harassed agent thinks up endless numbers to write on your ticket. At last he hands it thru the window—and O horrors! O embarrassment supreme! O punishment for all your sins—you are exactly $3 short of the price! You shout your guilty secret to the impassive features back of the window, then you run . . . you run up the stairs to find an official. "Look," you say, "I have a kind face . . . stray pups and lost children follow me . . . old ladies hand me their purses to hold while they search for their glasses . . . please . . . I'm an honest woman and at your ticket window is a reservation—and I am $3 short!"

I don't know what there is about a trip—you begin to think of the most fantastic things . . . the gas bill might get lost and some one might find your checkbook in your desk [it doesn't balance] . . . or the basement might flood and your mother would discover the storeroom isn't in order . . . and before you know it you are housecleaning . . . and you scramble thru your files and your unanswered mail and you find a simply elegant contribution which, goodness knows, you should have used . . . and right in the middle of it you remember you have a temporary filling in your tooth for "not more than a week" . . . and you need a permanent . . . and even mismating your stockings you find you have only three pairs. . . and your last year's coat is too long . . . and you are out of cold cream.

I don't know what there is about a trip—you pack your cologne and leave your toothbrush . . . you remember your vitamin pills and forget your copy paper . . . you worry for fear the faithful portable will break down in the heart of Texas . . . you get tired and edgy and are absurdly worsted by the simple mathematics of how many handkerchiefs to take . . . and suddenly the brown and white beagle begins to limp and hold up one paw as much as to say: "I'm a sick dog . . . you wouldn't leave me, would you?" And, tho you know it's silly—with tragic, important things happening all over the world—you keep remembering a little brown and white dog sitting dejectedly amid the suitcases nursing a sore paw.

I don't know what there is about a trip—you get on the train and go limp—and you feel as tho you had swallowed your grapefruit whole for breakfast . . . and as the train slowly pulls out of the depot you can't help but picture the thousands of boys who have strained their eyes from the grimy windows of troop trains for one last look at the home town.

Good Morning!

"The POOR little guy!" a girl near me exclaimed, in the midst of laughter. And that just about reviews "It Ain't Hay."

As usual the action is built around the mishaps of fat little Costello and the superiorities of his slender side kick, Bud Abbott. This time the tubby Lou is seen as a taxi driver, whose efforts to befriend a hack driver pal [Cecil Kellaway] and his little daughter [Patsy O'Connor] land him and everybody concerned in a peck of trouble—which resolves into a sunshiny ending. . . .

Finnegan, King O'Hara's horse and idol of the neighborhood, takes ill. . . . Grover gives him a pill guaranteed to put pep into any plug. . . Finnegan dies and the entire community, excepting the two most bereft, show Grover the back of the hand. . . .

No matter WHAT Grover does—it's wrong, and attended with dire results. . . .

Lou and Bud are at their characteristic best. . . . Patsy O'Connor is a Shirley Temple remindful child you'll love. . . . Cecil Kellaway is nice and clever as usual, and you look at Eddie Quillan with suspicion. . . . IS he Eddie—or one C. McCarthy, fugitive from a Bergen knee? . . . If they ever again want a double for Charles—Eddie's the one who should be called on.

Women's Musical Club to Present Finalists Tonight

Twenty young students of music who survived preliminary contests will compete in a final hearing tonight in Curtiss hall of the Fine Arts building for scholarships offered by the Chicago Woman's Musical club. They also will seek the added distinction of being presented later in a debut recital in Kimball hall.

The violin finals will be held at 6:30 o'clock, with three in the contest. Twelve singers of 37 who entered the preliminaries will participate in the vocal finals at 7:15 o'clock, and at 8 o'clock five piano finalists will play.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

[Have you some favorite household help that lightens labor or conserves materials? Is there some convenience you would like? We'll pass on your ideas to our readers.]

Mrs. Leonard T., Chicago: Late this winter we did a pretty good job of cleaning and scraping our old floors. And we made our own crack filler for those unsightly cracks. We melted glue in a double boiler and added some fine sawdust to give it body and firmness. Then we colored it to match the floorboards.

Ruth G., Evanston: If you drink a lot of chocolate or cocoa in your house and have trouble removing stains from the table linen, try my method. Sprinkle the spot with a little borax first, and then pour some boiling water thru the cloth.

Mrs. Tom Brady, Chicago: I think it is a lot easier to get rid of sand from spinach by using warm water instead of cold.

Mrs. Will Brown, Chicago: One easy way to mark jelly glasses is to drop a letter of "alphabet macaroni" on top of the paraffin. I drop this just before the paraffin has hardened and it stays in place nicely.

Now—Please—YOUR IDEA.

Scout Troop of Blind Boys Needs Bugle

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

All of us recognize the value of scout training for boys, but few realize how immensely important such an organization can be to handicapped children. Such children are inevitably deprived of much, but scouting is a great asset in helping them to build up incentive and initiative. The following letter, from a Chicago lawyer, tells the story of a group of sightless youngsters, and we sincerely hope his request can be filled by one of our readers.

"Dear Miss Brown: By way of introduction, please allow me to state that I am the scoutmaster of the only troop of blind Boy Scouts of its kind. We are not affiliated with any institution. The boys live in their respective homes and meet every Friday night."

"I am coming to you in search of bugles, to be used by the boys in their Scout work. As you undoubtedly know, it is impossible to purchase such instruments at the present time, since the armed forces have purchased a large number, and they are no longer being manufactured. Scout headquarters disposed of all on hand and expect no replacements.

"I am writing to you in the hope that one of your readers has a bugle packed away in the attic or forgotten on a closet shelf. The boys could put such an instrument to practical use, in earning merit badges and opening and closing our Scout meetings. Such a donation would be deeply appreciated."

Further information will be provided upon request.

Your Stars Today

By WYNN

Monday, April 26.

Today's problems yield better to sympathetic treatment of those involved than to mechanical formulas. Opportunity also to exercise ingenuity; be alert to new ideas that drift in—they can be good. Evening: Coöperate with loved ones.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from today your birthday brings more financial opportunity thru joint or legal sources than personal. Watch health. Be selective of inferiors, friends. Danger: July 3 to 16.

Tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., April 25.—Howard Hawks' $2,000,000 production of "Battle Cry," which he'll make at Warner Brothers, will have a cast that sounds like a who's who of Hollywood. Such people as Ingrid Bergman, Gary Cooper, Bette Davis, Ida Lupino, Humphrey Bogart, John Garfield, and George Raft have signified their willingness to be in it. It's a series of separate stories of peoples of our allied nations, but they all hook together. Six writers have been working on it for months. It will take a year to make, but that doesn't matter, 'cause Hawks' "Air Force" is cleaning up everywhere.

That Old Feeling.

Bing Crosby introduced "El Rancho" some years back. He has picked up three new songs south of the border. Mexicans are saying: "Stop sending us missions—send more Crosbys." We would if we could. Bing is being mobbed everywhere, and instead of saying hello to the crowd he sings snatches of songs to them. . . . Paramount signed the Puerto Rican beauty, Olga San Juan. She'll undoubtedly get a part in "Dr. Wassell." . . . Betty Hutton's mother says, "Raise your child to be an actress; then live in comfort!" Betty's bought her mother a house. . . . Deanna Durbin's stand-in, Marie Osborne [Baby Osborne of the silents], gets to act in "Hers to Hold." While Marie's acting, Deanna will do her own standing-in.

Americana.

Genevieve Tobin's mother, while waiting for a bus, started to chat with a worried looking woman who was afraid she'd be late for an appointment. Just then a taxi came along; she hailed it and asked Mrs. Tobin to ride to Beverly with her. During the trip she said, "I've been poor all my life. Couldn't afford taxis. Now I can, but my thrifty habits remain. I've had a book published. My publisher sent me out here to see about getting it made into a picture. I'm on my way to the Beverly-Wilshire to meet three studio executives." The woman's name was Rosemary Taylor and the book "Chicken Every Sunday, or My Life with Mother's Boarders."

Short Shorts.

Ken Murray's "Blackouts" have been put on 16 mm. film, and the boys overseas are already enjoying the results. . . . Judy Garland's copying Helen Morgan. She sits on top of a piano to sing "Embraceable You" in "Girl Crazy." . . . Georgia Carroll makes her singing debut with Kay Kyser in "Private Miss Jones," Kay's doings and teachings. . . . Mary Astor has been made an honorary member of the SPARS because of the work she's doing for them.

Surprise, Surprise!

Irving Klaw, who sends out pictures of movie stars, tells of the nation's top favorites. Lana Turner and Betty Grable have replaced Rita Hayworth. Nelson Eddy's fans don't want him opposite Jeanette MacDonald any more. Valentino and Wally Reid's photos bring one dollar each. A woman from Indiana ordered $100 worth of pictures of Buck Jones after he died in that Boston night club. Photos of Douglas Fairbanks Sr. are more in demand now than those of Junior. . . . William Paley will be out this summer for another looksee. . . . Charlie Brackett is giving lots of moral support to his protégés, Gail Russell and Lewis Allen, in "The Uninvited." Allen's

Ely Culbertson Explains Error in This Double

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: My partner and I missed top score in last night's duplicate by only two points and altho, as is always the case, there were several hands on which we could have done better, our discussion naturally centered around the last hand of the night because we had done so badly on that. Will you kindly discuss the correct bidding of this deal?

South, dealer.

♠ 9
♥ A 7 5 3 2
♦ J 9 5

WEST
♠ A K Q 7 5 4 3
♥ 9 6
♦ 10 6
♣ 5

EAST
♠ J 8 6
♥ 10 4
♦ K Q 8 3 2

SOUTH
♠ 10
♥ K Q J 8
♦ A 7 4
♣ A K Q J 6

South	West	North	East
1 club	4 spades	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

"My partner and I sat South and North respectively. As you will see immediately, we defeated the four spade doubled contract by only one trick, getting one club, two hearts, and one diamond, but the 200 point penalty we collected brought us almost a bottom score.

"Our discussion revolved around the question of whether South's double was correct under the circumstances, or whether he should have taken some other action."

In my opinion, South was ill advised to double the four spade bid, particularly since this was match-point duplicate, not rubber bridge. In the first place, he could not be absolutely sure of defeating four spades; in the second place [and more important], he should have had serious doubt as to the size of the penalty he probably would collect. A vulnerable player does not bid for 10 tricks, as West did, without being fairly close to his goal, this, of course, assuming that the player is reasonably experienced. Hence, if West had reason to count on at least eight tricks, he might [as he actually did] find another trick in East's hand, and come out with a one trick set. From South's point of view, it was reasonable to expect that, aside from the spade suit, the few missing high cards [heart ace, and diamond K-Q] would be divided between North and East. If that were so, South certainly figured to make five-odd in the best combined trump suit, as against a one trick set of East's spade contract. If North-South could make a game, it would be worth at least 600 points, so even if four spades could be defeated two tricks, West would have made an excellent sacrifice.

As to South's exact action, other than the double, that depended a great deal on the bidding style of his partnership. The expert bid at this point would be four no trump, which would be an urgent demand upon partner to go to five clubs, five diamonds, or five hearts. This bid, however, would not work out well if North were the sort of player to read it as a "Blackwood" four no trump, and, under that circumstance, South's best decision would be to bid five clubs.

Crocheted Medallions

At this time of the year crochet workers are looking for something attractive yet simple to create. The picot medallion is just such a design, and the joining motifs are different from the usual joinings in luncheon doilies.

For instructions in crocheting the picot medallions for a luncheon doily, No. 1278, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

THE STAGE . . . . By Cecil Smith

The University of Chicago again offers the annual Charles H. Sergel playwriting contest, which provides an award of $1,000 in war bonds for the author of the manuscript of a new American play judged to be the best of those submitted on or before Dec. 31, 1943. The prize was established by Annie Meyers Sergel in memory of Charles H. Sergel, founder of the Dramatic Publishing company.

It is an important feature of the contest that the University of Chicago retains no publication or performance rights to the winning entry, or to any other plays submitted. The judges will be selected by the university, but their names will not be announced until after the award has been made, about March 1, 1944.

Each contestant is permitted to enter only one manuscript. It must be accompanied by a signed statement certifying that the play has never been produced or published. Only full length plays will be considered; dramatizations are not allowable unless the material dramatized is the original work of the author of the play. Any citizen of the United States may compete. Further details may be obtained from the Charles H. Sergel Play Contest, the University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill.

Ruth Chatterton will definitely remain at the Erlanger theater until Saturday, May 15. The company will open a run of indefinite extent at the Lafayette theater in Detroit on May 16. Whenever the Detroit engagement comes to an end, Miss Chatterton will take a vacation. Altho she was the champion summer theater actress last summer, she will have no opportunity to repeat her record of 17 weeks' straw-hat performing this year, for most of the summer theaters along the eastern seaboard have been forced to abandon operations because of tire and gasoline shortages.

William Gaxton, Victor Moore, and Vera Zorina, who appeared together in "Louisiana Purchase," will combine their talents in a new musical show next fall. It is being put together by Herbert and Dorothy Fields and Cole Porter, all of whom collaborated on "Let's Face It" and "Something for the Boys." Michael Todd, producer of the last named hit, will also be in charge of the new Porter-Fields opus, which will have Mexico as its locale.

GOING HOME

This is Flight 44.

It shortens the distance between places by many hours.

☆ ☆ ☆

Going home, on a furlough for just 30 hours.

☆ ☆ ☆

He thinks about these things now... and he thinks about the man who, ten minutes ago, gave up his seat in the plane to him.

He remembers that the man looked important, and busy.

But the man overheard him say he couldn't get home at all in 30 hours unless he got on this plane.

And the man had stepped up and asked to be changed to a later flight... and he had said something about a responsibility to men in uniform.

And something about... one of the reasons we have an America to fight for is because Americans take time to think about the the other fellow.

☆ ☆ ☆

To our boys in the Armed Forces, leave is the most precious thing they can have. Maybe they're only coming home from camp. Maybe they're coming back from the hellholes of the Solomons or Africa. Every hour, every minute of that leave means more to them than they can say. For many of them, with the little time they have, the only way they can get home, the only way they can see their folks again, is to fly. We of Eastern Air Lines would like to give each one of them an "unofficial priority." But we can't. So we're going to leave it up to you—and we don't mean that you should stop traveling by air for the duration. Just continue to make plane reservations—and if your business is important or your trip is urgent, travel as usual. However, if you find you can take a later plane and there's a soldier, sailor or marine waiting—who can't get home and back in time any other way—why not give him your seat?

CHARITY RACE MEET SWINGS INTO 2D BIG DAY

6 to Run in Feature at Sportsman's.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The 1943 Illinois racing season, which got off to a handsome start Saturday with the opening of the special meeting sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in conjunction with the National Jockey club at Sportsman's Park, will resume its career this afternoon at the half mile plant in Cicero.

Post time for the first race will be 2:45 p. m., the 30 minutes later time having been established to relieve pressure on transportation during the rush hours. Feature contest of today's program will be the Cicero, an allowance test at six and one-half furlongs for 3 year olds which have not won a race, other than maiden or claiming, since Nov. 6. Six thorobreds have been nominated for this event, with Navy Cross drawing the top weight assignment of 115 pounds.

Charity Meet Runs Thru Friday.

Saturday's highly successful opening, which saw 17,271 fans pack every nook and cranny of Sportsman's Park, augurs well for the 163 day Illinois season. Proceeds of the charity meeting, which will run thru Friday, will be distributed among a number of local welfare organizations, including the United, Catholic, and Jewish charities.

The first day of the season was greeted by traditionally perfect Sportsman's Park weather, with summery temperatures prevailing. Racegoers were aided in reaching the track by the six horse drawn vehicles which officials of the National Jockey club have provided for the charity meeting as well as for the meeting proper, which will run from next Saturday thru May 15. These wagons, harking back to the equipages which brought our race minded fathers to such tracks of the '90s as Washington and Garfield Parks. The wagons will convey fans from the Douglas Park elevated station at 22d street and Laramie avenue to the track.

Wager $483,266 on Saturday.

The Saturday throng apparently didn't come out to enjoy the unusual weather, for they poured $483,266 thru the mutuel machines at the half miler, a figure which compared favorably with the opening day handle of the 1942 spring meeting at Sportsman's Park. The track's share of the betting pool will form one of several contributions from the meeting to Tribune Charities, Inc., which received more than $135,000 in a similar program sponsored at the track the first week of last November.

In addition to the track's portion of the betting pool, charity also will receive proceeds from concessions and the sale of programs. Executives of the National Jockey club have waived their salaries for the six days of the special meeting, and none of the fixed overhead charges for operation of the plant will be levied against the proceeds of the program.

2 Year Olds to Clash.

Racing Secretary Patrick Galliger has arranged an attractive card for each day of the meeting. In addition to the Cicero, today's schedule will include an allowance race for 2 year old maidens at 4½ furlongs, which has drawn 11 contenders in the overnight entries.

The condition of Jockey Hugh Lemmons, who suffered a fractured jaw in Saturday's third race, when his mount, Camp Liberty, fell just after rounding the clubhouse turn, was reported fair in St. Anthony's hospital yesterday.

TAMPICO, Mexico, April 25 (AP).—Betty Jameson, twice national women's golf champion of the United States, was defeated in the finals of the Tampico Country club tournament today by Mrs. Estelle Davy, 6 and 5. Mrs. Davy is a United States citizen but lives in Mexico City. Percy Clifford, a British resident of the capital, won the men's crown by defeating Ed Brady of San Benito, Tex., 7 and 6.

SEWELL STOPS CHICAGOANS 2D TIME IN SERIES

Lon Warneke Is 4th Starter to Fail.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Truett Sewell, who is said to refuse pay for pitching against the Cubs, yesterday beat the Chicagoans for the second time in the 1943 opening series, the Pittsburgh Pirates taking the final of the four game series, 6 to 2.

In his 6 to 0 victory last Wednesday, Sewell yielded only three hits. The Cub smack total was 10 yesterday, but Sewell didn't give up the first safe one until one was out in the fifth inning—two sessions after Lon Warneke, the Cubs' starting pitcher, had limped away.

Warneke became the fourth of Manager Wilson's Big Four pitchers to start and fail to finish. Warneke, who was slowest in training, lasted a briefer span than any of the four starters, but is expected to develop when the weather gets warmer. Warneke had three successors, none of whom yielded any runs. Eddie Hanyzewski was nicked for only one single in 2 2-3 innings, Kewpie Barrett retired the six batters he faced, and Ray Prim was slapped for three singles in the last two innings.

They Greet Lon Early.

The Pirates started whacking at Warneke at the earliest possible moment. Jimmy Russell sent Lon's very first toss whizzing into center for a single. Frank Colman flied out, Elbie Fletcher lined a single to right, Russell taking third, whereupon Bob Elliott whanged a single to center, scoring Russell and putting Fletcher on third. Fletcher scored on Vince DiMaggio's fly to Dom Dallessandro.

At the start of the third, Phil Cavarretta went to the wall in right center to pull down Russell's drive, but Colman singled to center and went to third on the second of Fletcher's series of four hits, a single to center. Elliott walked, loading the bases, and then DiMaggio stepped up and smacked the first pitch for a double to left, Colman and Fletcher scoring.

Enter Ed Hanyzewski.

Warneke gave Huck Geary an intentional pass to load the bases, then escaped to the bathhouse, and Hanyzewski took over. Pete Coscarart bounced to Hack and Stan sought to launch a double play, but Stanky missed the throw and as the ball rolled into right field Elliott and DiMaggio scored the last two Pirate runs of the game.

The Cubs' helplessness against Sewell began to ease with one out in the fifth. Sewell, not content with his no-hit prospects, tried to kid Cavarretta by throwing him a soft ball pitch and Phil, previously hitless this season, timed the dipsydoodle offering perfectly, banging it for a double to right. Lennie Merullo whiffed, but Chico Herandez singled to center and Stu Martin, batting for Hanyzewski, walked. The threat ended when Hack rolled out to Huck Geary.

Cubs Finally Break Thru.

In the sixth the Cubs again loaded the bases, this time with none out—and they actually made a run off Sewell, their first in 15 innings off him this season. Singles by Stanky and Bill Nicholson and an error by Coscarart on Heinz Becker's grounder loaded the bases. Dallessandro then fouled to Fletcher, but Cavarretta flied to Colman, Stanky scoring. Merullo popped to Geary.

The Cubs made another run in the ninth on hits by Hernandez, Hack, and Stanky.

Despite their foldups against Sewell, the Cubs broke even in their opening series and the so-called second string pitchers have shown a great deal of class. Two of them, Hanyzewski and Hi Bithorn, were credited with the two victories. Two old timers, Paul Derringer and Warneke, have been marked with the defeats.

Duke Cancels Football Game with Pittsburgh

Durham, N. C., April 25 (AP).—Duke university announced today that the football game with Pittsburgh scheduled here Oct. 2, has been canceled.

BROWNS SPOIL SWIFT'S DEBUT UNDER DYKES

M'Quinn Hits Home Run in Big Third.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 25.—The so-called dead ball was very much that way for the White Sox this afternoon, but it acted differently, much differently, for the Browns. Because the weather man poked his hand into the party, only seven innings of a scheduled double header marked the conclusion of the series. But even in the limited time available the local lads injected enough life into the supposed anti-travel ball to flatten the Chicagoans, 5 to 1, and win the series, two games to one.

Some of the pep knocked into the ball by the Brownie bats might easily be attributed to a lack of deception in the pitching of Bill Swift, the ex-National leaguer, who made his first start for the Sox. The Browns graciously permitted Bill to demonstrate his wares in the opening inning and a gift run resulted. In the third inning they clubbed the dead ball for a double, a single and a homer, the latter by George McQuinn. Floyd Speer, the Shreveport rookie, handed St. Louis the other run in the seventh.

Sox Get Only Four Hits.

The ball was so lifeless for the Sox that they could harvest only four hits against Johnny Niggeling. Julius Solters pegged one of these at the start of the second inning and, in desperation, went out stealing. Rookie Dick Culler got into the hit column at the start of the third and again nothing happened.

Even a walk with which Luke Appling led off in the fourth was ignored by his mates. A pass to Thurman Tucker with one out in the sixth received a similar snub, but in the seventh there was a burst of two hits behind a pass and the Chicagoans escaped their second shutout of the infant season.

As soon as he had retired the first Brownie in the opening inning, Swift learned there was trouble afoot. Harlond Clift walked and Chet Laabs fanned, but this proved only momentary relief. Mike Chartak put himself into the proceedings with a single to right, whereupon Vern Stephens and McQuinn resorted to the waiting policy that had worked successfully for Clift. Both walked to force Clift across the plate.

McQuinn Connects for Homer.

One was out in the third when the Browns elected to demonstrate that the 1943 ball isn't as dead as suspected. Laabs bounced one off the left field concrete, 351 feet away, for a double and Chartak followed with a tremendous fly that sent Tucker tearing back to a spot about 400 feet from the plate. Stephens ripped off a line single to left, moving Laabs across the plate. Then McQuinn planted his homer on the right field pavilion roof for two more runs and a 4 to 0 St. Louis lead.

Travel for the Sox was so tough against Niggeling's pitching that only four of them reached first in six innings. Of these only one went as far as second, a journey that meant only unnecessary wear and tear on scarce $16 baseball shoes. The Sox finally covered the full route in the seventh and didn't even launch the attempt until after two were out. It happened because Wally Moses walked, Culler beat out a bunt, and Tom Turner singled. The Browns immediately took the run back from Speers, who walked two before Stephens singled.

Louisville, Ky., April 25.—This is the week when Matt J. Winn presents his annual mystery drama called the Kentucky Derby. Each season this brings out more discussion, speculation, and puzzled concentration than other big stakes because 3 year olds are being asked to go a mile and a quarter for the first time in their careers. Thus, there is an absence of the data, compiled under actual racing conditions, which is available for other events later in the spring and summer.

You'll find plenty of observers in Louisville today who'll tell you that the fact that Count Fleet is going to the post is all the data they want on next Saturday's $75,000 Kentucky Derby. Without detracting from the splendid qualities of this colt, it's obvious there have been too many upsets of 2 to 5 and 3 to 5 shots to write a foregone conclusion to any race which involves the top ranking horses of a division. Bimelech, in the 1940 Derby and Arlington Classic, Johnstown in the 1939 Classic, Whirlaway in the 1941 Classic are some of the reminders that the standouts not only can be beaten but often are.

Fewer Records Available.

This year there are fewer past performances than ever for the Derby speculators to discuss because of the abolition of winter racing in Florida and California and the curtailment of the spring program in Maryland. About all they have to go by are Count Fleet's victory in the Wood Memorial, Ocean Wave's success in the Blue Grass stakes, Amber Light's Louisiana Derby triumph, and Seven Hearts' Oaklawn Derby victory. The concensus is that this adds up to Count Fleet by five or ten lengths next Saturday.

Borowy Scatters Nine Boston Hits.

New York, April 25 (AP).—The New York Yankees, who had such a disastrous spring training season, continued unbeaten at the top of the American league today by beating the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 1, before 16,117 in Yankee stadium.

Hank Borowy, starting his sophomore term with the champions, kept the Red Sox limited to nine scattered hits while his teammates went to work on Lefty Ken Chase as if they never had heard of the balata ball.

The Yanks made 7 of their 12 hits and all of their runs off Chase before he was replaced by Rookie Lou Lucier in the fifth. Score:

INDIANS, TIGERS SPLIT.

Cleveland, O., April 25 (AP). — The balata ball wasn't entirely to blame today as the Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers drew a total of 20 bases on balls and divided a double header, both games ending 4 to 1 before 10,283 in Cleveland stadium.

Jim Bagby was the hero as Cleveland won the opener, scattering eight hits and contributing a two run triple in the seventh to score two mates. It was Bagby's second triumph of the season.

In the second game, Frank Overmire outpitched Mike Naymick and Allie Reynolds who issued 11 passes between them. Naymick's wildness enabled the Tigers to score twice in the fourth after he had held them to one hit. Scores:

WEST. MICHIGAN AND MICHIGAN PLAY TOMORROW

Kalamazoo, Mich., April 25 [Special].—The unbeaten Western Michigan college baseball team will start its annual quest for the Michigan college title Tuesday when it meets Michigan in Ann Arbor. The Broncos' hopes of a successful season brightened last week when Warren Biddle, a freshman, beat Illinois on three hits and Gene Conley and Sophomore Ben Almany defeated Notre Dame on a yield of six hits. They fanned 13.

Sox to Return Today for Home Opener of 1943

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 25.—The White Sox will view the Illinois countryside tomorrow from a day coach window. The ride will land them in Chicago early in the afternoon, but they'll not be called upon for any work until Tuesday, when they put on the season's opener in Comiskey park, the Cleveland Indians assisting.

In their three games here the Sox fashioned oly 16 hits, half of them in one afternoon. Of the total, only one went for extra bases. This was Rookie Thurman Tucker's opening day double. Cash customers also were scarce, a total of about 9,700 turning out for the three games.

Dick Culler, who has been helping out at third base because of Jim Grant's arm ailment, is making such an impression that Grant may find it difficult to return himself to the status of a regular. Manager Jim Dykes may prefer to save Culler for emergencies, the young man being able to play second and short as well.

Senators Win Pair of Games from Athletics

Philadelphia, Pa., April 25 (AP).—Washington snapped the Athletics' two game winning streak today, sweeping a double header before 17,000 in Shibe park. Washington pounded three hurlers for 19 hits to take the opener, 12 to 2, behind Dutch Leonard's eight hit pitching, and won the second game, 5 to 0, behind Alex Carrasquel's brilliant two hit effort.

The Senators scored all their runs in the second game off John Burrows in the second inning. Rookie Sam Lowry pitched a one hitter the remaining 7⅓ innings.

Ellis Clary, Washington third baseman made four for four in the first contest, Bob Johnson and Gene Moore got three hits apiece, and Stan Spence drove in four runs. In the second encounter Johnson added a double good for two runs, while Spence knocked in another tally.

Derby Victor? Just Ask Man on the Street

trainers come in for more discussion in connection with preparation for the Derby than for any other race. One reason for this is the fact that Kentucky is a horse country where every one from the boy who shines your shoes to the maitre 'd in your hotel is an amateur trainer at heart. If you want to know what's wrong with the way they're getting your favorite horse ready for the Derby, don't bother asking a trainer. Just ask the conductor on the street car.

So Many Angles.

You'll find more talk of the breeding of the various candidates before the Derby than you will for the later events. Later on, when a horse proves that he can win by five lengths at a mile and a quarter or two miles and a quarter nobody cares how good or bad his breeding is. But now, when these 3 year olds have their careers before them, there's much discussion about the staying powers or the mud-running abilities of the various lines.

Count Fleet is O. K. in these departments, too. His sire, Reigh Count, was a great one for those cup races of a mile and a half to two and a quarter miles. Rain, mud, or dust were all the same to him. Count Fleet is considered by many to be a faster horse than his sire and he uses that speed to stay up closer to the pace makers than Reigh Count did. In the Derby, he is confidently expected to demonstrate that he can carry that speed over a route, just like his famous ancestor. Count Fleet, too, has very little interest in the weather possibilities on Derby day. Any kind of footing is O. K. with him.

Cubs Leave Today to Open Cards' Series

The Cubs will leave for St. Louis at 4:50 o'clock this afternoon. They will depart from the Dearborn street station and will get to St. Louis at 10 o'clock. Paul Derringer is slated to pitch for Chicago and Max Lanier for the world champions in the St. Louis home opener tomorrow afternoon.

The Cubs and Pirates will be separated for only three games. Chicago and St. Louis will play single games tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday. The Cubs will spend a day off in Pittsburgh Friday. They will play the Pirates in a single game Saturday and a double header Sunday.

Double headers are scheduled for the Cubs for every Sunday from now to Sept. 5. And by that time there doubtless will be a postponed game to be played off on that date.

KRAFT SHOOTS 1,578 FOR LEAD IN JUNIOR CLASSIC

Rudy Kraft of Chicago yesterday became the new leader in the junior bowling classic at the Archer-Kedzie recreation. His 1,578 in eight games passed the 1,540 hung up earlier by Ed Bolton of Chicago. Four squads of 32 each bowled yesterday in the tournament, which will close May 23 with 2,240 bidding for $22,400 in prize money.

Back of Bolton, in third place, was John Sloger of Chicago, who rolled 1,516 on the first squad yesterday afternoon. Frank J. Nadherng of Chicago, competing at the same time, knocked down 1,509 pins for fourth place. Joe Danford of Chicago, who shot 1,501 on Saturday, dropped to fifth place.

HITLESS GAMES ARE JUST A HABIT FOR THIS HURLER

Newark, N. J., April 25 (AP).—Rufus Gentry, 25 year old right hander of the Buffalo Bisons, today pitched his fourth no hit, no run victory as he beat the Newark Bears, 1 to 0, in 11 innings. During a two year term with Winston-Salem in the Piedmont league he pitched three other similar victories.

Gentry fanned 10 men and walked 3 and in addition his teammates made three errors. As a result four Newark batters got as far as second base. Jim Davis, pitching for Newark, allowed only one hit until the ninth and four in all.

Gentry's performance tied the International league record of 11 hitless innings set by Urban Shocker in 1916.

CARDINALS BEAT REDS, 1 TO 0, TO SQUARE SERIES

Pollet Wins Hurling Duel from Vander Meer.

Cincinnati, O., April 25 (AP).—That "reluctant" ball gave the pitchers another happy day today as the St. Louis Cardinals evened their four game opening series with the Cincinnati Reds on a 1 to 0 victory by Howard Pollet.

Johnny Vander Meer, who won the opening game, was the victim, altho he allowed the Cards only four hits to the Reds' five. The Reds took the first two games of the close series by 1 to 0 scores, losing yesterday to the Cardinals, 2 to 1.

The Cardinals turned to old-fashioned baseball to get their run across in the fifth. Walker Cooper got the longest hit of the series, a triple to right center, and Rookie Buster Adams pulled a squeeze play to get him in. After fouling on his first try, Adams laid down a perfect bunt. Cooper crossed standing up.

Reds' Catcher Hurt.

Ray Mueller, Cincinnati catcher, suffered a split finger on his throwing hand trying to stop the Cards' one run and will be out for several days.

Mike McCormick, Reds outfielder, played his last ball game for the duration. After the game he announced he was going home to have a few days with his family in California before being inducted into the army. He took his army preliminary test here last Monday.

RICKEY ATTENDS SUNDAY GAME FOR FIRST TIME

New York, April 25 (AP).—Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, shattered a lifetime precedent today at Ebbets field when he witnessed his first Sunday major league baseball game. He was at the park to participate in the climax of a war bond drive in which Brooklyn players and the management were credited with sales totaling $75,000,000.

During his career as field manager of the St. Louis Cardinals Rickey avoided the baseball park on Sundays and named one of his aides as acting manager for the games.

Phils, Kraus Deal Dodgers 1st Loss, 3 to 2

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 25 (AP).—The Philadelphia Phillies collected their first victory of the season and the Brooklyn Dodgers were dealt their first defeat today as Lefty Jack Kraus' six hit hurling paid off with a 3 to 2 decision before 11,713.

Kraus, a rookie who formerly was a Brooklyn farmhand, had to contend with three errors by his teammates and both the Dodgers' runs were unearned. However he received plenty of support from Outfielder Danny Litwhiler, who hit his second homer of the season in the fourth inning and drove in another tally with a forceout in the sixth, when a pass and three singles accounted for two runs.

Scott and Wolf Score Against Milwaukee.

BY OFFSIDE.

Veterans Tom Scott and Jimmy Wolf scored a goal each yesterday to give the Spartas a 2 to 0 victory over the Falks of Milwaukee in Sparta Stadium. Victory gave Sparta the right to meet the Morgan A. C. of Morgan, Pa., in the national Western Open cup final May 9, probably in Chicago.

Scores on Penalty Shot.

Kicking with the wind in the first period, the hosts kept the Falks busy defending until Scott scored when he drove hard into the net on a penalty against Norman Blaeske.

The visitors yielded the final score of the game near the end of the first period when Thomson sent over a high cross which Wolf headed into the net. Lineups:

Nye Captures Fourth Dinghy Event in Row

Harry Nye Jr. won his fourth straight Frostbite dinghy race yesterday in the Chicago Yacht club's spring series for D class catboats. Jack Vilas Jr. was runner-up and John Hertz finished third. Nye has scored 126 points in 20 races this season. Vilas is second with 106 points, and A. D. Dowrie Jr. is third with 93. The series will be continued until large yachts begin racing.

Gary Comer and Gene McCarthy sailed Debutramp, Fran Byrne's C class Frostbite dinghy, to victory yesterday in the Columbia Yacht club's second race of the season. Byrne is now a chief boatswain's mate in the coast guard. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Black sailed their Me Tu II. to second place, and Fred Blatt and Jack McCoy were third in U Tu.

IT WASN'T FANS' FAULT BET MARK FAILED TO FALL!

New York, April 25 (AP).—Officials of the Jamaica race track said today the only reason a national one day betting mark wasn't set at their track Saturday was the lack of windows where wagers might be placed.

As it was, enough of the 34,183 fans fought their way to the betting booths to place $2,162,046 on their favorites in the seven races, only $14,025 shy of the one day mark established last year on an eight race card at Belmont.

The fans did, however, create a new daily double pool record of $97,524 which paid $57.10 for $2 when Sicyon took the first race and Breezing Home won in the second. The bettors also set a Jamaica one race total by wagering $368,835 on the Excelsior handicap, which went to Harold Clark's Riverland.

The fans were so free with their money that the old one race total of $311,164 was broken three times and their day's total was only the third time that more than $2,000,000 had been bet at one park for a single program.

THREE MATCHES OPEN HANDBALL MEET TONIGHT

Three matches open the Central A. A. U. singles handball tournament tonight at the Lions Athletic club, 4306 West North avenue. The meet will continue each evening until Friday when the finals will be held.

Bill Baier of the Division street Y. M. C. A., winner of the national junior A. A. U. singles crown in Milwaukee last week, is the favorite. He will play at 9:30 o'clock tonight and has drawn as his first round opponent Harold Gradman of the Midwest A. C.

In the opening match at 7:30, Ray Strobat of the Division street Y. meets Ed Piotter of the host club, and the second match of the evening sends Ben Costello of the Madison A. C. against Walter Engelhardt of the home club.

Sparta won, 2 to 0, and will meet the Morgans of Morgan, Pa., May 9.

Catholic Preps to Resume Softball Rivalry Tomorrow

The Catholic High School league will resume its softbal schedule tomorrow night with three games in St. Philip stadium, Van Buren street and Kedzie avenue. The first game will start at 7 o'clock. De La Salle and St. George are the only unbeaten teams. De La Salle, which conquered Loyola, 8 to 5, and Mount Carmel, 10 to 9, meets St. Philip, with a one and one record, in the third game tonight.

St. George, which edged out St. Rita, 3 to 2, in a 10 inning battle on the inaugural night of the league, meets De Paul academy in the opener. De Paul lost its lone league start to St. Rita, 6 to 5. Mount Carmel and Loyola will battle in the other game. Loyola lost, 22 to 3, to St. Philip, in addition to its defeat by De La Salle. The south siders defeated St. Philip, 6 to 4, before losing to De La Salle.

St. Rita, the seventh member of the league, will meet Mount Carmel Friday. Only seven schools of the 14 in the league are represented in the softball race.

The 36 members of the City High School Baseball league will be idle this week because of spring vacation. Play will be resumed Monday afternoon with 13 games.

Sixty-seven of the scheduled 81 games to date have been played. Postponements must be made up to avoid possible ties among more than two leaders in each section which qualify for the playoffs.

Three of the seven unbeaten teams are in the south section. These are Bowen and Fenger with three victories each and Calumet with two. In the central section Farragut has won three and Harrison, the defending league champion, two. Kelvyn Park, with four straight in the west and Lane Tech with an identical record in the north section, round out the list.

Lane is undefeated in 84 consecutive north section contests. Toughest competition for Lane will come from Taft, which has four victories and one defeat, and Von Steuben, with a 3 and 1 record.

Kelvyn Park, altho leading the west section, must find a couple of hitting outfielders to go along with its dependable pitching. Steinmetz, the 1941 league champion, and possibly Marshall and Crane, the defending west champion, are expected to offer the strongest opposition to the Panthers.

Harrison, weakened by graduation, but coming fast after a poor practice season, is expected to offer Farragut a hard battle before the sectional race is over. Gage Park, with three victories and one defeat, is a hard hitting outfit and with a little more pitching could be dangerous.

MAXIN, JORDAN HEAD TONIGHT'S MARIGOLD CARD

Joe Maxin, former Golden Gloves middleweight champion from Cleveland, may be making his last Chicago appearance for the duration when he meets Al Jordan, Kansas City, Mo., heavyweight, in 10 rounds in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

Joe, whose correct surname is Berardinelli, will report soon for induction into the army. The 21 year old Ohio boxer will be appearing in this city in his 17th bout this evening. In his previous starts, Joe scored 12 victories and suffered 4 defeats, 1 on a foul to Charley Roth, whom he knocked out in a later meeting.

Maxin to Enter Army.

Maxin's most impressive conquests here were registered over Nate Bolden, Hubert Hood, and Clarence Brown. He also holds decisions over Clarence [Red] Burman, Larry Lane, Shelton Bell, Lou Brooks, and Herbie Katz. When he defeated Brown two months ago for his second straight decision over Clarence this year, Joe weighed 180½ pounds.

That means Jordan will have an advantage of nearly 10 pounds. Al was at 190 when he outpointed the rugged Leroy Lawson of Detroit in the Marigold arena April 12.

Adams Meets Spencer.

Elbert Adams, 1942 city Golden Gloves featherweight title holder, is paired with Gene Spencer of South Chicago in an eight round semi-windup. If Adams does as well against Spencer as he did while holding Roy Lewis to a draw three weeks ago, Gene may be dealt his first beating since losing to Al Reasoner last May 14. A six round event will bring together Forrest Gee and Johnny O'Brien, while four rounders will involve Zack Robinson and Mike Edwards, and Jesse Jackson and George O'Brien.

Frankie Hart and Ned Taylor will meet Charles [Gorilla] Grubmyer and Ivan Kalmikoff in an Australian tag team match heading the wrestling show tonight in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Bill Thornton is paired with King Cole, Bobby Nelson with Jack Zeravich, and Dale Wayne with Gordon Hessell. Hart also is booked to face Bert Rubi in the windup bout of Promoter Fred Kohler's 1,000th mat card on Wednesday. The program will be held in Rainbo Fronton. Kohler has compiled this record over a period of 10 years.

Ortiz to Risk Title Against Lupe Cordoza

New York, April 25 (AP).—Manuel Ortiz, bantamweight boxing champion from California, will risk his title when he fights Lupe Cordoza of Sacramento in a 15 round bout in Fort Worth Wednesday.

Willie Pep and Jackie Callura, the active featherweight kings, also will appear on the week's boxing program. Pep, New York-recognized title holder, will meet Jackie Wilson of Pittsburgh in a 12 round bout in Pittsburgh tomorrow night and Callura, who has the N. B. A.'s blessing, will take on Tony Costa for 10 rounds on the same night in Providence, R. I. Both are non-title affairs.

Benda Coals Win from Fort Sheridan, 12 to 3

The Benda Coals semi-pro baseball team defeated the Fort Sheridan nine, 12 to 3, yesterday on Fort Sheridan field. The victory was the second of the season for the Coals.

TAX TAKES TOP RANK AS FIRM MERGER CAUSE

Little Plants Can't Afford to Profit.

BY REUBEN D. CAHN.

The excess profits tax is bringing about the concentration of business. With a tax of 90 per cent applying to all earnings in excess of a base, many small or conservatively capitalized businesses are being forced to merge with large heavily capitalized companies, or to sell out to companies or individuals with a large tax base.

Thus, Rep. Paul W. Shafer [R., Mich.] in a speech in congress on April 16 revealed that Marshall Field III., having huge losses from the operation of a newspaper, has been able to offset the losses by purchasing a number of war factories. The owners of these conservatively capitalized companies, with moderate pre-war earnings, have been willing to sell to Field now that they are making big money, because of the 90 per cent tax rate.

War Profits Are Offset.

Because of his lack of success as a publisher, Field has a tax base which the little manufacturers do not possess. If they keep their factories the government takes nearly all of their earnings. Field, however, is able to pocket the war profits because of his losses elsewhere.

In the past business consolidations were desirable from the public point of view. Not all were motivated by the elimination of competition which was keeping prices down. Many mergers were prompted by opportunities for economies in production or distribution; some to secure wider use of available raw materials; some grew out of the need for larger financial resources. Superior managerial talent in one of several competitors might make them unite. Now with the excess profits tax at 90 per cent, the all important reason for merging is tax saving.

The Commercial Credit corporation, one of the largest automobile finance companies, has had a drastic decline in its business because of the war. Its holdings of automobile paper dropped from 633 million dollars at the end of 1941 to 132 million dollars at the end of 1942. It has a high earning record and enormous capital resources, and therefore a large excess profits umbrella.

Credit Firm Branching Out.

On July 15, according to the corporation reports published by Standard Statistics company, Commercial Credit acquired the Kaydon Engineering company of Muskegon, Mich. Financial details were not made public, but it said that all of the capacity of Kaydon was engaged in war work. In January, 1943, Commercial Credit reported to the SEC that it had just purchased practically all of the stock of Crowe Name Plate and Manufacturing company of Chicago for $1,780,000. The latter company manufacturers radio parts, dials, and decorative metal products. Commercial Credit about the same time reported that for $643,000 it had acquired the Goslin Birmingham Manufacturing company of Birmingham, Ala., manufacturer of chemical equipment, castings, and heavy plate work.

Altho the financial statements of these companies were not made public, the concerns were all doing war work, were all engaged in lines foreign to the regular business of the Commercial Credit company, and it is a safe presumption, therefore, that all were pressed by excess pro-

10 YEAR OUTLAY ON DOLE PLACED AT 25 BILLIONS

Washington, D. C., April 25 (AP).—Relief in the form of doles or payments for work on public projects cost the American taxpayer nearly 25 billion dollars during the 1933-'42 decade.

That sum, including money spent by federal, state, and local governments, exceeds the entire national debt thru 1933, but is less than a third of what the federal government alone will spend in the war time fiscal year ending next June 30.

Excludes Overhead Costs.

Shown in data compiled by the social security board, the sum covers "payments to recipients of public assistance and earnings of persons employed under federal work programs in the continental United States from January, 1933, thru December, 1942. It does not take into account money spent for administrative purposes or for purchase of materials.

Biggest single item in the $24,692,000 outlay was $9,042,928,000 in federal funds paid those on the rolls of the moribund work projects administration.

The second largest single item was $6,055,431,000 credited by the security board to "general assistance," provided exclusively by state and local governments without matching federal funds.

Old Age Pensions Third.

Third was $3,024,251,000 expended on old age pensions, with the federal and state governments sharing the cost, and fourth, $2,139,008,000 that went to enrollees of the civilian conservation corps.

Other expenditures in the 10 year span, which the security board said coincided roughly with the first decade of federal participation in public aid, were given as folows:

Aid to dependent children, $900,306,000; aid to the blind, $158,976,000; federal emergency relief administration [predecessor to the WPA], $186,158,000; farm security administration, $137,268,000; national youth administration, $508,492,000; civil works program [also a WPA forerunner], $718,016, and projects operated by various federal agencies on emergency funds, $1,958,858,000.

Most of the other expenditures, made chiefly for the benefit of the unemployed, had passed their peak by 1939 and were dropping sharply.

Canada Ford Workers Vote to Return to Jobs

WINDSOR, Ont., April 25 (AP).—A shutdown which had caused idleness of about 17,000 men in the Windsor area neared an end today as employers of the Ford Motor Company of Canada voted to return to work at midnight. The United Auto Workers of America [CIO] accepted the company terms of arbitration and grievances, first step toward settling a labor dispute which caused the shutdown.

Union Carbide Sales Mount, but Earnings Dip in Quarter

Despite an increase of nearly 2 million dollars in gross income during the first quarter this year, a jump of 10 million dollars in federal income and excess profits taxes resulted in a slight decline in net profits of the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation, New York, from a year ago, the company announced yesterday.

Net earnings amounted to $9,382,021, equal to $1.01 a share, against $9,416,304, or $1.01 a share, in the first quarter last year. Gross income was $43,422,158, compared with $31,459,503 in the 1942 quarter. Estimated income and excess profits taxes were $25,187,662, against $15,006,462 a year ago.

BROWN COMPANY, manufacturer of pulp, paper, and other cellulose products, reported net income of $1,071,087 for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1942, compared with profit of $1,484,353 in the preceding year. Sales of the two companies totaled $33,467,085, compared with $32,198,400 in the 1941 fiscal year.

R. H. MACY & CO., INC., and affiliated stores had sales for the year ended Jan. 30 of $161,326,055, largest in the company's history, Jack I. Straus, president, announced yesterday. For he preceding 12 months sales were $153,522,895. EXTRA COMPENSATION.

I am paying the social security tax and the victory tax for my secretary without any deduction from her wages. Shall I include these extra amounts as salary paid when I make out my own income tax return next year or should they be listed under taxes paid? What is the effect on my secretary's tax liability?—Dr. K. J.

Answer: The treasury department has ruled that payment of an employé's victory tax by the employer, with no deduction, constitutes aditional compensation to the employé, and that the employer must have prior approval of the national war labor board or the commissioner of internal revenue before granting this pay increase. The payment of the employé's share of the social security tax by the employer is also considered additional compensation to the employé, but there has been no ruling requiring the employer to obtain permission to make such payments.

In view of these rulings, as an employer you would list as salary paid your secretary the total amount of her regular salary plus the victory tax and the social security tax paid in her behalf.

Your secretary, in filing her own income tax return, will be required to include as taxable income the full amount of victory tax and social security tax paid by you and not deducted from her salary. This means that her actual victory tax liability will be increased and an additional payment may have to be made over and above the amount withheld at the source.

Two Big Ship Companies Will Vote on Merger Plan

New York, April 25 [Special].—A special meeting of the stockholders of the International Mercantile Marine company has been called for May 20 at Hoboken, N. J., to vote on a merger of the company with the United States Lines company. Stockholders of the latter company will vote the next day in New York.

START CHICAGO HEARINGS TODAY IN MIDLAND CASE

Securities and exchange commission hearings that began two weeks ago in Philadelphia on a plan to reorganize the Midland United and Midland Utilities companies will be resumed at 10 a. m. today in room 603 of the Bankers building, 105 West Adams street. Richard Townsend, SEC trial examiner, will be in charge.

Townsend estimated last night that 200 witnesses will appear before him this week, representing nearly 30,000 stockholders and bondholders of this area who have claims against the companies. Among the largest claimants, he said, are Commonwealth Edison company, $4,500,000; Peoples Gas, Light & Coke company, $3,500,000, and the Public Service company of Northern Illinois, $1,500,000.

INDUSTRY TOLD PEACE DUTY IS PROVIDING JOBS

Chamber Will Open Meeting Today.

New York, April 25 (AP).—Private industry must look forward to building a future with "full employment at high wages and high purchasing power" as its keystones, Eric A. Johnston, Spokane, Wash., industrialist and president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, said today.

"We cannot preserve capitalism and American democracy without giving full employment," Johnston said in a general press conference, a preliminary to the four day war council and 31st annual meeting of the chamber which will begin tomorrow.

Declaring it would be necessary for private industry to prepare "to do the things the WPA was going to do," Johnston said that governmental controls, continued after the war, must be "gradually relinquished," to permit a stabilized post-war program. He declared "We cannot have a super-government run by burocracy after the war."

"The American people have tasted of regimentation, and they don't like it," Johnston said. "That is the tenor of congress today. The important thing, however, is to see that governmental regulation is eventually removed with a tapering process."

He said he believed there had been "great forward progress in the last year between business and labor," adding that only some differences of opinion as healthy evidences of democracy.

Johnston said the chamber of commerce convention will have a threefold objective — unity of purpose in winning the war and the peace, preservation of capitalism, and preservation of the American democratic form of government by a better understanding of labor and industry.

TAXES TAKE TOP RANK AS CAUSE OF PLANT SALES

Besides selling out to someone who has an excess profits tax umbrella, some concerns are buying umbrellas of their own. In New York a demand has developed for large real estate holdings organized as corporations. One of the best authorities on Manhattan real estate told the writer recently that properties there, in which large amounts had been invested yielding little or no return for many years, had recently come into active demand for tax base purposes.

Most of the examples in Chicago have been on a smaller scale, but the General Finance corporation recently purchased for $125,000 the common stock and a portion of the preferred stock of the Civic Opera building. The Opera building, heavily capitalized, lost money for many years altho it is currently in the black because of a demand for space by war agencies. The attractiveness of the building to the buyer, no doubt, was its exceedingly large excess profits tax base. Altho the buyer has been primarily an automobile finance company, it was more successful than many of its competitors in converting to war work. Thru its subsidiary, the Climax Engineering company, it is believed to be carrying on very profitably.

Inactive Firms Sought.

The most daring method of overcoming the excess profits tax is by the purchase of corporations which are no more than a shell. This situation was described by Maurice Austin in the February number of the Journal of Accountancy. Said Austin: "High excess profits tax rates have created a market for defunct and inactive corporations of little asset value, but which have high invested capital or base period earnings experience. [It is possible for a corporation with very large invested capital or base period earnings to have lost all its capital thru operations without diminishing its excess profits credit.] Corporations with prior year net losses and unused excess profits credits, and virtually worthless corporations with substantial current losses, attributable largely to accrued but unpaid interest and taxes or to depreciation of real property having a high tax basis but low present actual value, have also acquired a market value. This trend has even manifested itself in newspaper advertisments offering to buy the stock of such corporations. The plan usually contemplates merger of an existing profitable enterprise with the 'defunct' corporation or its inclusion in a consolidated return, or some other procedure by which it is sought to make the latter's 'tax advantages' available to the former."

Only in the last week advertisement appeared in Chicago offering to purchase corporations with a good balance sheet. The advertisements did not ask that the business have modern equipment or a record of profitable operation. They did not even put any limits on the line of business. The big requirement was a bargain on a balance sheet basis. One guess what the advertiser was after.

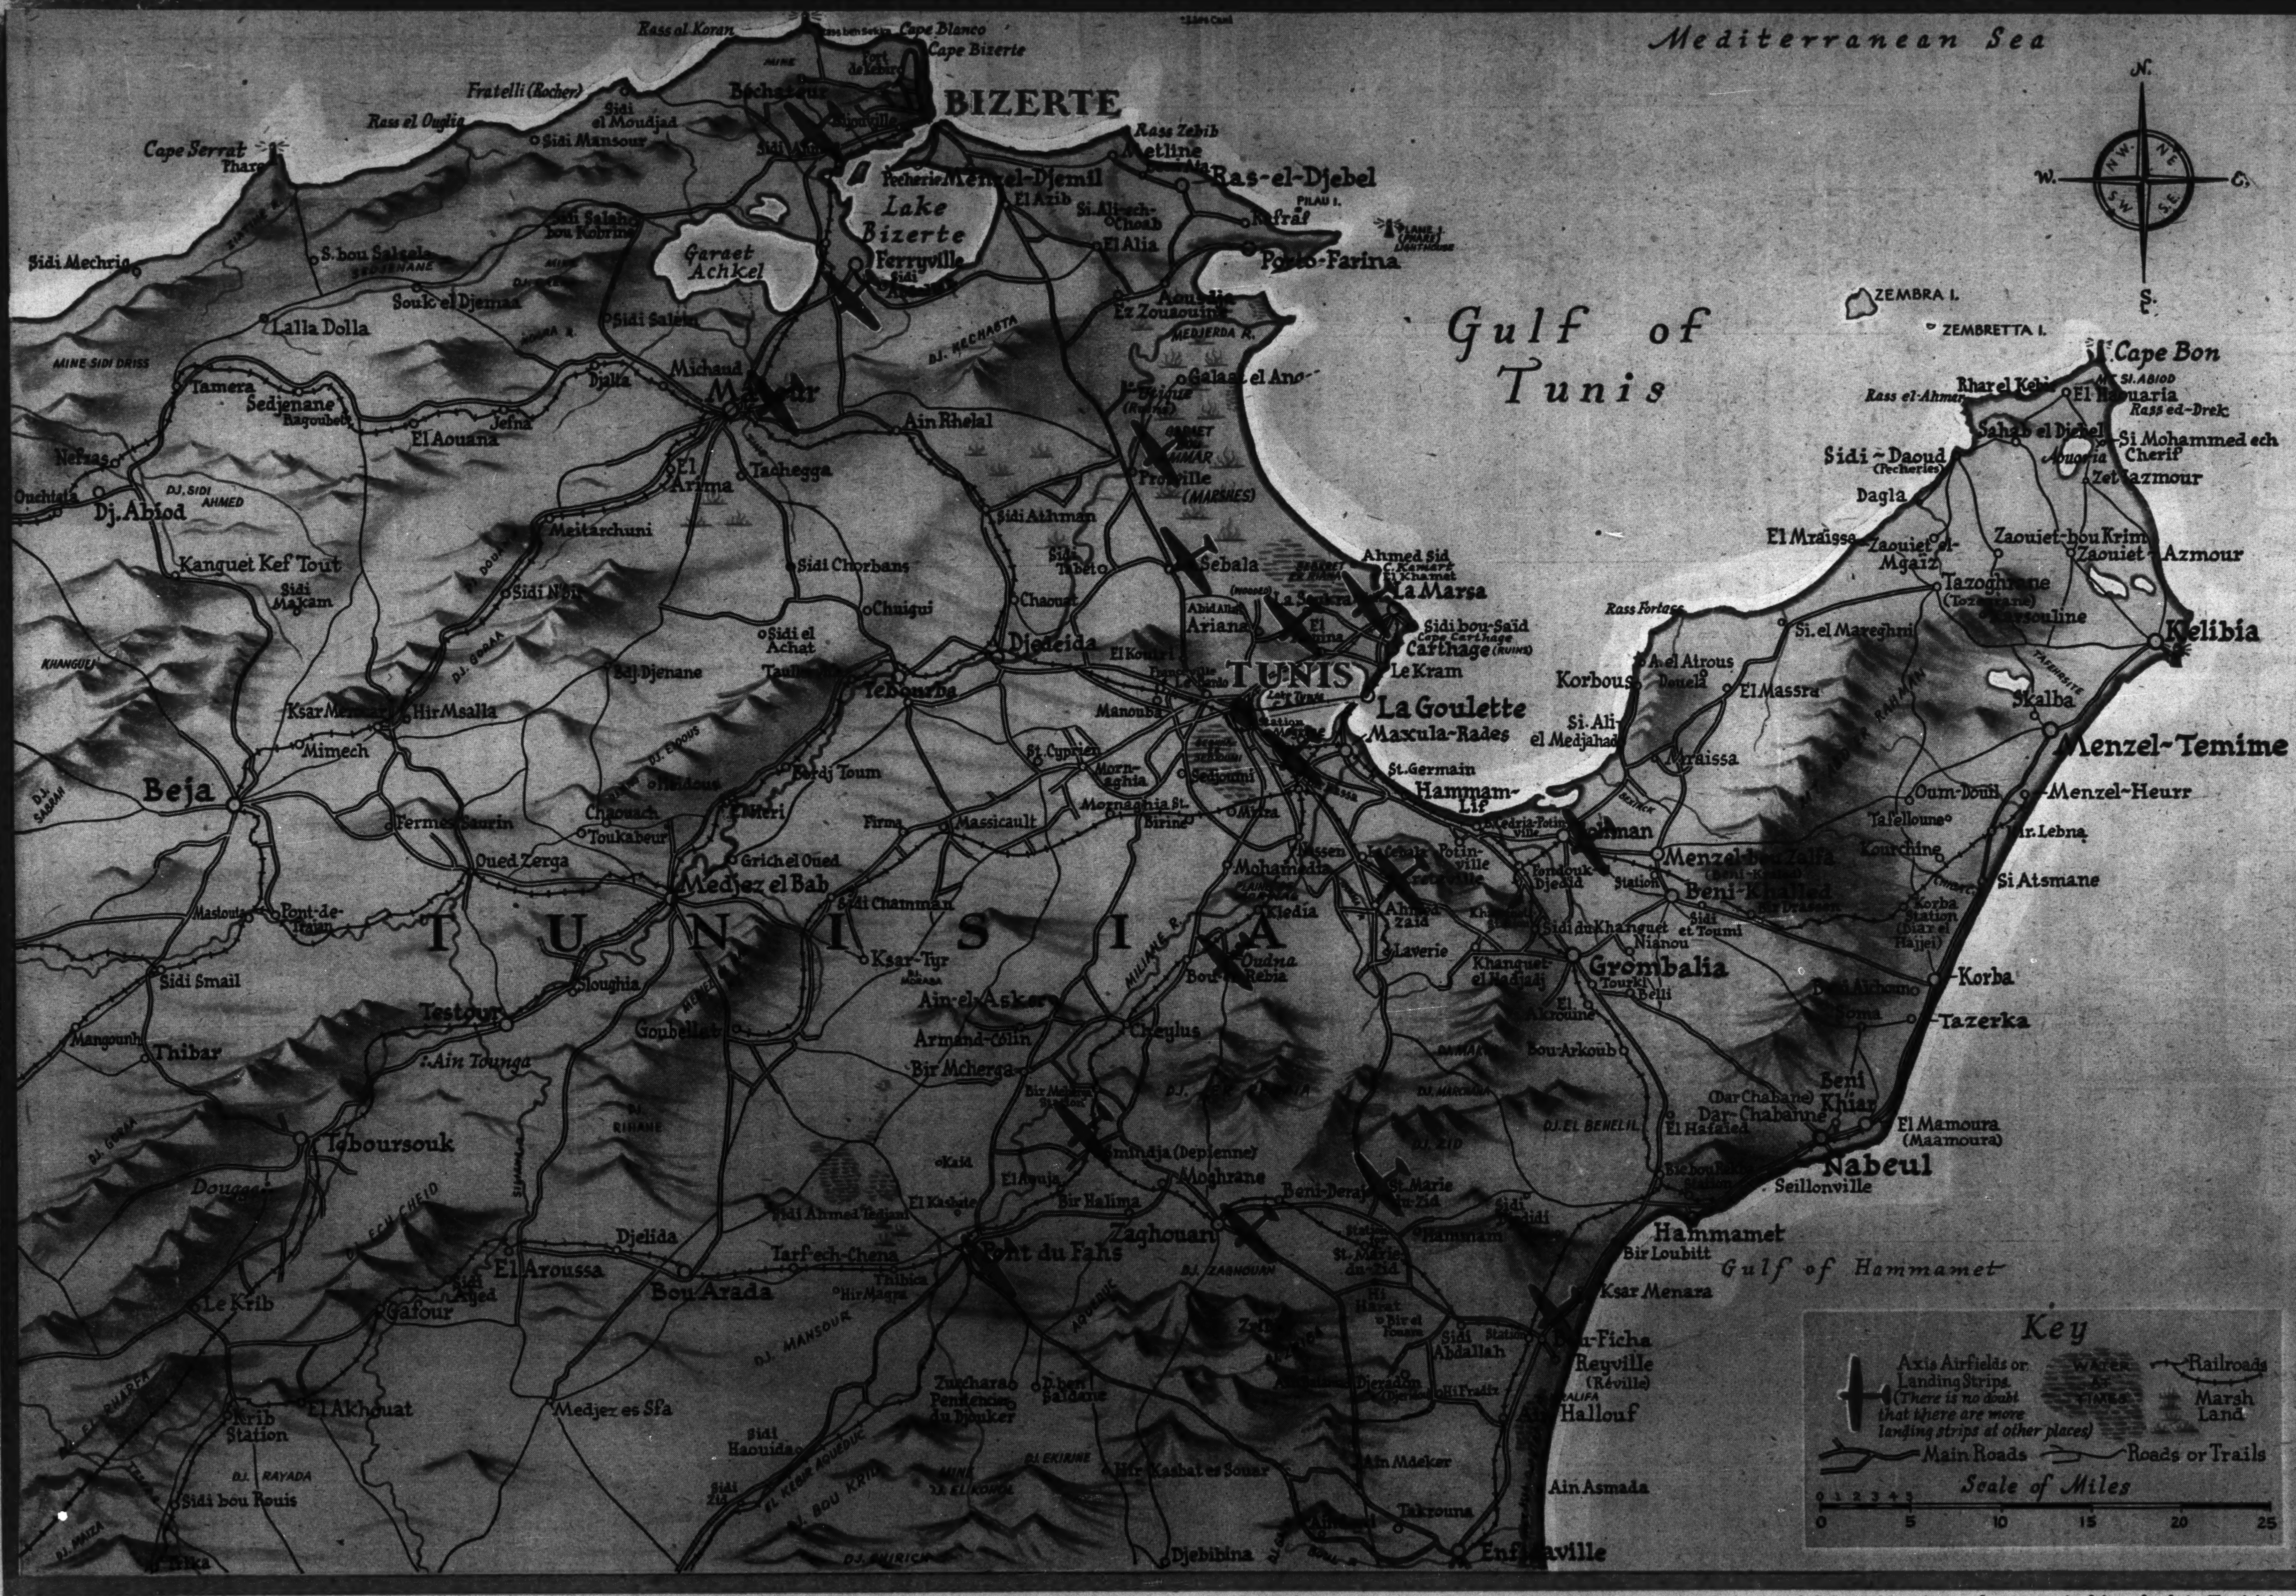
LAST AFRICAN STAND OF THE AXIS: TUNISIA'S COFFIN CORNER



This large-scale map of the war zone in Tunisia, where the axis is making its last stand in Africa, provides readers with a carefully detailed chart for following day-to-day developments. For a visualization of the scale upon which the map is drawn, note that it is less than 50 miles from Enfidaville (on the coast at lower right), captured by the British 8th army a few days ago, to Tunis, and approximately 37 miles from Tunis to the important naval base of Bizerte. Readers who wish to conjecture strategic developments will note the ridges which may afford the axis forces natural lines of defense in series as the enemy is driven back in Tunisia's coffin corner. The difficulties of the terrain in the neighborhood of Tunis and Bizerte also are indicated in accurate detail.
